Oak And Apple B&B To Be On ARC House Tour

The Oak and Apple Bed and Breakfast, located along historic Second Street in Oakland, is among the four homes that will be opened to the public on the annual American Red Cross Home for the Holidays Tour, slated for Dec. 3-4.

The circa 1915 Colonial Revival structure sits on a large landscaped town lot that includes mature oak, pine, maple, cherry, and apple trees. Originally known as the D.M. Dixon home, the large brick residence has had a number of owners.

In the 1940s the building was home to the owner of a downtown hotel, who reportedly used it only during the summer months when the hotel was filled to capacity. In 1980 the building contained three apartments and was owned by an out-of-town resident. The present owners, Ed and Janna Kite, purchased the house in 1990 and immediately began extensive renovation. They opened the Oak and Apple

A COZY SEAT in front of a warm fireplace on a cold winter night is available at the Oak and Apple Bed and Breakfast in Oakland, which will be one of the stops on the American Red Cross Christmas Tour of Homes, slated for Dec. 3-4. Oak and Apple, located along historic Second Street, is owned by Ed and Janna Kight. Tickets for the tour are available at Proudfoot's, Gregg's, and Englander's pharmacies in Oakland.

B&B in April of last year. The home is decorated with late Victorian period wallpaper and furnishings, and features fireplaces in the parlor and dining room. A focal point of the house is the foyer, which features leaded glass windows. The floors are oak hardwood, there is a glass enclosed sun porch, and a large stairway made of oak, mahogany, and cherry.

"A visit to Oak and Apple provides a truly delightful step back in time," stated Donna Heginbotham, coordinator of the Christmas Tour. Karen Reckner, of Presentations, is assisting the Kights with the decorating and has also donated a gift basket that will be raffled off during the tour.

Other hostesses at the Oak and Apple will be Betty Mina, Ruth Jackson, Frances Gnegy, Lucy Burnett, and Kitty Thompson.

Tickets for the tour are available now at Gregg's, Proudfoot's, and Englander's pharmacies in Oakland. The tour will be held on Friday, Dec. 3, from 4 until 9 p.m., and on Saturday, Dec. 4, from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. Persons desiring more information about the event may contact Mrs. Heginbotham at 334-2837.

All proceeds from the tour and the raffles will benefit the American Red Cross.

District 22-W Governor Fisher Visits Lions

District 22-W Lions Club Governor David L. Fisher spoke at a Friendsville Lions Club meeting recently. His presentation centered on community involvement and "helping your fellow man," according to a club spokesperson.

Fisher asked the Lions to respond to the organization's sight first campaign, and to aid all clubs on the international level. The spokesperson said Fisher was "very pleased" with the number of community activities with which the Friendsville club is involved, and with the recent donations to the flood victims of the mid-west.

The district governor also inducted two new members into the club during the meeting. They were Larry Frazee and Jessie Whitmore. Fisher is from the Hagerstown area. He is married to Doris L. Fisher, is the father of two children, and the grandfather of one child.

Neighborhood Watch Meeting Slated Saturday

A second Neighborhood Watch meeting will be held at the Oakland Municipal Building this Saturday at 5 p.m.

The meeting will be conducted in council chambers and all interested persons are urged to attend. Some 12-15 persons attended the first meeting, according to Chief John K. Sines of the Oakland City Police Department.

The Garrett County Crime Solvers organization is currently seeking information about the theft of a four-wheeler.

Sometime between Oct. 8 at 6 a.m. and Oct. 9 at 12:30 p.m., a 1991 Yamaha Warrior four-wheeler was stolen from the Durst residence on Amish Road in Grantsville. The vehicle was two-tone gray with purple stickers on it and a homemade stainless bumper on the front.

The vehicle was valued at $4,200.

Any person with information about this or any other unsolved crime is urged to contact Crime Solvers at 334-1975. Callers do not have to give their names nor appear in court. Rewards of up to $1,000 are available to callers who provide tips that lead to arrests.

Christmas lights will be twinkling and the air will ring with music in Grantsville this holiday season. The town lights, which were acquired by community donations in 1989, will be installed on poles along Main Street, Rt. 669 and Rt. 495 and will be lighted on November 20. Also lighted on November 20 will be the town Christmas tree planted last year by the Grantsville Lions Club and the DNR at Grantsville Town Center by the blinking light.

The annual Grantsville Community Choir Cantata will be held December 12 at 7:30 p.m. at St. Paul's United Methodist Church. On December 18 at 7 p.m. there will be a town Caroling Party. All singers in town are invited for a night of caroling beginning at St. Paul's United Methodist Church.

On Christmas Eve, the Choir and Bell Choir at St. John's United Church of Christ will perform during the Candlelight Service, beginning at 7:30 p.m. The Christmas Eve Services at St. Paul's United Methodist Church will begin at 7 p.m.

"HOLDING OUR OWN" EXHIBIT CONTINUES—The installation project "Holding Our Own," which opened last week at the Bausch & Lomb Art Gallery at Garrett Community College, will continue into the month of December. An opening reception was held Friday for the art exhibit which features 16 local women exhibiting items of personal significance, displayed in drawers, and the essays of several other local women who answered the question, "If I Only Had One Drawer." Shown above, at left, is Mabel Cassidy, 75, the oldest participant in the project, with her contribution to the exhibit. At right is Linda Reeves-Cook, curator of the show and participating artist. The installation project may be seen during the gallery's regular operating hours.

Two Oakland Establishments Enter MS "U.G.L.Y. Bartender" Contest

The U.G.L.Y. (Understanding, Generous, Lovable and Young-at-heart) Bartender Contest is a nationwide event, held annually during the month of October, and conducted by hundreds of local chapters of the National Multiple Sclerosis Society. This is one way the bartending community and beverage associations can contribute and give something back to the community. Many know someone who has multiple sclerosis. The disease strikes those in the same age range as their patrons (20 yrs. to 40 yrs.) at a time when that person is building their career and family.

The 1993 campaign was a special one. More first-time bars participated than ever before. Over 210 bars registered statewide from Oakland to Ocean City and everywhere in between.

Special recognition goes to two Oakland bars, which were the only two Western Maryland bars participating, which embraced U.G.L.Y. like never before and far exceeded their goals. Kim Sears, agent of the Oakland Elks Lodge, came in 13th statewide, and Robin "Teetie" Sines, agent of the Long Branch Saloon, came in 36th. In each instance, the agents with permission from their organization, volunteered to enter the contest.

Of the 210 bartenders who registered in the 13th annual event, only one was crowned "The Ugliest Bartender in Maryland." It was Marie Solowski, bartender at Kelly's Bar, in Fells Point. She won the contest raising over $8,000. The entire staff at the bar supported this month-long fundraiser by creating fun and outrageous promotions -- four men agreed to shave off their hair for MS!

A total of over $85,000 was raised statewide for multiple sclerosis research and programs. The funds were collected and winners announced at the 13th Annual U.G.L.Y. Bartenders Ball, November 8, in Glen Burnie.

The births of seven infants this week at Garrett County Memorial Hospital were announced this morning by a hospital spokesperson.

Admissions were listed at 83 with 67 discharges. This morning's census shows 52 patients.

A son was born November 12 to Stanley Gordon and Melinda Marie Curry Paugh, Oakland.

A daughter was born November 12 to Richard Ray and Ester Darlene Moreland

Higher Education Commission Lists FY '95 Priorities

Maryland's top spending priorities for higher education should be increased student financial aid, more programs in underserved areas of the state, incentives to make campuses more cost effective, and additional state aid to community colleges, according to a spokesperson for the Maryland Higher Education Commission.

Those priorities were part of a $48 million list of the Targeted Investments approved recently by the Commission. These recommendations will go to governor Schaefer and the General Assembly.

This is the first time the Commission has emphasized long-term, statewide higher education needs in its budget recommendations, the spokesperson said.

"This package of recommendations seeks to balance long-term needs of the state with institution requests," said J. Glenn Beall, chairman of the finance policy committee. "And it tells the governor and the General Assembly that the Commission is committed to identifying programs for funding that further the state's most important higher education goals."

Campuses submitted new spending proposals exceeding $87 million, the spokesperson said, far more than has been estimated to be available for new programs in fiscal year 1995. The priority list for new, or "above the CPS (current people and services)," programs combines statewide priorities and legal mandates included in Higher Education Reorganization Act of 1988.

These Targeted Investments address the state's three major education needs identified in Investing in People - The Maryland Plan for Postsecondary Education: improving the quality of elementary, secondary and undergraduate education; increasing access and educational attainment of all citizens by overcoming disparities in educational opportunities; and accelerating the speed at which new technology and research are transferred and commercialized.

The top four priorities are as follows: $2,139,036 to increase student financial aid

in response to higher tuition costs and to provide grants to more students; $1.5 million for regional education access grants to provide upper division and graduate level courses in Montgomery and Harford counties and in Western and Southern Maryland; $3 million to provide incentives to public campuses to improve productivity in instruction and administration so that funds can be reallocated to campus priorities; and $3,304,588 for an equity adjustment to the community college funding formula base and an additional $10 million to increase the level of state support to 32% of operating costs at the two-year institutions.

Deer Park Area Homemakers Meet

The Deer Park Homemakers met at the Deer Park fire hall on Tuesday, Nov. 9, with 18 members and one guest, Charlene Friend, in attendance. Nine Club members attended the Christmas Workshop at the Pleasant Valley Center.

A birthday card was signed by all members and sent to Fern Beachy, who just celebrated her 80th birthday.

The gift of the month was won by Betty Trickett. Hostesses were Bobby Andersen and Betty Thrasher.

Bentley Announces Candidacy For Md. Governor

Saying that, "State Government in Maryland needs a shot in the arm" to improve the state's business climate, create new jobs, get tougher on violent criminals, and improve the system of education, U.S. Representative Helen D. Bentley (R-Lutherville) has formally announced her candidacy for governor of Maryland.

Bentley, characterizing her record in Congress as one of "conservatism with compassion," and her governmental philosophy based on "simple, common-sense, yet powerful principles," stressed the need to bring fresh thinking and change to the way state government is conducted in Annapolis.

"We must improve Maryland's business climate and create new jobs by cutting the size of government and reducing taxes, streamline the state death penalty law and bring swift justice to those who violate civilized standards of behavior, and bring new life and fresh ideas into our education system," Bentley said.

The five-term Congresswoman said that, during the course of the campaign, she will provide voters with "specific proposals—with specific objectives—designed to overhaul, reform, and change our economy, our criminal justice system and our education system for the better; change to address Maryland's real needs of tomorrow, not just the easy quick fix for today."

Bentley noted that although the Democrats control the U.S. House of Representatives, and write most of the bills that become law, seven of the 70 GOP-sponsored bills that eventually became law in the last session of Congress were written by her.

Glimpse Of The Past . . .

KITZMILLER WAS KITZMILLERSVILLE in the 1920s when this photo showing both Kitmillersville and Blaine, W.Va., was taken. Note that on the Maryland side of the river (background) are the Maryland Theater and Bert Pew's Ice Cream Parlor. On the upper right is the new school (1923). sion of Congress were written by her.

"I offer my track record as an effective legislator—and successfully being able to work cooperatively—to demonstrate the type of 'get things done' governor I hope to be," she said.

Bentley also declared that Marylanders are best served by a "healthy two-party system at all levels of government" and that, in Annapolis, "new ideas are lost and long-forgotten in the anterooms of the state capitol, the bureaucracy grows merely to serve itself, and preserving the special interest status quo has immobilized the capacity for innovation and change."

Bentley continued, "Unfortunately, there's a real perception that, in Annapolis, it's not what you know, it's who you know. Some call this the 'good old boy network.' I call it wrong."

"I don't pretend to have all the answers," she concluded, "but I promise the people of Maryland this: My principles will guide my policies, my persistence and dogged determination will shake up state government for the better, and the working people of Maryland will always have the final word."

FIVE WAYS TO COOK A TURKEY

Everyone has a favorite way to cook a turkey. Christmas and Thanksgiving are crowned with a turkey dinner. Recipes have been passed down at least from grandmother's time and each generation has tried to improve and put their special touch on how the food is prepared.

A new health consciousness almost dictates that one go easy on fat and add plenty of vegetables. Holidays would not be the same without a mouth-watering meal, so what is one to do? Luckily, we do not have to forego an excellent dinner if we want to eat healthy too. And a little change may be very enjoyable.

Buy one pound of turkey per person if the bird weighs less than 12 pounds; 3/4 pounds if the turkey is over 12 pounds and allow 1/2 pound per person of turkey breast. When ready to prepare turkey, empty the inside of the neck and giblets, rinse the turkey in and out-side with cold water.

Food safety starts with the defrosting process. There are only two recommended methods: in the refrigerator or in cold water. Keep the meat cold and cook right after the turkey is defrosted. In the refrigerator allow 24 hours for each 5 lbs. of whole turkey, 1 to 2 days for turkey breast and 24 hours for other turkey parts. To defrost in cold water be sure that the water does not warm up during the defrosting process. Allow 30 minutes per pound of meat, 4 to 8 hours for turkey breast and 2 to 2 1/2 hours for other turkey parts.

Prepare 1/2 cup of stuffing per pound of turkey; 3/4 cup if the turkey weighs more than 10 pounds. Add 30 minutes to the roasting time for stuffed turkey, but do not stuff it until the turkey is ready to go into the oven. Bake extra stuffing in a covered pan alongside of the turkey the last 40 minutes of roasting time.

The OVEN COOKING BAG METHOD is the self basting method of cooking turkey. The meat will be tender and juicy and there is no mess to clean up. For easy slicing let stand 15 minutes in the bag before carefully opening the bag. FOIL TENT METHOD is probably the most traditional way to cook turkey. A tent of heavy duty foil keeps the turkey from over-browning and juice from spattering. The MICROWAVE METHOD should only be applied to small turkeys and turkey breasts. An oven cooking bag can be used in this appliance. The skin will not be crisp and the browning derived from seasoning. Let stand according to recommendations before slicing for proper doneness.

A real time saver when cooking turkey is the FOIL WRAPPED METHOD. Here the turkey will be wrapped completely in heavy duty aluminum foil and baked at a temperature of 450° F. To brown, fold back foil for the last 30 minutes of cooking time. Let stand 15 minutes in the foil before slicing. A lesser known, but delicious way to cook turkey is on the grill. For this you need a covered barbecue grill and heavy duty aluminum foil. The inside of the meat will have a pink color, not to be confused with meat that is undercooked. Also let this turkey stand in the foil for 15 minutes before slicing.

Proper handling of food and knowing how to test for doneness can assure a safe meal. A meat thermometer is the best way. Insert it into the thickest part of the inner thigh, not touching the bone. The turkey is done when the thermometer reads 180 to 185° F. A turkey breast can be checked the same way and it is done when the reading is between 170 and 175° F. If you do not have a thermometer, press the thickest part of the drumstick with protected fingers. If the meat feels soft and the drumstick twists easily in the socket, the turkey is done. You can also insert a long-tined fork in the thickest part of the turkey thigh. If the juice is clear, not pink, the turkey is done.

A Traditional Thanksgiving THE '90s WAY

Changing lifestyles leave less time and energy for preparing an extravagant Thanksgiving feast. But even the busiest cook can prepare a traditional menu of turkey, stuffing and cranberry sauce without feeling intimidated or overworked. The secret is to take advantage of a few simple (but delicious) recipes from the Thanksgiving experts. Butterball Turkey and Ocean Spray Cranberries.

- 1/2 cup margarine or butter
- 4 cups coleslaw mix (shredded cabbage and carrot)
- 1 cup chopped onion
- 1/2 cup finely chopped celery
- 1 8-ounce can sliced water chestnuts, drained and chopped
- 1/4 cup grated Parmesan cheese
- 1/2 teaspoon poultry seasoning (optional)
- 1 14-ounce package dried herb seasoned bread cubes
- 1 1/4 to 1 1/2 cups water or chicken broth
- 1 14- to 16-pound Butterball® Turkey (thawed, if frozen)
- Vegetable oil

Melt margarine in large skillet over medium heat. Add coleslaw mix, onion and celery; cook until tender. Stir in water chestnuts, cheese and, if desired, seasoning. In large bowl, toss together bread cubes and vegetable mixture. Pour water over bread cube mixture to moisten; stir lightly. Set aside.

Preheat oven to 325°. Remove neck and giblets from turkey cavities. Drain turkey well. Stuff neck and body cavities lightly with stuffing. Turn wings back to hold neck skin. Place turkey, breast side up, on flat rack in open pan, about 2 inches deep. Insert meat thermometer deep into thickest part of thigh next to body, not touching bone. Brush skin with oil. Place turkey in oven and roast 4 to 4 1/2 hours. When skin is golden brown (about two thirds done), shield breast loosely with lightweight aluminum foil to prevent overbrowning. Check for doneness; thigh temperature should be 180° and stuffing 160°. Let turkey stand 15 to 20 minutes before carving. Makes 12-14 servings (10 cups of stuffing).

Cranberry Apple Pie

- 6 medium apples, peeled, cored and sliced
- 1 16-ounce can Ocean Spray® Whole Berry Cranberry Sauce
- 1/2 cup brown sugar
- 1/2 cup flour
- 1/2 teaspoon cinnamon
- 1/2 teaspoon nutmeg

Preheat oven to 350°. Combine apples and cranberry sauce in a medium mixing bowl. Combine brown sugar, flour, cinnamon and nutmeg in a separate mixing bowl; add to apple mixture, mixing well. Turn into a pastry-lined pan. Cover with top crust, crimp edges. Cut slits in top crust. Bake for 1 hour or until crust is golden brown and filling bubbles. Makes one 9-inch pie.

For answers to all of your Thanksgiving turkey questions, call the Butterball Turkey Talk Line at 1-800-323-4848 in the United States and Canada or 1-800-TDD-3848 for the hearing impaired. The line is open Monday through Friday, November 1 through December 23, including Thanksgiving Day.

- 1/2 of a red onion, sliced
- 1 16-ounce can Ocean Spray® Whole Berry Cranberry Sauce
- 1 1/2 tablespoons coarsely grated orange zest

Cut onion rings in half and place in a glass or plastic mixing bowl. Microwave on high for about 5 minutes or until the onions are limp. Stir in cranberry sauce and orange zest. Makes about 2 cups.

EVERYONE LOVES LEFTOVERS!

The day after Thanksgiving is the perfect time to call the relatives back for another day of food and fun with a Post-Holiday Brunch. Put your leftovers to good use with quick and easy recipes that make a simple but satisfying meal. Or if you dread the thought of preparing another meal, try these quick tips:

- ♦ For a light and tangy lunch, stir-fry turkey strips, top with warm cranberry sauce and serve on a bed of lettuce.
- ♦ A turkey and cranberry sauce sandwich is the ideal late supper or midnight snack.
- ♦ Hawaiian turkey kebabs make an appetizing, yet quick and easy dinner for your family. Just skewer turkey chunks, bell pepper wedges, whole pearl onions and pineapple chunks, brush with heated cranberry sauce and broil.
- ♦ Warm cranberry sauce in the microwave or on stovetop. Spoon over turkey crepes, turnovers or French toast.

Savory Cranberry Turkey Casserole

- 2 cups cooked Butterball® Turkey, cut into 1/2-inch cubes
- 1 cup onion, finely diced
- 1 teaspoon thyme
- 1 cup Ocean Spray® Jellyed Cranberry Sauce
- 1 cup baking mix
- 1 cup milk
- 2 eggs

Preheat oven to 400°. Grease a 9 1/2-inch casserole dish. Combine turkey, onion and thyme. Spread evenly on bottom of pan. Break up cranberry sauce with a fork until smooth. Spoon by teaspoonfuls randomly over turkey.

Combine baking mix, milk and eggs in a blender. Blend on high speed for 1 minute. Pour over casserole.

Bake for 30 minutes or until a toothpick inserted into the center comes out clean. Makes 8-10 servings.

Fruity Mocha Sensation

- 1/2 cup semi-sweet chocolate chips
- 2 cups heavy cream
- 2 tablespoons powdered sugar
- 1 16-ounce can Ocean Spray® Jellyed Cranberry Sauce
- 1/4 cup corn syrup
- 1/4 cup coffee-flavored liqueur
- 1/4 cup semi-sweet chocolate chips

Melt chocolate on low heat or microwave for 2 minutes on HIGH; place in a medium mixing bowl.

Using an electric mixer on high speed, add 1/2 cup cream, 1 tablespoon at a time, mixing well after each addition. Gradually add remaining cream and powdered sugar, whipping until stiff peaks form. Spoon into individual dessert dishes. Chill at least 1 hour before serving.

Combine cranberry sauce, corn syrup, coffee liqueur and chocolate chips in a medium saucepan. Cook over medium heat until smooth, whisking frequently. Cool to room temperature. Serve over chilled chocolate mixture. Makes 6-8 servings.

Cranberry Turkey Wontons

- 1 16-ounce can Ocean Spray® Whole Berry Cranberry Sauce
- 1/2 cups cooked Butterball® Turkey, finely chopped
- 1 cup onion, finely diced
- 1/2 tablespoons soy sauce
- 1 16-ounce package wonton wrappers
- 2 tablespoons margarine or butter, melted

Preheat oven to 375°. Grease a jelly roll pan. Combine cranberry sauce, turkey, onion and soy sauce in a large mixing bowl. Spoon one rounded teaspoon of filling in the center of a wonton wrapper. Lightly brush edges with water. Bring two opposite corners together over filling; pinch edges together to seal. Repeat on opposite side. Continue until all of the filling is used. Wrap up any remaining wonton wrappers for another use. Place wontons on prepared pan.

Brush wontons with margarine. Bake for 10 minutes or until crisp and golden brown. Makes about 20 wontons.

Cranberry Turkey Waldorf Salad

- BATTER:
- 1/2 cup flour
- 2 tablespoons sugar
- 1/2 cup milk
- 1 egg

- SALAD:
- 2 cups cooked Butterball® Turkey, cut into 1/2-inch pieces
- 1 cup apple, peeled and cut into 1/2-inch pieces
- 1/2 cup celery, diced
- 1/4 cup chopped walnuts
- 1 cup Ocean Spray® Whole Berry Cranberry Sauce
- 1/4 cup mayonnaise
- Red leaf lettuce for garnish

Preheat oven to 400°. Grease a 9-inch pie plate.

Combine all batter ingredients in a medium mixing bowl. Beat using an electric mixer for one minute. Pour batter into prepared pan. Bake for 20 minutes or until golden brown. If center has pulled, place a clean pot holder or dish towel on top and gently press down. Set aside. Take pancake from pan, cool.

Combine turkey, apple, celery and walnuts in a large mixing bowl. Combine cranberry sauce and mayonnaise in a separate bowl. Add to turkey mixture, mixing well.

Line pancake with lettuce. Place salad inside. Chill until serving time. Makes 6-8 servings.

Cranberry Turkey Muffuletta

- 1 7-inch round pumpernickel bread
- 1 cup Ocean Spray® Jellyed Cranberry Sauce
- 4 garlic cloves, minced
- 2 tablespoons coarsely chopped fresh basil
- 6 thin slices red onion
- 1 cup shredded Monterey Jack cheese
- 4 medium slices cooked Butterball® Turkey

Preheat oven to 350°. Slice the top quarter off the bread. Hollow out bottom and top of the bread, leaving a 1/2-inch shell. Use the bread you pull out for croutons or bread crumbs. Set hollowed-out bread shell aside.

Combine cranberry sauce, garlic and basil in a small mixing bowl. Spread in bottom of shell and top of bread. Place 3 slices of onion in bottom of bread. Top with 1/2 cup of cheese. Layer turkey on top. Spread remaining cheese over turkey and top with remaining onion. Place top on bread.

Wrap loaf in foil. Bake for 30 minutes or until heated through. Remove from oven and let sit for about 5 minutes. Unwrap, cut into wedges and serve. Makes 4-6 servings.

Julie Swauger And James Dunithan United In Double-Ring Ceremony

Julie Annette Swauger and James Andrew Dunithan were united in marriage during a double-ring ceremony on April 19 at Oak Grove Church of the Brethren, with the Rev. Donald D. Matthews officiating.

Gave Rodeheaver served as pianist and played wedding selections prior to the ceremony. Rebecca Fike was vocalist and sang The Rose and The Lord's Prayer. A Whole New World was played during the lighting of the unity candle.

The bride is the daughter of Harold and Linda Swauger, Friendsville. The groom is the son of Barbara Dunithan, Northfield, N.H., and Harri Dunithan, Richmond, Va.

The bride, given in marriage by her parents and escorted to the altar by her father, was attired in a floor-length white satin gown. The form-fitting bodice was accented with lace in the shape of a heart and the V-neckline was accented with lace, sequins, and pearls. The V-shaped waistline was adorned with lace, sequins, and tear-drop pearls. The long satin sleeves were highlighted with lace and ended in bridal points at the wrist. The V-shape was repeated on the back with a large bow accenting the waistline, flowing into a semi-cathedral train. She wore a pearl necklace and earrings.

The gown, designed by the bride, was made at Fran's Patterns. Her headpiece was fashioned of white flowers and seed pearls flowing to a lavender-ribbon veil. She carried a cascading bouquet of white and mauve flowers accented with greenery, seed pearls and mauve ribbons tied in love knots.

Crystal Williams, sister of the bride, served as matron of honor, and the maid of honor was Joy Thrasher, friend of the bride. Stephanie Thomas, Debbie Carpenter and Amy Glotfely, all friends of the bride, served as bridesmaids.

The attendants each wore a bridal satin mauve gown with a heart-shaped neckline, puffy sleeves, and a high-low hemline. The V-waist was accented with a large bow in the back. They carried bouquets of white and mauve flowers accented with lace, seed pearls, and mauve streamers.

Shayla Rodeheaver, friend of the bride, was the flower girl. She wore a black and mauve flowered dress with a ruffled hemline. Her braided hair was accented with baby's breath, and she carried a white basket of mauve flower petals.

The groom was attired in a black tuxedo with tails and a white bow tie and cummerbund. Harold Dunithan, brother of the groom, and Scott Swauger, brother of the bride, served as bestmen, and John Brobst, Jarius Lewis, and Jon Garner, all friends of the groom, were the groomsmen. Ushers were Jesse Brink, friend of the groom, and Robert Williams, brother-in-law of the bride. Brian Williams, nephew of the bride, was the ring bearer and carried a heart-shaped white satin pillow. The groom's attendants wore black tuxedos with tails, mauve bow ties, and cummerbunds.

Kelly Friend, friend of the bride, registered the guests, and Andy and Shawn Fike, cousins of the bride, distributed the programs and bird seed.

The reception, which followed the ceremony, was held at Northern High School. Donna Carr, Kay Beachy, and Patricia Yoder set up the buffet-style luncheon. The three-tier wedding cake, baked by Norma Rodeheaver, was decorated with daisies in shades of mauve. On each side of the wedding cake were heart-shaped cakes decorated with mauve daisies and doves. A pearl archway accented with tiers of white lace, flowers, pearls, mauve roses, and ribbons topped the cake.

Following a honeymoon trip through Massachusetts and New Hampshire, the couple established residence in Chesapeake, Va.

Both the bride and groom are graduates of Northern High School. The bride is attending college to obtain a degree in respiratory therapy, and the groom is enlisted in the United States Coast Guard.

Wedding guests attending from out of state were from Ohio, Virginia, West Virginia, New Hampshire, Pennsylvania, and Massachusetts.

Laura Sines Becomes Bride Of Michael Bowyer In August Ceremony

Laura Jean Sines and Michael Wayne Bowyer were united in marriage, August 21, during a 4:30 p.m. double-ring ceremony at the Friendsville United Methodist Church. Pastor Edd Myers officiated.

Lucile Sines, great-aunt of the bride, was organist. Eli Ann Fife, friend of the bride, and Michael Hale-Cooper, cousin of the bride, were vocalists.

The bride is the daughter of Gene and Lois Sines, Friendsville. The groom is the son of Dan and Maxine Gaumer, Grantsville.

Lon Sines, cousin of the bride, served as acolyte. Dorothy Lowdermilk, friend of the bride's family, was the wedding coordinator.

Two flower arrangements of red roses were placed on the altar in memory of the bride and groom's grandparents, Elwood and Freda Riley and Foster and Helen Thomas.

Preceding the ceremony, both mothers lighted candles on the altar, and during the ceremony the couple lighted the unity candle. Both mothers were presented with a red rose from the bride and groom.

Given in marriage by her parents and escorted to the altar by her father, the bride wore a gown of royal satin, heavily beaded with Alencon lace. Lace defined the Basque bodice with a sweetheart neckline and long, pointed sleeves with a shoulder puff and small butterfly bows. The full skirt was enhanced by lace cutouts and a lace hemline swept to a scalloped, chapel-length train. Etched with cutout lace, the train carried double butterfly bows with cascading pearls.

The bride wore a V-shaped headband accented with pearls and rhinestones, and the crystal bridal illusion formed a small pouf and two tiers of V-shaped veiling that was edged with pearls. The bride's jewelry consisted of a diamond heart pendant which was a gift from the groom. The bride carried a crescent bouquet of fresh red roses, mini carnations, baby's breath, and greenery.

Serving her sister as matron of honor was Cindy Lowdermilk, Friendsville. Bridesmaids were Linda Frazee, friend of the bride, Judy Sines and Becky Sines, sisters-in-law of the bride, and Regina Friend, friend of the bride, all of Friendsville. Junior bridesmaid was Kerri Sines, sister of the bride, and Hannah Jo Sines, niece of the bride, was the flower girl, both of Friendsville.

The matron of honor and bridesmaids wore red satin, tea-length dresses, fashioned by Janet Fike, Friendsville. They all wore black satin gloves with bows. Each carried a fresh single red rose with baby's breath, greenery and black and red ribbons.

The flower girl wore a matching red satin, floor-length dress with white ruffles, also fashioned by Janet Fike. She wore white gloves and carried a small white basket of red rose petals. Her hat featured red and black ribbon accented with black and red lace and white pearls.

Serving as best man was Rowland Dennie, friend of the groom. Rockville Groomsman were Michael Nesser, friend of the groom, Cumberland, Carl Hawkins, friend of the groom, Gaithersburg; Kevin Sines, brother of the bride, and Rodney Friend, friend of the groom, both of Friendsville.

Junior groomsmen was Chris Sines, cousin of the bride, Friendsville. Ring bearer was Darrick Lowdermilk, nephew of the bride, Friendsville.

The groom was attired in a black tuxedo with a white stained-glass tie and cummerbund. The groomsmen and ring bearer wore black tuxedos with red stained-glass ties and cummerbunds.

Red and black balloons were launched following the ceremony. The bride and groom were chauffeured to the reception at the BPO Elks Lodge in Oakland in a white stretch limousine.

A buffet dinner was catered by JoAnn Meyers, Friendsville. Edna Sines, grandmother of the bride, and Ethel Artice, aunt of the bride, baked the rolls. Patsy Baker, aunt of the bride, provided cookie trays, and Dorothy Lowdermilk prepared the punch, which was given as a gift to the couple.

The four-foot long cake was baked and given as a gift to the couple by Nancy Arsenberger. It was decorated with red and black silk roses, staircases, and a fountain. The punch was served by Doug and LouAnn Sines, uncle and aunt of the bride. Patsy Baker and Norma Efrementko, aunts of the bride, served the cake.

Music was provided by GO 106 DJ Jeff Taylor. Rick Lowdermilk, brother-in-law of the bride, Valerie Frazee, and Betty Frantz filled helium balloons for the wedding and reception. Distributing programs was Alison Sines, cousin of the bride, and registering guests was Jenni Golden, friend of the bride. The wedding and reception were videotaped by Danny Sines, brother of the bride, and Lucretia Sines, aunt of the bride. Photographer was Beth Doerr of McHenry.

A rehearsal dinner was hosted by the groom's parents at Ravens Inn. The bride was the guest of honor at two showers, one hosted by her matron of honor and bridesmaids, and the other given at work by her co-worker, Becky Thomas.

Following a honeymoon trip to Antigua in the Caribbean, the couple set up residence in Friendsville.

The bride is a graduate of Northern High School and Allegany Community College. She is employed by James Moen, M.D., in LaVale.

The groom attended Frostburg State University and is a graduate of Northern High School and Allegany Community College. He is employed by Monongalia General Hospital in Morgantown, W.Va.

Students Complete Art Residency At Hickory Center

A total of six Southern High School art students recently completed a four-day arts residency at the Hickory Environmental Education Center. The students, part of art instructor Sonia Pratt's advanced art class and under the direction of Artist-in-Education resident artist Don Cook, completed a group of outdoor site sculptures on the grounds of the Hickory Center during their stay.

"The residency was designed to encourage a sensitivity and responsiveness to the environment, and the students centered their projects on the basic natural elements -- earth, air, fire, and water," stated Cook. "Works were designed to integrate empathetically into the Hickory Center's natural setting with minimal environmental impact, using downed materials and temporary construction techniques."

Completed projects ranged from a five-foot square enclosure capped with an earthen mound, embellished with patterned stones and ferns, to a small boat constructed of heart-shaped branches with woven iris blades and vine, noted Cook. Other works, reflecting a diversity of natural phenomena from ice and snow to the position of stars in the night sky, included a large spiral of stones, leaves, and pine branches located in a meadow, a swing of branches which responded to passing breezes, "a delicate crown" composed of a stone ring, snow, icicles and berries, a stone gateway which marked a pine enclosure, an arrangement of burning candles which formed the pattern of the fall constellation Taurus in a darkened glade, a bleak stone cairn posed under a power-line tower, and a small conical house of stone and branches marking the end of a corridor of pine trees.

"The diversity and power of these works reflected both the students' imaginative responses to natural materials, setting, and phenomena, and the rich variety of terrain and resources available at the Hickory Environmental Education Center site," said Cook.

In addition to artist Don Cook and the Hickory Center staff, on-site support assistance was also provided by Southern High School art instructors Sonia Pratt and Linda Reeves-Cook. Participating residency students included Jaska Bolden, Andy Craver, Shannon Dabney, Melissa Sines, Crystal Stacy, and Jeremy Warnick.

During the course of the residency, visiting day students to the Hickory Center had an opportunity to interact with the pieces and talk

well as the natural setting, to create their projects. Pictured are four of those creations. with the art students. A class of visiting Dennett Road Elementary School students responded to the works with a series of "evocative and lively drawings," said Cook.

Given the "temporary and often elusive nature" of the sculpture projects, Cook reported that extensive photo documentation was conducted during the residency. As a follow-up to the project, Cook will be assisting students in designing documentary panels describing their work.

The Hickory Environmental Education Center residency was a component of a 20 day design and structure program conducted by Cook in three Southern High art classes. The program was made possible by a cooperative effort of the Garrett County Board of Education and the Maryland State Arts Council.

Penn State's Dairy Nutrition Satellite Workshops Offered in Garrett Co.

The Garrett County Extension Service, in cooperation with Garrett Community College, will be downlinking the 1994 Penn State University's Dairy Nutrition Teleconference and Workshops. The program is intended for producers who want to improve their feeding management practices and gain a better understanding of ruminant nutrition. The program consists of three workshops starting at 10 a.m. and ending at 3 p.m. on Feb. 15, 17 and 24, 1994.

WORKSHOP 1, FEB. 15
The first workshop will consider how the physical characteristics of forages impact the lactating cow's diet. The program will include forage sampling techniques, various methods to determine moisture content of forages, determining forage particle size and the agronomic side of forage quality. Participants are encouraged to bring one forage sample to this workshop so that it can be analyzed for the next program. The sample can be a hay crop, forage or corn silage that is being fed to lactating animals. There is no charge for testing the sample.

WORKSHOP 2, FEB. 17
In this segment, each producer's forage sample and program will be considered in relation to forage dry matter intake and forage central detergent fiber intake. In addition, protein fractions and carbohydrate types will be examined closely. Participants also will have the opportunity to solve a herd problem.

WORKSHOP 3, FEB. 24
Feeding heifers and early dry cows, as well as close-up feeding of dry cows, will be considered in the morning session. Early lactation cows and feeding various fat sources will be the focus in the afternoon. Nutrition, feeding management, and feeding strategies will be stressed for each animal.

How do you register for the program? Early registration by Dec. 8 is requested so that the appropriate number of nutrition school notebooks and other materials can be sent on time to each of the program sites. Seating at the Garrett Community College will be limited to 60. A $25 registration fee per farm covers notebooks and other materials. To register or obtain additional information, persons may contact the Garrett County Extension Office at 334-1999.

MDA Honored At Governor's Quality Award Ceremonies

Maryland Secretary of Agriculture Robert L. Walker has announced that the Maryland Department of Agriculture (MDA) won third place in the first ever Governor's Quality Award competition. Governor William Donald Schaefer presented the awards in ceremonies in Baltimore Nov. 1. The awards were given to state agencies honoring them for leadership in the total quality process and their efforts to involve their employees in all aspects of the running of their departments through employee involvement teams and open lines of communication. The Maryland Department of Agriculture was one of 15 applicants for this prestigious award and was the only cabinet-level department among the winners. "I am extremely excited that the Maryland Department of Agriculture won the bronze in the Governor's Pinnacle Award for Quality. This honor recognizes that our department is committed to employee involvement and in serving our customers, the people of Maryland. I am proud of the dedication and hard work of the employees of MDA," Walker said.

The first place winner, the State Highway Administration of the Department of Transportation and the second place winner, the Brandenburg Center of the Department of Health and Mental Hygiene, are units of large departments.

Judges for these awards came from the private sector and local government. Besides submitting an application which responded to specific criteria in four categories, agency finalists underwent a site visit where the panel of judges had a first hand opportunity to talk to administrators and employees.

Maryland Wheat Production Down 15 Percent

The 1993 winter wheat yield was 54 bushels per acre, the second highest on record, according to the Maryland Agricultural Statistics Service. Most of the state's early growing season was cool and wet contributing to the good yields. Drier, warmer weather beginning in July helped wheat producer at harvest. The wheat yield of 54 bushels per acre was four bushels lower than the record high yield of 58 bushels per acre of last year's crop.

Winter wheat production, at 10.5 million bushels, was 15 percent lower than last year's production. In addition to the lower yield, the lower production was a result of a lower harvested acreage of 200,000. Barley production was estimated at 4.5 million bushels in 1993, two percent more than 1992. A lower yield of 69 bushels per acre, down four bushels from last year's record high 73 bushels per acre, was offset by a higher harvested acreage of 69,000 acres for the increased production. Oats production for 1993 was 424,000 bushels, 29 percent less than last year's production. A decline in harvested acreage from 9,000 to 8,000 and a decline in yield from the record high 66 bushels per acre to 53 bushels per acre resulted in the lower production. Rye production was 185,000 bushels, 11 percent less than a year ago. The reduced production was caused by a reduced yield from last year's record high 37 bushels per acre to 33. Harvested acreage remained the same at 5,000.

Soybean production, forecast at 17.1 million bushels, will be off five percent from 1992 if expectations are realized. Soybeans are expected to averaged 30 bushels per acre and 570,000 acres are forecast for harvest statewide. Corn for grain in Maryland is expected to average 90 bushels per acre compared to the record high 124 bushels in 1992. If October 1 expectations are realized, farmers will harvest 410,000 acres of corn and production will total 36.9 million bushels, 37 percent less than the 58.3 million bushels harvested in the state during 1992.

Corn for grain production revision for 1993 in the United States is 6.96 billion bushels, 27 percent below last year's crop. The U.S. average yield per acre is forecast at 110.3 bushels, down 21.3 bushels from a year ago. Soybean production forecast of the 1993 crop is 1.39 billion bushels, down 14 percent from the previous year. Yield is expected to be 33.7 bushels per acre, down 3.9 bushels from 1992.

Corn Grain Harvest Nears Completion

Through the week ending November 14, Maryland farmers harvested 92 percent of the corn grain acreage. This was ahead of last year's progress of 78 percent harvested and slightly ahead of the normal five year average of 89 percent harvested at this time of year.

Topsoil moisture rating was 94 percent adequate and 6 percent surplus. Subsoil moisture was 28 percent short, 67 percent adequate, and 5 percent surplus. Conditions allowed an average of 5.4 days suitable for fieldwork during the week, according to the Maryland Agricultural Statistics Service.

Statewide, hay supplies were short to adequate. Pasture feed averaged in excellent condition. Sorghum was in fair to good condition. Small grains were rated in good condition.

Maryland's progress for the week ending November 14 was as follows, listing the item, this year's percentage, last year's percentage and a percentage for the 5-year average.

Wheat seeded, 90, 76, 85; rye seeded, 93, 54, 90; corn grain harvested, 92, 78, 89; soybeans harvested, 64, 59, 70; sorghum harvested, 53, 56, N/A; alfalfa hay, fifth cutting, 66, 68, 66; other hay, fourth cutting, 86, 90, 75.

N/A Not available WEATHER

Maryland weather for the week ending November 12 had below normal temperatures and precipitation. Temperatures averaged 44.6 degrees, 2.5 degrees below the normal of 47.1 degrees for the November 6 to November 12 period. Minimum temperatures ranged from 17 degrees at Oakland to 33 at Patuxent, but generally in the upper 20's. Maximum temperature was 72 degrees at Hancock but generally in the mid 60's. Precipitation averaged 0.11 inch, 0.65 inch below the normal of 0.76. Precipitation ranged from none at several locations to 0.42 inch at Cambridge. Regional averages were: western, 0.34; north central, 0.01; southern Maryland west of the Bay, 0.06; and the Eastern Shore, 0.29.

Md. Pesticide Inspector Earns EPA Award

Maryland Secretary of Agriculture Robert L. Walker has announced that John E. Schnaitman, III, of the Maryland Department of Agriculture's Pesticide Regulation Section has been named the 1993 "Outstanding Inspector of the Year" by Region III of the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency (EPA). Schnaitman received the award at the annual Region III Inspectors Workshop held in West Virginia October 25-29.

Schnaitman was honored for his efforts in aiding EPA in stopping the national sale and distribution of an ineffective medical disinfectant. The disinfectant was used in medical, dental and veterinary facilities for critical infection control. Schnaitman also was responsible for bringing criminal charges against two individuals who defrauded an elderly widow of $14,000 by applying "magic crystals" to control insects in her home. He has developed training courses for use by pesticide inspectors across the country.

"We are extremely proud of Schnaitman's achievements in serving the people of Maryland and the nation. He was selected for this award from candidates representing all EPA Region III states, Pennsylvania, Virginia, West Virginia, Maryland, Delaware and the District of Columbia. His accomplishments reflect highly on him and our state pesticide regulation program," Walker said.

EPA created the annual pesticide award to recognize the commitment and dedication of state inspectors whose work supports the federal pesticide program, including educational services to the public and regulatory group.

Schnaitman has been employed by the department since September 1981 and currently serves as the Supervising Inspector for the Pesticide Regulation Section, responsible for training, planning and conducting compliance program activities.

I'm Goofed Up

The dairy farmers that are on my mailing list received a few days ago notification of the Penn State's Dairy Nutrition Workshops. I failed to indicate that the $25 registration fee was on a per farm basis. The fee covers the school notebook and other materials which can be shared. However, due to the limited seating capacity, I may have to limit the number of people from individual farms. I will just wait and see how the registration comes in. We can accommodate 50 people. Remember to get your registration in by December 8.

Did You Record Your Crop Yields?
Did your acre of corn make you money or could you have bought the same amount of corn cheaper? If you don't know the correct answer to this question, you may not have a good 'handle' on managing your business. By knowing the exact yields per acre and the cost inputs to obtain those yields, you now have the information to analyze the situation. If the situation is negative, you must ask yourself, "Why?" Answers to the "whys" will generally uncover the problems.

Sometimes the problem may be technical and other times a management problem. Once you have identified the nature of the problem, you are now in the "driver's seat" to correct the situation. I have a lot of information that can assist you in calculating stored crops. While determining yields as you harvest is the most accurate way, calculating stored material, plus what already has been utilized, will put you in the ball park on an average yield per acre on your farm. Since this information is a general view of your farm, you may have problems in targeting in on specific fields.

USDA Report: NAFTA Will Mean More Jobs For U.S. Ag Sector

The increase in U.S. agricultural exports to Mexico from the North American Free Trade Agreement (NAFTA) should create an additional 56,000 jobs, says Keith Collins, USDA's acting assistant secretary for economics.

"U.S. agricultural exports to Mexico are expected to reach $10.1 billion by year 2008 when NAFTA is fully implemented," says Collins. "This compares to an estimate of $7.5 billion without NAFTA."

Based on a recently completed update of USDA's March 1993 report, "Effects of the North American Free Trade Agreement on U.S. Agricultural Commodities," NAFTA would result in an increase of $2.6 billion in U.S. agricultural exports to Mexico and generate 56,000 new jobs.

The largest commodity increase under NAFTA is pegged for cattle, at $880 million of additional exports, followed by pork, $440 million; corn, $280 million; soybeans, $220 million; beef and dairy products, both $140 million; fruits, $125 million; poultry, $50 million; and vegetables and wheat, both projected at $40 million. Other commodities are expected to register additional exports of $275 million.

"The United States exported $3.8 billion of agricultural products to Mexico in 1992," says Collins. "This was 40 percent above the level in 1990 when NAFTA negotiations were announced. Agricultural exports at the 1992 level accounted for 111,000 jobs."

Collins notes that USDA analysts have determined what the change in trade value for U.S. exports to Mexico, for selected farm commodities, will be in 2008 with the agreement, compared to the absence of an agreement. He says the year 2008 was chosen to reflect the maximum transition period for full implementation of the agreement's provision for agriculture.

The estimates of jobs generated by greater farm exports under NAFTA are derived from a large input-output model of the U.S. economy. This model maintained by the Department's Economic Research Service, associates labor requirements with agricultural commodity production and use. As farm exports rise, the model estimates the increase in farm production and the related increase in jobs on farms and in other industries that are affected by the higher farm production. Because labor becomes more productive over time, less labor will be needed in the future to export a given volume of farm product. These estimates of jobs created after full NAFTA implementation, are adjusted for the expected increase in U.S. labor productivity during the NAFTA phase-in period.

Md. Dept. of Ag. Scientist Wins National Award

Maryland Secretary of Agriculture Robert L. Walker has announced that Dr. William F. Gimpel Jr., chief of the Plant Protection Section of the Maryland Department of Agriculture (MDA), has been selected to receive the 1993 Entomological Society of America's Distinguished Achievement Award in Regulatory Entomology. Gimpel, who is in charge of MDA programs protecting plant health, including Maryland's large nursery industry, will accept the national award Dec. 12 at the Entomological Society of America's national meeting in Indiana.

"All of us at MDA are extremely proud of Dr. Gimpel for winning this award. He does an outstanding job of protecting Maryland consumers and assisting our nursery industry, which produces the number one crop in cash receipts in Maryland. It is nice to see him recognized nationally for his knowledge, abilities and performance in plant regulatory programs," Walker said.

Dr. Gimpel's responsibilities at MDA include administrative supervision of state-wide programs for nursery inspection, enforcement of state and federal quarantines, plant pest surveys, inspection of honey bee colonies, integrated pest management projects, plant cer-tification and other plant pest regulatory programs. Earlier in the year, Dr.

Japan's Demand For Convenience Food Could Help Maryland

Maryland Secretary of Agriculture Robert L. Walker sees a growing demand for convenience food in Japan as a real opportunity for Maryland food businesses. Maryland produces many ready-to-eat and easy-to-prepare food products that the Japanese are now embracing.

"I think there is tremendous growth potential in the Japanese market for Maryland food companies. They want what we produce. We are making excellent progress in getting into the Japanese market and I think the amount of our exports will continue to expand," Walker said.

In recent months Maryland firms have sent wine; live and frozen soft shell crabs; crab soups, cakes and nuggets; clams, clam soups and juices; spices; and frozen whole chickens and portions to the Japanese. In the spring Walker met with a

Local Fourth Graders Hold Chili Cookoff

Editor's note: The following news release was written by the Red House School fourth grade students of Amy Harvey.

Do you like chili? On October 21st, we, the fourth grade students at Red House Elementary held a chili cookoff. The cookoff was part of our Country-Western Round-Up Unit. We had three contestants from the local area of Oakland: Blair Glass, of Marvin's Men's Wear; Hannah Sincell, member of Garrett County Board of Education; and Debbie Piper, Chapter I resource teacher at Red House.

Initially, each contestant shared his/her recipe with the judges, the fourth grade students. Next, the children sampled each contestant's chili and gave each a score

THE REPUBLICAN, OAKLAND, MARYLAND - THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 18, 1993 C-7

Debris Burning Advised During Winter Months

Landowners outside of incorporated towns interested in burning brush and debris are advised to do so during winter weather. According to the Open Air Burning Regulations, Title 8, Department of Natural Resources, Subtitle .07, Maryland Forest, Park & Wildlife Service, "burning may occur at anytime when the ground is covered with snow, if all other requirements are met."

The open air burning regulations apply to activities in woodland and within 200 feet of woodland, or a flammable material that could carry fire to the woodland. There should be a firebreak at least 10 feet wide around the fire and adequate personnel and equipment present to control the fire. The fire should be out cold before all personnel leave the scene.

Landowners that wish to do some open air burning while the ground is covered with snow are still required to obtain a burning permit from the health department.

These permits can be obtained by simply contacting the Garrett County Health Department, Monday through Friday, 8 a.m. to 4:30 p.m., at 334-8980. Once this permit has been obtained, the landowner should contact the Garrett County Office of Emergency Management at its non-emergency number (301-334-1929) prior to burning, which will

CIVIC CLUB HEARS MS. KOSCIELNIAK - Financial planning and money management were among the topics discussed by Irmgard Koscielniak of the Garrett County Extension Service at the Civic Club of Oakland's recent meeting. The guest speaker stressed the importance of communication about money matters between family members, which is a step toward proper planning in the areas of retirement and estate preparation, as well as in general budgeting and credit usage. Other topics covered were transfers of property, banking and investment strategies, and document storage.

Recycling Books Available From Voters' League

The League of Women Voters has recently published two new recycling-related publications, The Garbage Primer and The Plastic Waste Primer, both from Lyons & Burford, $10.95.

The Garbage Primer accomplishes what its title suggests: It teaches the principles of garbage, as they stand in the early '90s.

It states, "In 1990, 87 percent of our garbage was buried in the country's 6,000 landfills, 16 percent was burned in 176 incinerators and waste-to-energy plants, and 17 percent was recycled and composted. By 1995, EPA estimates that 58 percent of our garbage will be sent to landfills, 17 percent burned, and 25 percent recycled and composted."

The primer explains these garbage treatments citing economic and environmental considerations for each and discussing current debates regarding the practices.

While the book states that more individuals are returning to these time-honored practices, there is considerable debate over the economic feasibility of further recycling and the development of markets for recyclable products.

The primer also notes that garbage fees should reflect the full costs of waste management, and consumers should be charged for what they throw out, either in volume- or weight-based collection rates.

Basic recycling terms and programs, the destiny of recyclables after they leave the curb or drop-off site and the basics of composting, all are explained. And the negatives of recycling, such as pollution, are not ignored.

The book points to source reduction as the first step in managing waste.

The League's Plastic Waste Primer concentrates on what happens to discarded milk jugs, detergent bottles, and like items.

The primer states that plastics account for a little more than 8 percent of the municipal solid waste generated, "putting plastics far behind paper and paperboard (38 percent) and yard wastes (18 percent), and roughly even with metals." But only about 2 percent of plastic waste is being reclaimed.

Disposing of plastics has its special problems. This book explains in simple language how plastics are formed and discusses the additives used in manufacturing and the problems they can cause later.

It addresses strengthening the recycled plastics market, noting that prospects for a better market depend on both consumers and industry. Americans have to buy products made from recycled resins, such as carpets, fiberfill, and drainage pipes that already are available. Those purchases will give industry the capital and incentive to develop new products.

Both handbooks are available from the League of Women Voters of Garrett County, 202 E. Alder Street, Oakland, MD, 1-301-334-1908, or by calling Connie Margison at 334-8211.

Education Week Highlights What's Right With Schools

November 14-20 is American Education Week and local communities throughout Maryland are celebrating their schools.

And there's plenty to celebrate, according to the Maryland State Teachers Association (MSTA) - from the achievements of individual students and teachers to the significant reform efforts that are changing the entire process of teaching and learning.

"Schools have been in the spotlight for more than a decade," says Karl Pence, president of the 44,000-member MSTA, "but there's a lot of good news that's been overlooked."

Pence offers some examples:

•Public confidence in schools is up. The 1993 Phi Delta Kappa/Gallup poll on public attitudes about education found 47 percent of the public now rate their local schools with an A or B. That's a 7 percent increase over the previous year. And parents with children in public schools rate their local schools even higher. An impressive 72 percent of those parents gave them an A or B.

•SAT scores have risen for the past 17 years for every group of minority students. And today a much broader cross-section of high school seniors take the SAT than ever before.

•The number of high school students taking Advanced Placement tests for college credit has more than tripled since 1978. Then, some 90,000 students took the AP tests for college credit. In 1990, the number jumped to 324,000 students.

•The United States has one of the highest rates of college attendance in the world.

"Schools have come under close scrutiny as the county has refocused on education as the way to achieve our national economic goals," adds Pence. "Being in the media spotlight is healthy in a democratic society. It can lead to constructive change."

MSTA believes, however, that myths about public school failure have been dominating news coverage for the past decade. Those myths are countered by facts in an MSTA publication, Myths vs. Reality. Copies are available by calling MSTA, (800) 448-6782.

"The truth is, there are wonderful things taking place in Maryland's schools and classrooms every day," Pence says. "There's still a lot to be done," he added. "Educators need help and support from the entire community - business leaders as well as parents - to really make a difference in students' lives."

The theme for this year's American Education Week observance is "Better Schools Shape Better Tomorrows." Wednesday of American Education Week was set aside to pay tribute to education professionals, food service employees, bus drivers, maintenance workers, secretaries, and other school support personnel. On November 17, parents, teachers, and other members of the community recognized the unique and significant contributions made by school support employees.

Three weeks ago (Oct. 22), educational support personnel in Maryland became full members of the MSTA. "We're pleased to give a tip of our hat to these very special people and welcome them as full partners in our fight for Maryland's future," says Pence.

LIONS CLUB NEWS

The roof on dugout #2 was completed this week by Lions Doug George, Ken Metheny, Oscar Van Scheetz, and Marlin Lawson. The appliance, furniture, clothing, and toy drive for the midwest is proceeding slowly. There is still a great need for appliances, heavy clothing, and toys. The Friendsville Lions Club is asking everyone to "open up your hearts and give." The club received a call from

A SPECIAL CAKE was baked and decorated by Paula Spear to help Friendsville Cub Scout Pack 33 celebrate its one-year anniversary. The cake was cut and served to the pack during a special pack meeting. The pack, which includes Bobcat, Wolf, Bear, and Weibelo ranks, was formed in October of 1992 with 38 scouts and 10 leaders.

Elizabeth Shobe from the Moorefield area and she is bringing a truckload consisting of furnaces, furniture, and toys from that area.

Larry Sisler, president of Professional Communication, gave a presentation on the Pro Com Inc. It was voted by the club for all the members to join Pro Com Inc. Pro Com will be contacting Lions Clubs throughout the United States. Pro Com is a full service long-distance company.

The annual Christmas Party, which is also ladies' and guests' night, is scheduled for Saturday, Dec. 18, at the Raven's Inn, Markleysburg, Pa. The Rev. Jim Davidson and his family will be attending and he will be singing.

President Lawson appointed a committee for the Christmas food baskets. Anyone knowing of any person or family in need is asked to contact any of the committee members: Hazel Meyers, 746-5921; Lena Lawson, 746-5480; Janice Welch, 746-4228; and Laura Leilich, 746-4069.

Mary Louise Walch of the Friendsville Rotary Club attended the Lions Club meeting and requested the Lions Club to help distribute the Rotary Clubs toys and clothes for Christmas. It was noted unanimously to help the Rotary Club. All members of the Lions Club will be helping the Rotary club on Dec. 18 to distribute the clothes and toys.

May 7, 1994, will be the grand opening of the Friendsville Town and Community Park. There will be an all-day, admission-free affair. The line-up of entertainment will be announced later.

A check was sent to the District for Candy Days. This will benefit the Wilmer Eye Institute of Johns Hopkins Hospital.

SCOUT NEWS

The local 1993-94 Cub Scout year opened with 38 scouts and 10 leaders committee persons enrolled. At the September pack meeting, Cubmaster Paula Spear introduced each leader. Tiger Cub (grade 1) leaders are John and Terri Nottingham. There are two groups of Wolf Scouts (grade 2). Their leaders are Terry Spear and Doug George. The Bear Scouts (grade 3) are under the leadership of Jerry and Sharon Sisler. The Weibelos (grade 4) leaders are Diane Wampler and grade 5 Leah Huber.

Summer Activity award pins were presented to all scouts attending at least three of the four activities during the summer months. Each leader shared their den meeting activities for September. Bear patches earned during the summer were presented to Kenny Wampler.

Justin Humberston, Jason Humberston, Timmy Fike, Eric Shoemaker, Anthony Coddington and James Thomas. Aquatic Activity pins earned during summer camp were presented to Weibelos Scouts Blake Huber and Ryan Friend. Also, Readyman Activity pins were earned by Cody VanSlyke, Jeremy Meyers, Jason MacLane, and Shawn Bogher.

The October pack meeting marked the first anniversary of Pack 33. One-year service star pins were presented to all scouts and leaders who have been in the unit since last October. Trooper Scott MacLane visited the Bear Scouts and talked to them about home and bike safety for their Law Enforcement unit. The boys also had their fingerprints stamped in their workbooks. The boys also experienced some cookie making for their cooking achievement.

Benjamin Winter was presented with his Bobcat badge. All the scouts are continuing to work toward their Bear badges. The Weibelos Scouts have been busy working on several activity badges. Handyman Activity pins were presented to Ryan Friend, Blake Huber, Jason Fickes, Chad Stallman, Jason Humberston, Justin Humberston, Kenny Wampler, Eric Shoemaker, Timmy Fike, James Thomas, Anthony Coddington, and Jason MacLane. Outdoorism pins were earned by Ryan Friend, Blake Huber, Jason Fickes, and Jason MacLane.

A special activity conducted by Dwayne Welling was held to present the Weibelos badge to four of the grade 5 Weibelos Scouts. Welling has been in scouting since 1946 and presently serves on the Council at Large with West Moreland and Fayette Council. He has served as scoutmaster and district chairman, and has been the recipient of the Silver Bear Award and National Distinguished Service Award. The four scouts receiving their Weibelos badges were Ryan Friend, Blake Huber, Jason MacLane, and Cody VanSlyke.

There will be no meetings for scouts on Nov. 29, because of no school. The next den meeting will be Monday, Dec. 20, at 6:30 p.m., in the elementary school.

HOMEMAKER NEWS

Mrs. Carolyn Humberston and co-hostess, Mrs. Ina Grace Lechman, will entertain members of the Homemakers Club for lunch at 1 p.m. Friday, Nov. 19, at the Humberston home. A meeting will follow.

CLASS OF 1951

Ms. Renelda Frazee entertained members of the Friendsville High School Class of 1951 with a luncheon, Sunday, at her home.

Attending were Rita and Delores Thomas, Mary Frantz, Flora Mae Humbert, Leota Stover, and Glen Kite. Mary Frantz will entertain the class for a Christmas party on Saturday, Dec. 11, at 5 p.m. at her home. Each member is asked to bring a jingle gift.

W.O.W.

W.O.W. Lodge 6043 members met Wednesday evening at the home of Mrs. Leota Friend to prepare 53 fruit baskets to give to area residents. Mrs. Julia Sines, president, presided at the business meeting. Plans were made for the lodge's annual Christmas party, set for 6 p.m. Wednesday, Dec. 11, at the Lone Star Restaurant on Rt. 40. The party is for members and each is asked to bring a gift for an exchange.

SHARE

Sign-ups for the December SHARE will be held at the Friendsville fire hall on Tuesday, Nov. 23, from 7-9 p.m. Persons interested may contact Rod Bowser at 746-5576 for further information.

Moscow Boys Choir To Perform

Frostburg State University's Cultural Event Series is sponsoring The Moscow Boys Choir on Wednesday, Dec. 1, at 8 p.m. in the University's Lane Center multi-use room.

This all-boys choir, one of Russia's most prestigious groups, was founded in 1957 and is currently under the direction of Elena Kamburg. Members attend a special school which provides both general education and musical training. They continually perform throughout Russia and in 1986 took part in the International Festival of Chorus in Poznan, Poland.

An important part of the choir's activities has been its participation in operatic production which include Bizet's "Carmen," Puccini's "La Boheme," and Tchaikovsky's "Queen of Spades."

The choir presents works by contemporary Soviet Composers, Russian and European classics, as well as popular Soviet folk songs. These composers include Mozart, Tchaikovsky, Mendelssohn, Brahms and Rachmaninov. Their repertoire is extensive and includes religious composition by Russian and European composers, as well as romantic, popular, and Russian folk songs. In 1988, they appeared in a royal command performance at the Royal Hall, London for IIRH The Prince Royal.

Individual tickets for the general public may be purchased at the Lane Center Information Desk or any ticket outlet locations. For more information, persons may contact the information desk at (301) 689-4111.

NORTH GLADE
by Adam Herbert, reporter

A Halloween/pizza party at the 4-H Building was attended by nine members of the North Glade 4-H Club, along with 13 parents and guests.

Members Jody Friend and Adam Herbert, accompanied by three leaders, collected $180 for The American Heart Association this month.

Seven members and parents met at Par-Matt Lanes for bowling last week. A brief meeting followed. The Christmas dinner will be Dec. 5 at 2 p.m. This will be a covered dish meal. Members should remember their gifts.

Chris Herbert attended the Leader Meeting at the Extension Office following bowling. Major changes and new information for the 1994 year were discussed. Chris will present this information and members will re-enroll at the Christmas dinner.

Let's Get Down To Business!

This is a feature of The Republican to better acquaint our readers with various area business establishments.

The Store Room, Inc.

The Store Room, Inc., a self storage business with individual units available for short or long term rentals, recently opened a new building in the Grantsville area. The building is located at the intersection of U.S. Rt. 40 and the New Germany Road, east of Grantsville. The owners, Mark and Ann Diehl, are long time residents of the Grantsville area. They conducted an informal survey around the area for over one year and concluded that the area around Grantsville was in need of an easily accessible, clean, dry storage area. Unlike the informal storage facilities in the area, The Store Room has the convenience of 24 hour access and the safety of individual storage areas separated by steel walls and ceiling.

This need for flexible

THE STORE ROOM, INC., Grantsville, was opened after the owners conducted an informal survey to determine the need for a self-storage business. The Store Room is located at U.S. Rt. 40 and the New Germany Road.

storage units led the Diehls to work with their contractor, BYCO Enterprises, to design their 42' x 80' metal building. Each unit has a concrete floor, metal walls and ceiling, and a metal roll-up door with weather stripping. All units have an interior ceiling height of over 10 feet and the larger units have nine foot by nine foot doors to accommodate larger vehicles. The building is easily accessible for all sizes of vehicles. The lot was improved with the help of Keystone Lime Co. for the parking and access areas and a chain link fence was installed by American Industrial Steel Fence Co.

There are 33 storage units available for rent in this building and future expansion will be based on the demand for the various unit sizes. The units include four 5'x5' units at $20 per month, four 5'x7' units at $27.50 per month; fourteen 5'x10' units at $35 per month; ten 10'x21' units with nine foot doors at $85 per month; and one 10'x32' unit with a nine-foot door at $95 per month.

Interested persons may reach The Store Room by contacting Mark or Ann Diehl at (301) 895-5417 or (301) 748-8939 for an inspection appointment or with any questions about the building.

Estate No. 7588

TO ALL PERSONS INTERESTED IN THE ESTATE OF Mary Jane Savage.

Notice is given that First United National Bank and Trust, 19 South Second Street, Oakland, MD 21550, was, on October 27, 1993, appointed personal representative of the estate of Mary Jane Savage, who died on October 22, 1993, with a will.

Further information can be obtained by reviewing the estate file in the office of the Register of Wills or by contacting the personal representative or the attorney.

All persons having any objection to the appointment (or to the probate of the decedent's will) shall file their objections with the Register of Wills on or before the 27th day of April, 1994.

Any person having a claim against the decedent must present the claim to the undersigned personal representative or file it with the Register of Wills with a copy to the undersigned on or before the earlier of the following dates:

- (1) Six months from the date of the decedent's death; or
- (2) Two months after the personal representative mails or otherwise delivers to the creditor a copy of this published notice or other written notice, notifying the creditor that the claim will be barred unless the creditor presents the claims within two months from the mailing or other delivery of the notice. A claim not presented or filed on or before that date, or any extension provided by law, is unenforceable thereafter. Claim forms may be obtained from the Register of Wills.

BLASTING NOTICE

Action Mining, Inc., Meyersdale, Pennsylvania, proposes to conduct overburden blasting from November 16, 1993 through November 16, 1994 in compliance with all state and federal laws at their surface coal mining operations in Garrett County, Maryland, four miles north of Grantsville on the east side of U.S. Route 219, just south of the state line under Permit Number SM-89-416.

Blasting will be conducted between the hours of 8:00 a.m. and noon and 1:00 p.m. and 5:00 p.m., or sunset Mondays through Saturdays.

Warning signs will be placed at entrances to the operation. Company personnel will control access to the area. Warning signals will consist of three (3) blasts before detonation and one (1) long blast after detonation as an all-clear signal. Atmospheric conditions, operator safety, public safety or equipment breakdown may require unscheduled blasting.

PUBLIC NOTICE

The Deep Creek Watershed Board of Zoning Appeals will conduct a public hearing on December 2, 1993 at 7:30 p.m. in the Planning Commission Meeting Room (Third Floor, Courthouse, Oakland). The Board will review applications on the following docketed cases:

- 1) Docket VR-330, an application made by Mr. Charles Wamsley for a Variance from the terms of the Zoning Ordinance to allow an existing covered porch extension of a residence to remain at 12.5 feet from the rear property line instead of the previously approved 20 feet. The property is located in the Lake Forest Estate Subdivision (Zoned LR).
- 2) Docket VR-331, an application made by Mr. Thomas Janes on behalf of Brownings Hardware, Inc. for a Variance from the terms of the Zoning Ordinance as it affects the definition of "streets" within the Paradise Estates Subdivision. Specifically, Mr. Janes is requesting a Variance from the definition of street to allow the establishment of a private drive which would provide vehicular access through 3 or more abutting lots. Mr. Janes is seeking to designate and establish this access way as a private driveway rather than a street within the subdivision (Zoned LR).

Two-Vehicle Mishap Sends One Driver To Local Hospital

A two-vehicle, rear-end collision mishap Friday sent one driver to Garrett County Memorial Hospital where he was treated and released, according to a nursing spokesperson at the hospital.

Fabrice J. DuFour, 17, Swanton, was treated for minor injuries at the local hospital following the 3:58 p.m. collision which occurred on U.S. Rt. 219 near the intersection of Glendale Road.

Maryland State Police at Barrack W. McHenry, investigated and reports indicate that the accident occurred when DuFour had his vehicle stopped in a northbound line of traffic on Rt. 219 for a school bus stop. Charles W. Harvey, 34, Friendsville, operating a 1989 Ford F-250, was also northbound on Rt. 219 and his attention was diverted and he was unable to stop in time and struck the rear of the DuFour vehicle, forcing it into the southbound lane.

Tfc. W. L. Mowbray charged Harvey in the mishap. The Southern Garrett County Rescue Squad transported DuFour to the hospital. Garrett County Emergency Management also dispatched Deep Creek Lake volunteer firemen to the scene.

HOUSE HIT AGAIN
The home of Arthur Hanlin, located off the King's Run Road, was struck by a vehicle on Monday, November 15, and according to Mr. Hanlin, this is the second time his home has been struck by an out-of-control vehicle.

State police said that Carol A. Brant, 25, McHenry, was operating a 1992 Eagle Talon north on the King's Run Road when she drove to the right to avoid an unidentified vehicle. The car traveled to the shoulder and came back on the roadway. Brant then lost control of the vehicle and crossed the southbound lane and traveled off the roadway and struck Hanlin's house.

Tfc. J.K. Moore investigated the 1:38 p.m. mishap. CORRECTION NOTED
In a state police accident report last week, it was incorrectly stated that a 17-year-old juvenile failed to stop for a stop sign at the intersection of Lake Shore Drive and the Mayhew Inn Road and struck another vehicle. Actually, the juvenile's vehicle was struck after she failed to stop for a stop sign. We regret the error.

DWI ARRESTS
Two persons were charged with DWI (driving while under the influence of alcohol and/or drugs) this past week by the Maryland State Police.

Michael J. Hardesty Sr., 25, Oakland, was charged with DWI on Friday by Tfc. W.L. Mowbray.

Wreck Involving Two Pickup Trucks Injures One Driver

A wreck involving two pickup trucks last Thursday resulted in a minor injury to one of the drivers, according to a report from the Garrett County Sheriff's Office. The mishap occurred at the intersection of the Southern High School parking lot and East Oak Street (Old Rt. 135).

A 1988 Dodge Dakota, driven by a 17-year old male, stopped at the stop sign, but then apparently pulled on out into the roadway in front of an oncoming 1974 Chevrolet pickup, driven by Jacob W. Rodeheaver, 17. The two vehicles collided, and the driver of the first vehicle sustained facial lacerations.

Passengers in the vehicles were Aimee Moyer, 17, Oakland, who was riding in the Dodge Dakota, and Jeremy L. Crocco, 18, who was in the other truck. Neither passenger was injured in the wreck, according to the report.

The driver of the Dodge was transported to Garrett County Memorial Hospital by Southern Rescue Squad, where he was treated for the lacerations and released. He was cited for failure to stop and yield at a through highway, according to the sheriff's office report.

Suzanne C. Beachy Appointed To GCC Board Of Trustees

Suzanne C. Beachy, Grantsville, has been appointed to the Garrett Community College Board of Trustees by Governor William Donald Schaefer to fill an unexpired six-year term.

A native of Frederick, Ms. Beachy graduated from Hixon Hill High School and attended Frostburg State University. For four years, she worked for the FBI in Washington, D.C., and since 1979, she has been store manager of Beachy's Pharmacy in Grantsville.

Her many community activities include membership in the Grantsville Business and Professional Women's Club; Grantsville Lioness Club, of which she was charter president; Grantsville Elementary School PTA, of which she was president and secretary; numerous singing groups, including the GCC Chorus, St. John's United Church of Christ Choir, and Grantsville Community Choir. She is a member of St. John's United Church of Christ consistory and bell choir, president of the women's guild, and Bible school teacher.

MSP Investigating B & E's, Thefts

The Maryland State Police, Barrack W. McHenry, are currently investigating the reports of two separate cases of breaking and entering and theft.

Francis G. Merrbach, Meyersdale Road, told police that someone broke into his deceased mother's house and stole six handmade quilts and one oak dresser. That report was filed on Sunday and Tfc. J.T. Bentlejewski is continuing his investigation.

Virginia P. Bailey, Oakland, reported that unknown persons broke into her summer cottage on Rock Lodge Road and removed a 25" color television set. She said the theft occurred sometime between last Wednesday and Friday.

Heroine For November Is Esther Yoder

By Joan Crawford
A woman who has a remarkable record of service to the community as both a professional and a volunteer is the unsung heroine for the month of November in the Year of Celebration of Garrett County Women. Esther Yoder of Grantsville, mother of three and grandmother of nine, has been active in community projects since she moved here 43 years ago.

For five years she was a teacher, and for 30 years teaching principal of Yoder School, an experience on which she now reflects. "Thirty-five exciting and happy years of teaching children don't suddenly disappear with retirement," she said. "Children continue to energize me with their questions and sense of wonder. I especially enjoy taking them for a walk into the past in Spruce Forest, with my favorite 'show & tell' being Compton School."

Ms. Yoder served as manager of Penn Alps for three years and is now manager of Spruce Forest Artisan Village. She has done volunteer work in Oregon and served as a volunteer with the Home Health Services for three years. As a member of the Oak Grove Mennonite Church, she serves as congregational leader and heads the project of knotting comforts for Mennonite overseas relief.

Her community involvement includes serving as a Memorial Fund Established For Jennifer Koon

A memorial fund for Jennifer Koon has been established at First United National Bank & Trust.

Miss Koon, 18-year-old daughter of David and Suzanne Koon, Rochester, N.Y., was murdered in that city last week. The Koons are former residents of Oakland.

Persons may contribute to the fund by making checks out to First United National Bank & Trust and requesting they be placed in the fund. Proceeds will be divided equally between the Southern High School Band and St. Mark's Lutheran Church Youth Group, two organizations of which Miss Koon was a member when she resided here.

Authorities in Rochester reported this week that they do have suspects in the case, but do not yet have enough evidence to make an arrest. The body of Miss Koon was found in her mother's car with gunshot wounds of the head and chest.

member of the Garrett County Arts Council Board of Directors, a member of the Western Maryland Health Care Corporation and the Grantsville Health Center Board.

This busy woman is known by her friends and colleagues as a "people person" whose warmth and intelligence give her a strong talent for leadership. She has traveled extensively throughout the United States and Canada and has been to Europe and Australia.

She speaks proudly of her family -- husband Henry, daughters Rachel, who is a teacher, Kathleen, who is a nurse, and son, Roger, who is a pilot for American Airlines.

When asked about her perception of the volunteer work she does, Mrs. Yoder replied, "Life -- especially people and God have been good to me. Returning time, energy, and resources is an automatic, thankful response. Being a part of our professional artisans in the village is an undeserved bonus and inspires me to promote the arts with all the time and energy I can give."

Shareholders Of First United Approve Merger

Richard G. Stanton, chairman of the Board, president, and CEO of First United Corporation, and Terry L. Reiber, president and CEO of HomeTown Bancorp, Inc., Myersville, announced Tuesday that the shareholders of each corporation have approved the plan to merge the institutions. Under the agreement HomeTown Bancorp, Inc.'s subsidiary, Myersville Bank, would become a wholly-owned subsidiary of First United Corporation, while retaining its name as Myersville Bank. Stanton stated, "We are very excited to add the Myersville Bank to our bank holding company. The bank has an excellent record of providing quality service to its customers in Washington and Frederick counties."

Reiber added, "First United Corporation will provide a strong sales and administrative team for our operation. I look forward to further enhancing our product line after the merger is completed."

The merger is expected to be completed before year-end. Once completed First United Corporation (NASDAQ:FUNC) will post assets in excess of $415 million.

Fresh Air Christmas Event Scheduled For December 3 In Downtown Oakland

The 1993 Fresh Air Christmas will be held Friday, December 3, beginning at 6 p.m. in downtown Oakland. The community celebration, sponsored by WKHJ-Radio, offers a "magical" evening for children as well as adults, with festivities starting at St. Matthew's Episcopal Church, with the Southern Garrett County High School Band performing its Christmas field show as the town is lit and Santa Claus appears.

"Rumor has it that Mrs. Claus may make the trip with Santa," said Cathy Clockier of WKHJ. "But that remains to be seen."

After a short visit with the crowd, Santa will take this seat in front of V&S Variety Store, where children may take turns telling him what they'd like for Christmas. Santa's elves will be on hand to help and parents are encouraged to bring a camera, the spokesperson said. Stage performances at the corner of Second and Alder streets will include Christmas carols by local groups, including church and school choirs, family groups, girl and boy scout and brownie troops.

Street vendors and local restaurants will offer a variety of foods, and nonprofit groups will sell a variety of items, including green wreaths, Christmas crafts and gifts. The characters from Charles Dickens's A Christmas Carol will be in period costume portrayed by actors from the Deep Creek Dinner Theatre.

Persons should note that the annual Christmas parade will not be held this year, and the Fresh Air Christmas is the only downtown event.

"WKHJ's Christmas is intended to be a community celebration of the season. It is our feeling that the true spirit of Christmas can best be experienced when family and friends gather to exchange good will. With all the sadness and deprivation in the world, we think that is important to provide a magical evening for children as well as adults," said Mrs. Clockier. "Fresh Air Christmas is WKHJ's gift to all."

Food For Thought

by Chef Francesco Pisano
McClives Restaurant

Try a salad dinner -- top romaine, thin-sliced red cabbage and red onion with warm freshly grilled chicken breasts, sliced crosswise. Toss in orange sections, and add grated orange peel and soy sauce to your favorite vinaigrette.

Creamy herb dressing is sensational on vegetables or salad. Purée in the blender 1/2 cup each parsley leaves, mayonnaise and sour cream, and 2 Tbs. each chopped green onion and fresh tarragon. Salt to taste.

Delicious sweet potatoes have no more calories than white potatoes, about 130 in a four-ounce serving. On the plus side, sweet potatoes have half your daily vitamin C allowance and lots of beta carotene.

Plain ice cream, fancy sauce -- melt 6 ounces semisweet chocolate bits, 7 minutes on medium in the microwave, stirring often. Then stir in 2 Tbs. butter and 1/2 cup dark rum or coffee liqueur.

What is America drinking? More beer than milk, according to market reports, 34 gallons per person, vs. only 26 gallons for milk.

Everyone knows about the delicious food at McClive's Restaurant.

Come Back, Jack...

We are becoming quite disturbed with the proceedings in Garrett County's District Court since the departure of Judge Jack Turney, specifically the sentencing that is being determined by the visiting judges who are filling the bench until a new local judge is appointed.

In some circles Judge Turney was thought to be too lenient with his sentencing, however, a quick comparison of his sentences with those of recent weeks makes Turney look almost like a "hanging judge."

The most glaring difference is in the sentencing for DWI driving while intoxicated cases. While Turney would routinely sentence convicted defendants to 12 months of supervised probation and $500 fines (usually with $200 or $300 suspended), our visiting judges are handing down sentences that include much smaller fines and usually no more than six months of supervised probation. Many more are getting probation before judgment, which is something Judge Turney rarely even considered.

Leniency in sex offense cases is just as disturbing, as most offenders are receiving little more than a slap on the wrist for their crimes.

We know for a fact that our law enforcement officers are upset about the situation, and we certainly understand their frustration. In the case of DWI offenders, local police have obviously been working hard to remove these people from the roadways. This is evidenced by the large number of arrests that are reported on a regular basis. But their efforts are basically futile if our court system continues to allow these abusers to get right back behind the wheel.

Is it because these visiting judges are from the city courts, where DWI ranks so low on the "crime meter"? Were Judge Turney's sentences unusually severe for DWI? Is the state's attorney's office doing its job in preparing for and prosecuting these cases? We don't really know the answers to these questions, but we have our suspicions.

Meanwhile, drunk drivers continue to kill thousands of innocent people every year and convicted sex offenders continue to walk the streets.

We certainly hope that our new district court judge is appointed soon and, more importantly, we hope he will be at least as tough on drunk drivers as was Judge Turney, if not tougher. We will be watching.

Letters to the Editor

To the Editor:

There is a great need in our county that is not being met. Garrett County does not have a shelter for battered women and their children. Domestic violence does occur in this community. When women have been abused in their own homes, they need a place to go where they can feel safe. Such a place does not exist in Garrett County at this time. These women and children have nowhere to go when they fear for their safety.

We are one of only two counties in Maryland that does not have a battered women's shelter. The closest shelter for battered women is in Cumberland. Though women from Garrett County have the option to go to this shelter, this is not an answer to the problem. Many women have children in school and do not want to take them out. Also, the women must come back to Oakland to get services such as AFDC, food stamps, energy assistance, and housing assistance. The women must also come back to Oakland for court hearings. It is difficult to arrange transportation to and from the shelter for these appointments.

We need a local shelter that is close to county agencies, easy to get to in emergency situations, and provides the least disruption possible in the lives of women and children. Keep in mind that our county has an animal shelter, but not a battered woman's shelter. The Garrett County Commission for Women wanted to make your readers aware of this need.

Sincerely,
Phyllis Trickett
Chair Garrett County
Commission for Women

To the Editor:

Having served with the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers for many years as a contracting officer I find your November 11 article about the bidding method used by the county to purchase a reported 1.3 million dollars worth of road graders and loaders to be most perplexing.

It is hardly possible for me to believe that the county could legally purchase said road equipment without publicly advertising for bids. I have never ever witnessed any procurement of this dollar magnitude where bidding was not open to all manufacturers of competitive equipment, except in cases of public exigency which certainly did not exist in this procurement.

I also challenge the statement of County Administrator Robert Fousek that District 1-A Delegate George C. Edwards introduced and the Legislature passed a law to allow Garrett County the latitude of making this kind of purchase without going through the normal bid solicitation process. To the contrary, the enumerated powers in Article 25 of the Maryland Annotated Code provides for competitive bidding for any Garrett County work and the making and awarding of contracts for the purchase of materials and supplies in excess of $5,000. Upon inquiry, the legislature liaison people in Annapolis could not find any bill or law that was passed to change this requirement. I have written to Delegate Edwards and look forward to his reply on this matter. Perhaps the delegate can clear this matter.

Perhaps the county commissioners have been hoodwinked by the county administrator into believing that taking bids from two John Deere distributors, to the exclusion of any other equipment manufacturer, is competitive bidding. To the rancor of the Caterpillar equipment distributor, who questioned the sole source procurement, one commissioner commented that John Deere equipment is better suited to the climate of Garrett County. Does the commissioner really believe that? Is that a justifiable reason for the commissioner's mind for not taking bids from other manufacturers of equipment which is competitive with John Deere and sold for use in climatic conditions throughout the United States and, for that matter, worldwide?

It is unfortunate that it is not possible now to specifically determine how much could have been saved by competitive bidding—perhaps $150,000 to $200,000. To make an estimate of such savings, copies of the county's contract with the John Deere distributor have been requested for comparison with sales of like equipment by other manufacturers. So far the requested copies have not been forthcoming and it is doubtful they will be provided.

Perhaps the commissioners cannot be faulted too much. They are in a captive position wherein they must rely on Robert Fousek who wears two hats. As the County Roads Department administrator he can decide on John Deere equipment and as county administrator can purchase John Deere equipment. Sort of, I handle the money and I'll buy what I want.

The real culprits in this shoddy, if not illegal, procurement are the citizens of Garrett County. Over the years Garrett citizens have had a laid-back attitude, fearful of questioning or criticizing our county government or even taking an interest in our county government. One citizen came to me with information about a fraudulent operation, but said he was afraid to report it because his brother worked for the County Roads Department and would be fired. Another example of the many that could be cited is the award of the annual county audit contract. For many years the audit contracts have been awarded to a Bethesda firm although there are local firms well qualified to do the auditing if given the opportunity. One year the commissioners reluctantly agreed they should advertise for the audit and a well-qualified local firm was the low bidder. However, it was the county administrator who decided the contract would be awarded to the high bidder that same Bethesda firm. Did anyone protest or complain? Not that I know of.

It was Pogo who said, "we have met the enemy and they are us." John E. Hinebaugh, Citizen For Good Government, Sang Run.

Editor's Note: We wish to point out that reports of Delegate Edwards having initiated the law that Mr. Hinebaugh refers to is not accurate, according to the delegate. Further, we regret that the information was published by us in such a way that led readers to believe so. Please refer to the story on Page A-1 of this week's issue for further details.

Ryscavage Tells

Most importantly, they feel that staff can be used more effectively under the consolidated school concept," he said.

The school board brought this information to the county commissioners yesterday, and the fiscal authority officials must make the decision to support it or not by

"There is an appeal process with the IAC," Ryscavage said in a later interview. "We could appeal anything they may recommend, but the time involved in that process could be a real problem."

The education board met Monday afternoon to vote on its recommendation, and the consolidation option passed in a four-to-one vote, with Charlotte Sebold voting against. Mrs. Sebold read a prepared statement to the other board members and the superintendent, stating her support of the community school concept "because I believe that long-term value of community based schools cannot be measured in dollars."

In a later interview, she indicated that if the state truly would not fund the two school option, she would have to support the consolidated facility. While she did not state that she did not believe Ryscavage's report from the state, she did say that she would like to see the IAC designees' response in their own writing. Ryscavage told The Republican that he has already asked for such a document, and it is expected in the next several days.

Other school board members voiced their reasons for supporting a consolidated school.

"What our values are and what our funding is are two different things," said Mikal Moomau. "I don't believe that a building makes a good student. That concept and spirit is with the people here in Garrett County, and it can exist in any building, no matter what the size may be." "We also have to remember our other considerations with money - the salaries of our support personnel and teachers, the transportation funding that is apparently going to be cut next year, books and equipment - we always have to balance things. I believe the consolidation to be the best in the long-run."

Board member Bryan Paugh said the saving of the two schools "would be nice, but really not feasible."

Both Sebold and Hannah Sincell, board member, expressed their wish that the new facility be centrally located between the two school communities, to be fair. John Nelson, Office of Planning and Zoning, did indicate two weeks ago that an area along Rt. 219 South may be appropriate for the new building.

Commissioner John Braskey was present at the Monday meeting, and Mrs. Sincell asked him several pointed questions about the entire issue, including the commissioners' participation in the decision-making process.

"I would think that you all would be paying very close attention to any major decision we have to make," she said. "And here at the last minute, we have to go back and study something that a very qualified committee already studied. One half of your budget goes to this system, but did any one of you go to a single [Southern Area Elementary School] committee meeting?"

Braskey said that they had not.

"Well, you should have," she said.

Board President Beverly Murphy thanked the communities of Loch Lynn and Red House "for being so patient" during the process. She also stated that this project "needs to come to fruition."

Funding Options

Committee member Wendy Bauer added that the committee attempted to "spread out the financial damage" among the county's residents and property owners so that no one segment of the population would be paying an unfair share of the costs. She also pointed out that Garrett County is "the last bastion of free trash disposal" in the state, noting that Anne Arundel County, for instance, has been charging for such services for over 20 years.

Herpel then stated, "After long deliberation, not too much bickering, and public input, we have come up with these recommendations to lead us into the future."

Following is the list of recommendations made to the commissioners:

1. Continue to operate the six rural collection sites at or near their present locations. These sites must be fenced and gated to restrict access during non-operational hours. Restricting access is necessary to eliminate up to 30% of the refuse being deposited at some of the sites by non-county residents. This refuse currently has to be transported to the

Moving Toward Quality
And Beyond

This article is one of a series designed to support the growth and development of small businesses in Garrett County. It was written by Sandy Major, a counselor for the Small Business Development Center and a Business Training Coordinator at Garrett Community College. Sandy believes that while it is critical for companies to provide quality products and services, even more is needed in order to survive in today's tough competitive business environment. How to move your business toward quality and beyond is the subject of this series of articles. The staff of the SBDC invites you to learn more about quality or about free small business counseling services by calling 387-3101.

ON UNDERSTANDING OUR INTERNAL CUSTOMERS

In past articles, we have dealt with customers and meeting their expectations. We defined quality just that way -- consistently conforming to the expectations of our customers. But many of us never have any direct contact with the customers who buy our products.

A secretary in a real estate office who spends her time preparing reports - not dealing with prospective buyers - might be uncertain about who her customer is. Someone who works in the bookkeeping area of a school might believe he or she doesn't have any "customers." And a truck driver who moves material from one location to another at a rock quarry is not likely to think in terms of serving the customer.

But just as we have defined quality as meeting our customers' expectations, we define a customer as anyone who uses our products and services. Every one of us produces something. We all have suppliers, who provide us with an unfinished product. We add value to that product and pass it on to someone else. And that someone else is our "customer." If I work in a manufacturing operation my customer might be the next person in the assembly process. If I am a bookkeeper in a school my internal "customers" are often the various folks that provide service directly to external customers. And if my product is a real estate report prepared for one of the agency's sales representatives, then that sales rep is my customer. In each of these cases I am adding value and passing on my product or service to my "internal customer."

We begin to improve our internal systems and provide quality products and services for external customers when we understand and meet the needs of our internal customers. Just as we ask our external customers how they find the quality of our products, we need to meet with our internal customers and see if they agree with our assessment of how we are meeting their needs. The job of each one of us is to provide products or services for our customers, whether they are inside or outside the organization.

landfill and disposed of at county taxpayers' expense. Manning of the sites will also eliminate the abuse that is occurring related to illegal commercial dumping and depositing of refuse on the ground. Help and instruction can also be given to individuals using the county's recycling bins.

2. Cars or pickups allowed access to the rural collection sites should be identified with a sticker attached to the windshield or the front bumper of the vehicle. A $20 fee should be established for each sticker which is sold. Stickers should only be sold to county residents or property owners at this time. We believe this fee could raise between $60,000 and $80,000 per year to help offset costs of operating the sites. A limit should also be placed on the number of bags of refuse which can be delivered to the site at any one visit. This would help eliminate use of the facility by individuals hauling other people's refuse to the site for profit. Recycling efforts should also be expanded at some of the sites.

3. Limit operational hours at the site to between 40 and 45 hours per week. Actual daily hours of operation should be flexible to allow all county residents access to the sites at some point during the week regardless of their work schedule. Should hours of operation be expanded, additional funds will be needed.

4. Establish tipping fees at the new Garrett County

Solid Waste Disposal and Recycling Facility at the following levels: residential refuse, $28/ton; rubble or construction refuse, $40/ton; shingles, $40/ton; yard waste, $40/ton; and industrial waste, $40/ton.

The committee believes that the above tipping fees, if implemented, could generate approximately $900,000 per year. It is also our recommendation that an additional $2/ton tipping fee be added to the above amounts which would be dedicated to the county's recycling effort.

5. The existing amount of county tax dollars dedicated to solid waste collection and

Fiber Optics Comes To GCC

The information highway of the future has come to Garrett County with the wiring of fiber optic cable into Garrett Community College, one of the three western Maryland colleges to be the first to join the state's distance learning network, according to a recent announcement by a spokesperson from the Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone Co. of Maryland.

Garrett now joins Allegheny and Hagerstown community colleges in the fiber optic video highway that ultimately will connect more than 200 sites throughout Maryland in one of the most advanced statewide distance learning networks in the nation.

One classroom at each school has been equipped with video monitors, cameras, microphones and associated equipment -- and linked to the network -- as a contribution by C&P to "jump-start" the use of distance learning. Installation began in early September. C&P simultaneously constructed the sophisticated fiber-optic network that joins these locations.

These schools join the eight sites in Baltimore City and County that are already on the distance learning network, following successful trials there over the past two years.

"Today is the first day of a new era for our schools," said Garrett County College President Steve Herman. "This technology will enable us to share resources, courses, es, and capabilities with others on the network, enhancing education for students and teachers alike at each of the locations. Ultimately, it will provide a virtual classroom without walls as information becomes freely and readily available to people who want it, regardless of where they are."

TOYS FOR FLOOD VICTIMS - The Patriotic Pet Club of Accident is continuing its collection of good used toys for flood victims, as part of the Friendsville Lions Club Drive to aid flood victims of the midwest. A truck will depart from Garrett County on December 1, headed for Iowa. On that truck will be the toys collected as well as furnaces, furniture, and household appliances. Toys were collected from schools in the northern and of the county this past week. Toys are also being collected at Accident IGA, the Accident Branch of the Ruth Enlow Library, and McDonald's at Keyser's Ridge. Shown above are employees of McDonald's giving toys at their collection site. Toys will be collected through November 29, according to Peggy Goanell, advisor for the Pet Club. Members of the club expressed their appreciation to all those who have given toys.

In addition to its use between and among colleges, the fiber-optics distance learning network can provide a number of applications.

"This technology, while very important to schools, will play an equally significant role in helping make continuing education courses available for local businesses," said Shaila R. Avery, Maryland Secretary of Higher Education. "Area employees who wish to upgrade their formal education, or hone their skills, could take advantage of undergraduate and graduate-level courses offered through distance learning. In addition to making more efficient use of technology, such programs

National Internet Teleconference Set At GCC Dec. 2

A national teleconference titled Exploring INTERNET will be offered by Garrett Community College on December 2 from noon until 2:15 p.m. in the Center for Community and Continuing Education in Room CE-314.

With over five million users spanning more than 110 countries, INTERNET is the largest and fastest growing information network in the world, according to a college spokesperson.

This video conference is designed for librarians, college and university teachers, and information specialists. Viewers will be introduced to INTERNET, its technology, and its applications.

INTERNET and its workings will also be explained. Speakers will focus on the use of INTERNET for E-Mail, the transfer of remote computer files, and the use of Gopher, Archie, and Wais software to facilitate the use of INTERNET. Questions will be taken from the audience.

GCC faculty and staff must register Monday, November 29, at the Continuing Education Office or by calling 387-3069. GCC students register on November 30. Other interested persons register December 1. There is a $20 registration fee for persons in this group.

There is limited seating for the conference. All registrations will be taken on a first come, first served basis. A video tape of the conference will be made available for viewing at the GCC campus for those who cannot attend.

Persons who wish to view the tape may call Tom Kierstead at 387-3084 to make arrangements.

Persons planning to attend the conference who have special accommodation needs may call 387-3069 to make their needs known.

Come Back, Jack...

We are becoming quite disturbed with the proceedings in Garrett County's District Court since the departure of Judge Jack Turney, specifically the sentencing that is being determined by the visiting judges who are filling the bench until a new local judge is appointed.

In some circles Judge Turney was thought to be too lenient with his sentencing, however, a quick comparison of his sentences with those of recent weeks makes Turney look almost like a hanging judge.

The most glaring difference is in the sentencing for DWI driving while intoxicated cases. While Turney would routinely sentence convicted defendants to 12 months of supervised probation and $500 fines usually with $200 or $300 suspended, our visiting judges are handing down sentences that include much smaller fines and usually no more than six months of supervised probation. Many more are getting probation before judgment, which is something Judge Turney rarely ever considered.

Leniency in offense cases is just as disturbing, as most offenders are receiving little more than a slap on the wrist for their crimes.

We know for a fact that our law enforcement officers are upset about the situation, and we certainly understand their frustration. In the case of DWI offenders, local police have obviously been working hard to remove these people from the roadways. This is evidenced by the large number of arrests that are reported on a regular basis. But their efforts are basically futile if our court system continues to allow these abusers to get right back behind the wheel.

Is it because these visiting judges are from the city courts, where DWI ranks so low on the "crime meter"? Were Judge Turney's sentences unusually severe for DWI? Is the state's attorney's office doing its job in preparing for and prosecuting these cases? We don't really know the answers to these questions, but we have our suspicions.

Meanwhile, drunk drivers continue to kill thousands of innocent people every year and convicted sex offenders continue to walk the streets.

We certainly hope that our new district court judge is appointed soon and, more importantly, we hope he will be at least as tough on drunk drivers as was Judge Turney, if not tougher. We will be watching.

Letters to the Editor

To the Editor:

There is a great need in our county that is not being met. Garrett County does not have a shelter for battered women and their children. Domestic violence does occur in this community. When women have been abused in their own homes, they need a place to go where they can feel safe. Such a plan does not exist in Garrett County at this time. These women and children have nowhere to go when they fear for their safety.

We are one of only two counties in Maryland that does not have a battered women's shelter. The closest shelter for battered women is in Cumberland. Though women from Garrett County have the option to go to this shelter, it is not an answer to the problem. Many women have children in school and do not want to take them out. Also, the women must come back to Oakland to get services such as AFDC, food stamps, energy assistance and housing assistance. The women must also come back to Oakland for court hearings. It is difficult to arrange transportation to and from the shelter for these appointments.

We need a local shelter that is close to county agencies, easy to get to in emergency situations, and provides the least disruption possible in the lives of women and children. Keep in mind that our county has an animal shelter, but not a battered women's shelter. The Garrett County Commission for Women wanted to make your readers aware of this need.

Sincerely,
Phyllis Trickett
Chair, Garrett County

To the Editor:

Having served with the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers for many years as a contracting officer, I find your November 11 article about the bidding method used by the county to purchase a reported 13 million dollars worth of road graders and loaders to be most perplexing.

It is hardly possible for me to believe that the county could legally purchase said road equipment without publicly advertising for bids. I have never ever witnessed any procurement of this dollar magnitude where bidding was not open to all manufacturers of competitive equipment, except in cases of public emergency which certainly did not exist in this procurement.

I also challenge the statement of County Administrator Robert Foushee that District 1-A Delegate George C. Edwards introduced and the Legislature passed a law to allow Garrett County the coming and it is doubtful they will be provided.

Perhaps the commissioners cannot be faulted too much. They are in a captive position wherein they must rely on Robert Foushee who wears two hats. As the County Roads Department administrator he can decide on John Deere equipment and as county administrator can purchase John Deere equipment. Sort of a handle the money and I'll buy what I want.

The real culprits in this shoddy, if not illegal, procurement are the citizens of Garrett County. Over the years Garrett citizens have had a laid-back attitude, fearful of questioning or criticizing our county government or even taking an interest in our county government. One citizen came to me with information about a fraudulent operation, but said he was afraid to report it because his brother worked for the County Roads Department and would be fired. Another example of the many that could be cited is the award of the annual county audit contract. For many years the audit contracts have been awarded to a Bethesda firm although there are local firms well qualified to do the auditing. I given the opportunity. One year the commission reluctantly agreed they should advertise for the audit and a well-qualified local firm was the low bidder. However, it was the county administrator who decided the contract would be awarded to the high bidder that same Bethesda firm. Did anyone protest or complain? Not that I know of.

It was Poro who said, "we have met the enemy and they are us."

John E. Hinebaugh Citizen For Good Government
Sang Run

Editor's Note: We wish to point out that reports of Delegate Edwards having initiated the law that Mr. Hinebaugh refers to is not accurate, according to the delegate. Further, we regret that the information was not taking bids from other manufacturers of equipment which is competitive with John Deere and sold for use in climatic conditions throughout the United States and, for that matter, worldwide.

It is unfortunate that it is not possible now to specifically determine how much could have been saved by competitive bidding—perhaps $150,000 to $200,000. To make an estimate of such savings, copies of the county's contract with the John Deere distributor have been requested for comparison with sales of like equipment by other manufacturers. So far the requested copies have not been forthcoming.

Senior Citizens' Menus

"Eating Together" sites are now operating two days per week. The menu for the week of Nov. 29-Dec. 3 is as follows:

Day 1 - Applesauce, New England ham dinner w/cabbage, potatoes, carrots, corn bread, fruited Jell-O.

Day 2 - Pineapple juice, tossed salad, spaghetti w/meat sauce, garlic bread, sherbet w/cakes.

Coffee, tea, and milk are served with all meals. On occasion, a site may opt to make a substitution in the menu. Senior citizens who wish to eat at one of the "Eating Together" sites are asked to call the individual site to check the menu for the day and to make reservations.

Telephone numbers of individual sites are as follows: Flower Vale Senior Center, Accident, 746-8824; Fuzell Fire Hall, Finzel, 689-8388; Old Mill Grill, Friendsville, 746-5414; Old Mill Restaurant, Gorman, 334-2448; Sauer Hill Arts, Grassville, 895-5991; Jennings Community Building, Jennings, 245-4204; Kitzmiller Community Building, Kitzmiller, 453-3445; Oakland Senior Center, Mtn Lake Park, 334-3399; and Swanton Community Building, Swanton, 387-9191.

This article is one of a series designed to support the growth and development of small businesses in Garrett County. It was written by Sandy Major, a counselor for the Small Business Development Center and a Business Training Coordinator at Garrett Community College. Sandy believes that while it is critical for companies to provide quality products and services, even more is needed in order to survive in today's tough competitive business environment. How to move your business toward quality and beyond is the subject of this series of articles. The staff of the SBDC invites you to learn more about quality or about free small business counseling services by calling 387-3101.

ON UNDERSTANDING OUR INTERNAL CUSTOMERS

In past articles, we have dealt with customers and meeting their expectations. We defined quality just that way -- consistently conforming to the expectations of our customers. But many of us now have any direct contact with the customers who buy our products.

A secretary in a real estate office who spends her time preparing reports -- not dealing with prospective buyers -- might be uncertain about who her customer is. Someone who works in the bookkeeping area of a school might believe he or she doesn't have any "customers." And a truck driver who moves material from one quarry is not likely to have any customers.

But just as we have customers' expectations, we also have our products' expectations. We use our products to produce something. We use it with an unfinished product and pass it on to someone else. If I work in a customer might be the next. If I am a bookkeeper in a company, the various folks I external customers. And if prepared for one of the age that sales rep is my customer adding value and passing "internal customer."

We begin to improve quality products and services. We understand and serve our customers. Just as we find the quality of our products, we find the quality of our internal customers and see of how we are meeting the needs to provide products or a they are inside our customers. We'll look further at a customer and find out h needs in our next article.

Committee member Wendy Bauer added that the committee attempted to spread out the financial damage among the county's residents and property owners so that no one segment of the population would be paying an unfair share of the cost. She also pointed out that Garrett County is "the last bastion of free trash disposal" in the state, noting that Anne Arundel County, for instance, has been charging for such services for over 20 years.

Herpel then stated, "After long deliberation, not too much bickering, and public input, we have come up with these recommendations to lead us into the future."

Following is the list of recommendations made to the commissioners:

1. Continue to operate the six rural collection sites at or near their present locations. These sites must be fenced and gated to restrict access during non-operational hours. The sites should be manned during operational hours. Restricting access is necessary to eliminate up to 30% of the refuse being deposited at some of the sites by non-county residents. This refuse currently has to be transported to the

The information highway of the future has come to Garrett County with the wiring of fiber optic cable into Garrett Community College, one of the three western Maryland colleges to be the first to join the state's distance learning network, according to a recent announcement by a spokesman from the Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone Co. of Maryland.

Garrett now joins Allegheny and Hagerstown community colleges in the fiber optic video highway that ultimately will connect more than 200 sites throughout Maryland in one of the most advanced statewide distance learning networks in the nation.

One classroom at each school has been equipped with video monitors, cameras, microphones and associated equipment -- and linked to the network -- as a contribution by C&P to "Jump-

TOYS FOR FLOOD VICTIMS - The Patriotic Pet Club of Accident is continuing its collection of good used toys for flood victims, as part of the Friendsville Lions Club Drive to aid flood victims of the midwest. A truck will depart from Garrett County on December 1, headed for Iowa. On that truck will be the toys collected as well as furnaces, furniture, and household appliances. Toys were collected from schools in the northern end of the county this past week. Toys are also being collected at Accident (GA, the Accident Branch of the Ruth Enlow Library and McDonald's at Keyser's Ridge. National Internet Teleconference Set At GCC Dec. 2

A national teleconference titled Exploring INTERNET will be offered by Garrett Community College on December 2 from noon until 2:15 p.m. in the Center for Community and Continuing Education in Room CE-314.

With over five million users spanning more than 110 countries, INTERNET is the largest and fastest growing information network in the world, according to a college spokesperson. This video conference is designed for librarians, college and university teachers, and information specialists. Viewers will be introduced to INTERNET, its technology, and its applications.

INTERNET and its workings will also be explained. Speakers will focus on the use of INTERNET for E-Mail, the transfer of remote computer files, and the use of Gopher, Archie, and Wais software to facilitate the use of INTERNET. Questions will be taken from the audience.

GCC faculty and staff must register Monday, November 29, at the Continuing Education Office or by calling 387-3069. GCC students register on November 30. Other interested persons register December 1. There is a $20 registration fee for persons in this group.

There is limited seating for the conference. All registrations will be taken on a first come, first served basis. A video tape of the conference will be made available for viewing at the GCC campus for those who cannot attend.

Persons who wish to view the tape may call Tom Kierstead at 387-3084 to make arrangements.

Persons planning to attend the conference who have special accommodation needs may call 387-3069 to make their needs known.

Come Back, Jack...

We are becoming quite disturbed with the proceedings in Garrett County District Court since the departure of Judge Jack Turney, specifically the sentencing that is being determined by the visiting judges who are filling the bench until a new local judge is appointed.

In some circles Judge Turney was thought to be too lenient with his sentencing, however, a quick comparison of his sentences with those of recent weeks makes Turney look almost like a "hanging judge."

The most glaring difference is in the sentencing for DWI driving while intoxicated cases. While Turney would routinely sentence convicted defendants to 12 months of supervised probation and $500 fines (usually with $200 or $300 suspended), our visiting judges are handing down sentences that include much smaller fines and usually no more than six months of supervised probation. Many more are getting probation before judgment, which is something Judge Turney rarely even considered.

Leniency in sex offense cases is just as disturbing, as most offenders are receiving little more than a slap on the wrist for their crimes.

We know for a fact that our law enforcement officers are upset about the situation, and we certainly understand their frustration. In the case of DWI offenders, local police have obviously been working hard to remove these people from the roadways. This is evidenced by the large number of arrests that are reported on a regular basis. But their efforts are basically futile if our court system continues to allow these abusers to get right back behind the wheel.

Is it because these visiting judges are from the city courts, where DWI ranks so low on the "crime meter"? Were Judge Turney's sentences unusually severe for DWI? Is the state's attorney's office doing its job in preparing for and prosecuting these cases? We don't really know the answers to these questions, but we have our suspicions.

Meanwhile, drunk drivers continue to kill thousands of innocent people every year and convicted sex offenders continue to walk the streets.

We certainly hope that our new district court judge is appointed soon and, more importantly, we hope he will be at least as tough on drunk drivers as was Judge Turney, if not tougher. We will be watching.

Letters to the Editor

To the Editor:

There is a great need in our county that is not being met. Garrett County does not have a shelter for battered women and their children. Domestic violence does occur in this community. When women have been abused in their own homes, they need a place to go where they can feel safe. Such a place does not exist in Garrett County at this time. These women and children have nowhere to go when they fear for their safety.

We are one of only two counties in Maryland that does not have a battered women's shelter. The closest shelter for battered women is in Cumberland. Though women from Garrett County have the option to go to this shelter, this is not an answer to the problem. Many women have children in school and do not want to take them out. Also, the women must come back to Oakland to get services such as AFDC, food stamps, energy assistance and housing assistance. The women must also come back to Oakland for court hearings. It is difficult to arrange transportation to and from the shelter for these appointments.

We need a local shelter that is close to county agencies, easy to get to in emergency situations, and provides the least disruption possible in the lives of women and children. Keep in mind that our county has an animal shelter, but not a battered women's shelter. The Garrett County Commission for Women wanted to make your readers aware of this need.

Sincerely,
Phyllis Trickett

To the Editor:

Having served with the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers for many years as a contracting officer I find your November 11 article about the bidding method used by the county to purchase a reported 1.3 million dollars worth of road graders and loaders to be most perplexing.

It is hardly possible for me to believe that the county could legally purchase said road equipment without publicly advertising for bids. I have never ever witnessed any procurement of this dollar magnitude where bidding was not open to all manufacturers of competitive equipment, except in cases of public exigency which certainly did not exist in this procurement.

I also challenge the statement of County Administrator Robert Fousek that District 1-A Delegate George C. Edwards introduced and the Legislature passed a law to allow Garrett County the latitude of making this kind of purchase without going through the normal bid solicitation process. To the contrary, the enumerated powers in Article 25 of the Maryland Annotated Code provides for competitive bidding for any Garrett County work and the making and awarding of contracts for the purchase of materials and supplies in excess of $5,000. Upon inquiry, the legislative liaison people in Annapolis could not find any bill or law that was passed to change this requirement. I have written to Delegate Edwards and look forward to his reply on this matter. Perhaps the delegate can clear this matter.

Perhaps the county commissioners have been hoodwinked by the county administrator into believing that taking bids from two John Deere distributors, to the exclusion of any other equipment manufacturer, is competitive bidding. To the rancor of the Caterpillar equipment distributor, who questioned the sole source procurement, one commissioner commented that John Deere equipment is better suited to the climate of Garrett County. Does the commissioner really believe that? Is that a justifiable reason for not taking bids from other manufacturers of equipment which is competitive with John Deere and sold for use in climatic conditions throughout the United States and, for that matter, worldwide?

It is unfortunate that it is not possible now to specifically determine how much could have been saved by competitive bidding—perhaps $150,000 to $200,000. To make an estimate of such savings, copies of the county's contract with the John Deere distributor have been requested for comparison with sales of like equipment by other manufacturers. So far the requested copies have not been forthcoming.

Senior Citizens' Menus

"Eating Together" sites are now operating two days per week.

The menu for the week of Nov. 29-Dec. 3 is as follows:

Day 2 - Pineapple juice, tossed salad, spaghetti w/meat sauce, garlic bread, sherbet w/cookie.

Coffee, tea, and milk are served with all meals.

On occasion, a site may opt to make a substitution in the menu. Senior citizens who wish to eat at one of the "Eating Together" sites are asked to call the individual site to check the menu for the day and to make reservations.

Telephone numbers of individual sites are as follows: Flowery Vale Senior Center, Accident, 746-8824; Finzel Fire Hall, Finzel, 689-8388; Old Mill Grill, Friendsville, 746-5414; Old Mill Restaurant, Gorman, 334-2848; Starnes Hill Apts., Grantsville, 895-5092; Jennings Community Building, Jennings, 245-4204; Kitzmiller Community Building, Kitzmiller, 453-3445; Oakland Senior Center, Mtn. Lake Park, 334-3399; and Swanton Community Building, Swanton, 387-9191.

coming and it is doubtful they will be provided.

Perhaps the commissioners cannot be faulted too much. They are in a captive position wherein they must rely on Robert Fousek who wears two hats. As the County Roads Department administrator he can decide on John Deere equipment and as county administrator can purchase John Deere equipment. Sort of, I handle the money and I'll buy what I want.

The real culprits in this shoddy, if not illegal, procurement are the citizens of Garrett County. Over the years Garrett citizens have had a laid-back attitude, fearful of questioning or criticizing our county government or even taking an interest in our county government. One citizen came to me with information about a fraudulent operation, but said he was afraid to report it because his brother worked for the County Roads Department and would be fired. Another example of the many that could be cited is the award of the annual county audit contract. For many years the audit contracts have been awarded to a Bethesda firm although there are local firms well qualified to do the auditing if given the opportunity. One year the commissioners reluctantly agreed they should advertise for the audit and a well-qualified local firm was the low bidder. However, it was the county administrator who decided the contract would be awarded to the high bidder that same Bethesda firm. Did anyone protest or complain? Not that I know of.

It was Poro who said, "we have met the enemy and they are ours."

Ryscavage Tells

"Most importantly, they feel that staff can be used more effectively under the consolidated school concept," he said.

The school board brought this information to the county commissioners yesterday, and the fiscal authority officials must make the decision to support it or not by

Dec. 7.

"There is an appeal process with the IAC," Ryscavage said in a later interview. "We could appeal anything they may recommend, but the time involved in that process could be a real problem."

The education board met Monday afternoon to vote on its recommendation, and the consolidation option passed in a four-to-one vote, with Charlotte Sebold voting against Mrs. Sebold read a prepared statement to the other board members and the superintendent, stating her support of the community school concept "because I believe that long-term value of community based schools cannot be measured in dollars."

In a later interview, she indicated that if the state truly would not fund the two school option, she would have to support the consolidated facility. While she did not state that she did not believe Ryscavage's report from the state, she did say that she would like to see the IAC designees' response in their own writing. Ryscavage told The Republican that he has already asked for such a document, and it is expected in the next several days.

Other school board members voiced their reasons for supporting a consolidated school.

"What our values are and what our funding is are two different things," said Mikal Moomau. "I don't believe that a building makes a good student. That concept and spirit is with the people here in Garrett County, and it can exist in any building, no matter what the size may be."

"We also have to remember our other considerations with money - the salaries of our support personnel and teachers, the transportation funding that is apparently going to be cut next year, books and equipment - we always have to balance things. I believe the consolidation to be the best in the long-run."

Board member Bryan Paugh said the saving of the two schools "would be nice, but really not feasible."

Both Sebold and Hannah Sincell, board member, expressed their wish that the new facility be centrally located between the two school communities, to be fair. John Nelson, Office of Planning and Zoning, did indicate two weeks ago that an area along Rt. 219 South may be appropriate for the new building.

Commissioner John Braskey was present at the Monday meeting, and Mrs. Sincell asked him several pointed questions about the entire issue, including the commissioners' participation in the decision-making process.

"I would think that you all would be paying very close attention to any major decision we have to make," she said. "And here at the last minute, we have to go back and study something that a very qualified committee already studied. One half of your budget goes to this system, but did any one of you go to a single [Southern Area Elementary School] committee meeting?"

Braskey said that they had not.

"Well, you should have," she said.

Funding Options

Committee member Wendy Bauer added that the committee attempted to "spread out the financial damage" among the county's residents and property owners so that no one segment of the population would be paying an unfair share of the costs. She also pointed out that Garrett County is "the last bastion of free trash disposal" in the state, noting that Anne Arundel County, for instance, has been charging for such services for over 20 years.

Herpel then stated, "After long deliberation, not too much bickering, and public input, we have come up with these recommendations to lead us into the future."

Following is the list of recommendations made to the commissioners.

1. Continue to operate the six rural collection sites at or near their present locations. These sites must be fenced and gated to restrict access during non-operational hours. The sites should be manned during operational hours. Restricting access is necessary to eliminate up to 30% of the refuse being deposited at some of the sites by non-county residents. This refuse currently has to be transported to the

Moving Toward
Quality
And Beyond

This article is one of a series designed to support the growth and development of small businesses in Garrett County. It was written by Sandy Major, a counselor for the Small Business Development Center and a Business Training Coordinator at Garrett Community College. Sandy believes that while it is critical for companies to provide quality products and services, even more is needed in order to survive in today's tough competitive business environment. How to move your business toward quality and beyond is the subject of this series of articles. The staff of the SBDC invites you to learn more about quality or about free small business counseling services by calling 387-3101.

ON UNDERSTANDING OUR INTERNAL CUSTOMERS

In past articles, we have dealt with customers and meeting their expectations. We defined quality just that way -- consistently conforming to the expectations of our customers. But many of us never have any direct contact with the customers who buy our products.

A secretary in a real estate office who spends her time preparing reports - not dealing with prospective buyers - might be uncertain about who her customer is. Someone who works in the bookkeeping area of a school might believe he or she doesn't have any "customers." And a truck driver who moves material from one location to another at a rock quarry is not likely to think in terms of serving the customer.

But just as we have defined quality as meeting our customers' expectations, we define a customer as anyone who uses our products and services. Every one of us produces something. We all have suppliers, who provide us with an unfinished product. We add value to that product and pass it on to someone else. And that someone else is our "customer." If I work in a manufacturing operation my customer might be the next person in the assembly process. If I am a bookkeeper in a school my internal "customers" are often the various folks that provide service directly to external customers. And if my product is a real estate report prepared for one of the agency's sales representatives, then that sales rep is my customer. In each of these cases I am adding value and passing on my product or service to my "internal customer."

We begin to improve our internal systems and provide quality products and services for external customers when we understand and meet the needs of our internal customers. Just as we ask our external customers how they find the quality of our products, we need to meet with our internal customers and see if they agree with our assessment of how we are meeting their needs. The job of each one of us is to provide products or services for our customers, whether they are inside our outside the organization.

landfill and disposed of at county taxpayers' expense. Manning of the sites will also eliminate the abuse that is occurring related to illegal commercial dumping and depositing of refuse on the ground. Help and instruction can also be given to individuals using the county's recycling bins.

2. Cars or pickups allowed access to the rural collection sites should be identified with a sticker attached to the windshield or the front bumper of the vehicle. A $20 fee should be established for each sticker which is sold. Stickers should only be sold to county residents or property owners at this time. We believe this fee could raise between $60,000 and $80,000 per year to help offset costs of operating the sites. A limit should also be placed on the number of bags of refuse which can be delivered to the site at any one visit. This would help eliminate use of the facility by individuals hauling other people's refuse to the site for profit. Recycling efforts should also be expanded at some of the sites.

3. Limit operational hours at the site to between 40 and 45 hours per week. Actual daily hours of operation should be flexible to allow all county residents access to the sites at some point during the week regardless of their work schedule. Should hours of operation be expanded, additional funds will be needed.

4. Establish tipping fees at the new Garrett County

Solid Waste Disposal and Recycling Facility at the following levels: residential refuse, $28/ton; rubble or construction refuse, $40/ton, shingles, $40/ton; yard waste, $40/ton; and industrial waste, $40/ton.

The committee believes that the above tipping fees, if implemented, could generate approximately $900,000 per year. It is also our recommendation that an additional $2/ton tipping fee be added to the above amounts which would be dedicated to the county's recycling effort.

5. The existing amount of county tax dollars dedicated to solid waste collection and

Fiber Optics Comes To GCC

The information highway of the future has come to Garrett County with the wiring of fiber optic cable into Garrett Community College, one of the three western Maryland colleges to be the first to join the state's distance learning network, according to a recent announcement by a spokesperson from the Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone Co. of Maryland.

Garrett now joins Allegany and Hagerstown community colleges in the fiber optic video highway that ultimately will connect more than 200 sites throughout Maryland in one of the most advanced statewide distance learning networks in the nation.

One classroom at each school has been equipped with video monitors, cameras, microphones and associated equipment -- and linked to the network -- as a contribution by C&P to "jump-start" the use of distance learning. Installation began in early September. C&P simultaneously constructed the sophisticated fiber-optic network that joins these locations.

These schools join the eight sites in Baltimore City and County that are already on the distance learning network, following successful trials there over the past two years.

"Today is the first day of a new era for our schools," said Garrett County College President Steve Herman. "This technology will enable us to share resources, courses, and capabilities with others on the network, enhancing education for students and teachers alike at each of the locations. Ultimately, it will provide a virtual classroom without walls as information becomes freely and readily available to people who want it, regardless of where they are."

TOYS FOR FLOOD VICTIMS - The Patriotic Pet Club of Accident is continuing its collection of good used toys for flood victims, as part of the Friendsville Lions Club Drive to aid flood victims of the midwest. A truck will depart from Garrett County on December 1, headed for Iowa. On that truck will be the toys collected as well as furnaces, furniture, and household appliances. Toys were collected from schools in the northern end of the county this past week. Toys are also being collected at Accident IGA, the Accident Branch of the Ruth Enlow Library, and McDonald's at Keyser's Ridge. Shown above are employees of McDonald's giving toys at their collection site. Toys will be collected through November 29, according to Peggy Gosnell, advisor for the Pet Club. Members of the club expressed their appreciation to all those who have given toys.

es, and capabilities with others on the network, enhancing education for students and teachers alike at each of the locations. Ultimately, it will provide a virtual classroom without walls as information becomes freely and readily available to people who want it, regardless of where they are."

In addition to its use between and among colleges, the fiber-optics distance learning network can provide a number of applications.

"This technology, while very important to schools, will play an equally significant role in helping make continuing education courses available for local businesses," said Shaila R. Avery, Maryland Secretary of Higher Education. "Area employees who wish to upgrade their formal education, or hone their skills, could take advantage of undergraduate and graduate-level courses offered through distance learning. In addition to making more efficient use of technology, such programs could help provide Maryland's workforce with a competitive edge in a global economy."

National Internet Teleconference Set At GCC Dec. 2

A national teleconference titled Exploring INTERNET will be offered by Garrett Community College on December 2 from noon until 2:15 p.m. in the Center for Community and Continuing Education in Room CE-314.

With over five million users spanning more than 110 countries, INTERNET is the largest and fastest growing information network in the world, according to a college spokesperson.

This video conference is designed for librarians, college and university teachers, and information specialists. Viewers will be introduced to INTERNET, its technology, and its applications.

INTERNET and its workings will also be explained. Speakers will focus on the use of INTERNET for E-Mail, the transfer of remote computer files, and the use of Gopher, Archie, and Wais software to facilitate the use of INTERNET. Questions will be taken from the audience.

GCC faculty and staff must register Monday, November 29, at the Continuing Education Office or by calling 387-3089. GCC students register on November 30. Other interested persons register December 1. There is a $20 registration fee for persons in this group.

There is limited seating for the conference. All registrations will be taken on a first come, first served basis. A video tape of the conference will be made available for viewing at the GCC campus for those who cannot attend.

Persons who wish to view the tape may call Tom Kierstead at 387-3084 to make arrangements.

Persons planning to attend the conference who have special accommodation needs may call 387-3089 to make their needs known.

Come Back, Jack...

We are becoming quite disturbed with the proceedings in Garrett County's District Court since the departure of Judge Jack Turney, specifically the sentencing that is being determined by the visiting judges who are filling the bench until a new local judge is appointed.

In some circles Judge Turney was thought to be too lenient with his sentencing, however, a quick comparison of his sentences with those of recent weeks makes Turney look almost like a "hanging judge."

The most glaring difference is in the sentencing for DWI driving while intoxicated cases. While Turney would routinely sentence convicted defendants to 12 months of supervised probation and $500 fines, usually with $200 or $300 suspended, our visiting judges are handing down sentences that include much smaller fines and usually no more than six months of supervised probation. Many more are getting probation before judgment, which is something Judge Turney rarely even considered.

Leniency in sex offense cases is just as disturbing, as most offenders are receiving little more than a slap on the wrist for their crimes.

We know for a fact that our law enforcement officers are upset about the situation, and we certainly understand their frustration. In the case of DWI offenders, local police have obviously been working hard to remove these people from the roadways. This is evidenced by the large number of arrests that are reported on a regular basis. But their efforts are basically futile if our court system continues to allow these abusers to get right back behind the wheel.

Is it because these visiting judges are from the city courts, where DWI ranks so low on the "crime meter?" Were Judge Turney's sentences unusually severe for DWI? Is the state's attorney's office doing its job in preparing for and prosecuting these cases? We don't really know the answers to these questions, but we have our suspicions.

Meanwhile, drunk drivers continue to kill thousands of innocent people every year and convicted sex offenders continue to walk the streets.

We certainly hope that our new district court judge is appointed soon and, more importantly, we hope he will be at least as tough on drunk drivers as was Judge Turney, if not tougher. We will be watching.

Letters to the Editor

To the Editor:

There is a great need in our county that is not being met. Garrett County does not have a shelter for battered women and their children. Domestic violence does occur in this community. When women have been abused in their own homes, they need a place to go where they can feel safe. Such a place does not exist in Garrett County at this time. These women and children have nowhere to go when they fear for their safety.

We are one of only two counties in Maryland that does not have a battered women's shelter. The closest shelter for battered women is in Cumberland. Though women from Garrett County have the option to go to this shelter, it is not an answer to the problem. Many women have children in school and do not want to take them out. Also, the women must come back to Oakland to get services such as AFDC, food stamps, energy assistance and housing assistance. The women must also come back to Oakland for court hearings. It is difficult to arrange transportation to and from the shelter for these appointments.

We need a local shelter that is close to county agencies, easy to get to in emergency situations, and provides the least disruption possible in the lives of women and children. Keep in mind that our county has an animal shelter, but not a battered woman's shelter. The Garrett County Commission for Women wanted to make your readers aware of this need.

Sincerely,
Phyllis Trickett
Chair Garrett County

To the Editor:

Having served with the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers for many years as a contracting officer I find your November 11 article about the bidding method used by the county to purchase a reported 1.3 million dollars worth of road graders and loaders to be most perplexing.

It is hardly possible for me to believe that the county could legally purchase said road equipment without publicly advertising for bids. I have never ever witnessed any procurement of this dollar magnitude where bidding was not open to all manufacturers of competitive equipment, except in cases of public exigency which certainly did not exist in this procurement.

I also challenge the statement of County Administrator Robert Fousek that District 1-A Delegate George C. Edwards introduced and the Legislature passed a law to allow Garrett County the latitude of making this kind of purchase without going through the normal bid solicitation process. To the contrary, the enumerated powers in Article 25 of the Maryland Annotated Code provides for competitive bidding for any Garrett County work and the making and awarding of contracts for the purchase of materials and supplies in excess of $5,000. Upon inquiry, the legislative liaison people in Annapolis could not find any bill or law that was passed to change this requirement. I have written to Delegate Edwards and look forward to his reply on this matter. Perhaps the delegate can clear this matter.

Perhaps the county commissioners have been hoodwinked by the county administrator into believing that taking bids from two John Deere distributors, to the exclusion of any other equipment manufacturer, is competitive bidding. To the contrary, the Caterpillar equipment distributor, who questioned the sole source procurement, one commissioner commented that John Deere equipment is better suited to the climate of Garrett County. Does the commissioner really believe that? Is that a justifiable reason for not taking bids from other manufacturers of equipment which is competitive with John Deere and sold for use in climatic conditions throughout the United States and, for that matter, worldwide?

It is unfortunate that it is not possible now to specifically determine how much could have been saved by competitive bidding—perhaps $150,000 to $200,000. To make an estimate of such savings, copies of the county's contract with the John Deere distributor have been requested for comparison with sales of like equipment by other manufacturers. So far the requested copies have not been forthcoming.

Senior Citizens' Menus

"Eating Together" sites are now operating two days per week. The menu for the week of Nov. 29-Dec. 3 is as follows:

Day 1 - Applesauce, New England ham dinner w/cabbage, potatoes, carrots, corn bread, fruited Jell-O.

Day 2 - Pineapple juice, tossed salad, spaghetti w/meat sauce, garlic bread, sherbet w/cookie.

Coffee, tea, and milk are served with all meals.

On occasion, a site may opt to make a substitution in the menu. Senior citizens who wish to eat at one of the "Eating Together" sites are asked to call the individual site to check the menu for the day and to make reservations.

Perhaps the commissioners cannot be faulted too much. They are in a captive position wherein they must rely on Robert Fousek who wears two hats. As the County Roads Department administrator he can decide on John Deere equipment and as county administrator can purchase John Deere equipment. Sort of, I handle the money and I'll buy what I want.

The real culprits in this shoddy, if not illegal, procurement are the citizens of Garrett County. Over the years Garrett citizens have had a laid-back attitude, fearful of questioning or criticizing our county government or even taking an interest in our county government. One citizen came to me with information about a fraudulent operation, but said he was afraid to report it because his brother worked for the County Roads Department and would be fired. Another example of the many that could be cited is the award of the annual county audit contract. For many years the audit contracts have been awarded to a Bethesda firm although there are local firms well qualified to do the auditing if given the opportunity. One year the commissioners reluctantly agreed they should advertise for the audit and a well-qualified local firm was the low bidder. However, it was the county administrator who decided the contract would be awarded to the high bidder—that same Bethesda firm. Did anyone protest or complain? Not that I know of.

"Most importantly, they feel that staff can be used more effectively under the consolidated school concept," he said.

The school board brought this information to the county commissioners yesterday, and the fiscal authority officials must make the decision to support it or not by

Dec. 7.

"There is an appeal process with the IAC," Ryscavage said in a later interview. "We could appeal anything they may recommend, but the time involved in that process could be a real problem."

The education board met Monday afternoon to vote on its recommendation, and the consolidation option passed in a four-to-one vote, with Charlotte Sebold voting against. Mrs. Sebold read a prepared statement to the other board members and the superintendent, stating her support of the community school concept "because I believe that long-term value of community based schools cannot be measured in dollars."

In a later interview, she indicated that if the state truly would not fund the two school option, she would have to support the consolidated facility. While she did not state that she did not believe Ryscavage's report from the state, she did say that she would like to see the IAC designees' response in their own writing. Ryscavage told The Republican that he has already asked for such a document, and it is expected in the next several days.

Other school board members voiced their reasons for supporting a consolidated school.

"What our values are and what our funding is are two different things," said Mikal Moomau. "I don't believe that a building makes a good student. That concept and spirit is with the people here in Garrett County, and it can exist in any building, no matter what the size may be."

"We also have to remember our other considerations with money - the salaries of our support personnel and teachers, the transportation funding that is apparently going to be cut next year, books and equipment - we always have to balance things. I believe the consolidation to be the best in the long-run."

Board member Bryan Paugh said the saving of the two schools "would be nice, but really not feasible."

Both Sebold and Hannah Sincell, board member, expressed their wish that the new facility be centrally located between the two school communities, to be fair. John Nelson, Office of Planning and Zoning, did indicate two weeks ago that an area along Rt. 219 South may be appropriate for the new building.

Commissioner John Braskey was present at the Monday meeting, and Mrs. Sincell asked him several pointed questions about the entire issue, including the commissioners' participation in the decision-making process.

"I would think that you all would be paying very close attention to any major decision we have to make," she said. "And here at the last minute, we have to go back and study something that a very qualified committee already studied. One half of your budget goes to this system, but did any one of you go to a single [Southern Area Elementary School] committee meeting?"

Braskey said that they had not.

"Well, you should have," she said.

Committee member Wendy Bauer added that the committee attempted to "spread out the financial damage" among the county's residents and property owners so that no one segment of the population would be paying an unfair share of the costs. She also pointed out that Garrett County is "the last bastion of free trash disposal" in the state, noting that Anne Arundel County, for instance, has been charging for such services for over 20 years.

Herpel then stated, "After long deliberation, not too much bickering, and public input, we have come up with these recommendations to lead us into the future."

Following is the list of recommendations made to the commissioners.

1. Continue to operate the six rural collection sites at or near their present locations. These sites must be fenced and gated to restrict access during non-operational hours. The sites should be manned during operational hours. Restricting access is necessary to eliminate up to 30% of the refuse being deposited at some of the sites by non-county residents. This refuse currently has to be transported to the

Moving Toward
Quality
And Beyond

This article is one of a series designed to support the growth and development of small businesses in Garrett County. It was written by Sandy Major, a counselor for the Small Business Development Center and a Business Training Coordinator at Garrett Community College. Sandy believes that while it is critical for companies to provide quality products and services, even more is needed in order to survive in today's tough competitive business environment. How to move your business toward quality and beyond is the subject of this series of articles. The staff of the SBDC invites you to learn more about quality or about free small business counseling services by calling 387-3101.

ON UNDERSTANDING OUR INTERNAL CUSTOMERS

In past articles, we have dealt with customers and meeting their expectations. We defined quality just that way -- consistently conforming to the expectations of our customers. But many of us never have any direct contact with the customers who buy our products.

A secretary in a real estate office who spends her time preparing reports - not dealing with prospective buyers - might be uncertain about who her customer is. Someone who works in the bookkeeping area of a school might believe he or she doesn't have any "customers." And a truck driver who moves material from one location to another at a rock quarry is not likely to think in terms of serving the customer.

But just as we have defined quality as meeting our customers' expectations, we define a customer as anyone who uses our products and services. Every one of us produces something. We all have suppliers, who provide us with an unfinished product. We add value to that product and pass it on to someone else. And that someone else is our "customer." If I work in a manufacturing operation my customer might be the next person in the assembly process. If I am a bookkeeper in a school my internal "customers" are often the various folks that provide service directly to external customers. And if my product is a real estate report prepared for one of the agency's sales representatives, then that sales rep is my customer. In each of these cases I am adding value and passing on my product or service to my "internal customer."

We begin to improve our internal systems and provide quality products and services for external customers when we understand and meet the needs of our internal customers. Just as we ask our external customers how they find the quality of our products, we need to meet with our internal customers and see if they agree with our assessment of how we are meeting their needs. The job of each one of us is to provide products or services for our customers, whether they are inside our organization.

landfill and disposed of at county taxpayers' expense. Manning of the sites will also eliminate the abuse that is occurring related to illegal commercial dumping and depositing of refuse on the ground. Help and instruction can also be given to individuals using the county's recycling bins.

2. Cars or pickups allowed access to the rural collection sites should be identified with a sticker attached to the windshield or the front bumper of the vehicle. A $20 fee should be established for each sticker which is sold. Stickers should only be sold to county residents or property owners at this time. We believe this fee could raise between $60,000 and $80,000 per year to help offset costs of operating the sites. A limit should also be placed on the number of bags of refuse which can be delivered to the site at any one visit. This would help eliminate use of the facility by individuals hauling other people's refuse to the site for profit. Recycling efforts should also be expanded at some of the sites.

3. Limit operational hours at the site to between 40 and 45 hours per week. Actual daily hours of operation should be flexible to allow all county residents access to the sites at some point during the week regardless of their work schedule. Should hours of operation be expanded, additional funds will be needed.

4. Establish tipping fees at the new Garrett County Solid Waste Disposal and Recycling Facility at the following levels: residential refuse, $28/ton; rubble or construction refuse, $40/ton; shingles, $40/ton; yard waste, $40/ton; and industrial waste, $40/ton.

The committee believes that the above tipping fees, if implemented, could generate approximately $900,000 per year. It is also our recommendation that an additional $2/ton tipping fee be added to the above amounts which would be dedicated to the county's recycling effort.

5. The existing amount of county tax dollars dedicated to solid waste collection and disposal is $1.3 million. Continued on Page A-13

Fiber Optics Comes To GCC

The information highway of the future has come to Garrett County with the wiring of fiber optic cable into Garrett Community College, one of the three western Maryland colleges to be the first to join the state's distance learning network, according to a recent announcement by a spokesperson from the Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone Co. of Maryland.

Garrett now joins Allegany and Hagerstown community colleges in the fiber optic video highway that ultimately will connect more than 200 sites throughout Maryland in one of the most advanced statewide distance learning networks in the nation.

One classroom at each school has been equipped with video monitors, cameras, microphones and associated equipment -- and linked to the network -- as a contribution by C&P to "jump-start" the use of distance learning. Installation began in early September. C&P simultaneously constructed the sophisticated fiber-optic network that joins these locations.

These schools join the eight sites in Baltimore City and County that are already on the distance learning network, following successful trials there over the past two years.

"Today is the first day of a new era for our schools," said Garrett County College President Steve Herman. "This technology will enable us to share resources, courses, es, and capabilities with others on the network, enhancing education for students and teachers alike at each of the locations. Ultimately, it will provide a virtual classroom without walls as information becomes freely and readily available to people who want it, regardless of where they are."

TOYS FOR FLOOD VICTIMS - The Patriotic Pet Club of Accident is continuing its collection of good used toys for flood victims, as part of the Friendsville Lions Club Drive to aid flood victims of the midwest. A truck will depart from Garrett County on December 1, headed for Iowa. On that truck will be the toys collected as well as furnaces, furniture, and household appliances. Toys were collected from schools in the northern end of the county this past week. Toys are also being collected at Accident IGA, the Accident Branch of the Ruth Enlow Library, and McDonald's at Keyser's Ridge. Shown above are employees of McDonald's giving toys at their collection site. Toys will be collected through November 29, according to Peggy Goanell, advisor for the Pet Club. Members of the club expressed their appreciation to all those who have given toys.

In addition to its use between and among colleges, the fiber-optics distance learning network can provide a number of applications.

"This technology, while very important to schools, will play an equally significant role in helping make continuing education courses available for local businesses," said Shaila R. Avery, Maryland Secretary of Higher Education. "Area employees who wish to upgrade their formal education, or hone their skills, could take advantage of undergraduate and graduate-level courses offered through distance learning. In addition to making more efficient use of technology, such programs

National Internet Teleconference Set At GCC Dec. 2

A national teleconference titled Exploring INTERNET will be offered by Garrett Community College on December 2 from noon until 2:15 p.m. in the Center for Community and Continuing Education in Room CE-314.

With over five million users spanning more than 110 countries, INTERNET is the largest and fastest growing information network in the world, according to a college spokesperson.

This video conference is designed for librarians, college and university teachers, and information specialists. Viewers will be introduced to INTERNET, its technology, and its applications.

INTERNET and its workings will also be explained. Speakers will focus on the use of INTERNET for E-Mail, the transfer of remote computer files, and the use of Gopher, Archie, and Wais software to facilitate the use

Masontown, W.Va. Couple Sentenced On Drug Charges

A couple from Masontown, W.Va. found guilty of various drug charges were sentenced in Garrett County District Court by Judge Thomas Lohm, retired, during recent court proceedings.

Dean E. Thorne, 31, was found guilty of possession of drug paraphernalia and fined $25 for that offense. He was also found guilty of driving while under the influence of alcohol and sentenced to a 20-day suspended jail term, fined $500 ($350 suspended), and placed on 12 months of supervised probation. He was granted probation before judgment on a driving an uninsured vehicle charge.

In plea agreements with the State's Attorney's Office, charges of possession of marijuana, failure to drive right of center, driving on a suspended license, displaying a suspended license, and operating an unregistered vehicle were not prosecuted.

Amy M. Thorne, 25, was granted probation before judgment on a marijuana possession charge. She was fined $50 and placed on six months of supervised WORLD AIDS DAY PROCLAIMED IN COUNTY - December 1 has been proclaimed by the Garrett County Commissioners as "World AIDS Day" and they have asked that citizens "gain the knowledge necessary to protect themselves from this devastating disease." Sponsored by the World Health Organization and the Garrett County Interagency Council on AIDS, World AIDS Day was established to encourage public education as the most effective means of gaining control over the pandemic. In the United States alone, it has been estimated that over one million people are infected with the virus that causes AIDS. Shown in the above photo, seated, left to right, are the Garrett County Commissioners, Brenda Butcher, Elwood Groves, and John Braskey. Standing, same order, are Paul Stauffer, Min. Top Ministerial Association; Chris Shaffer, Garrett County Health Department; Dr. Rex Archer, Garrett County Health Officer; Mary VanSickle, Garrett County Memorial Hospital; Kay Tranham, Cuppet Management Company, Inc.; and Beverly Murphy, Garrett County Board of Education president.

probation. The two had been arrested on April 8 after a Maryland State Police trooper spotted Mr. Thorne operating a vehicle and crossing the center line. Upon stopping the vehicle, the officer observed a homemade smoking pipe in Mr. Thorne's shirt pocket. A further search of the vehicle revealed a film canister in the console area containing a bag of suspected marijuana.

In other District Court news, Michael W. Major, 29, New Windsor, and Mark T. Garman, 30, Westminster, were both granted probation before judgment on a possession of marijuana charge. They were each fined $100 and placed on six months of supervised probation.

The two had been stopped on August 20 at a drug interdiction check-point where consent was given by Garman to search the vehicle. A wooden pipe with suspected marijuana residue was found as well as suspected marijuana between the pages of a catalog.

Steven W. Guthrie, 28, Oakland was granted probation before judgment on a drug possession charge. The judge fined Guthrie $100 and placed him on six months of supervised probation.

In plea agreements with the State's Attorney's Office, charges of possession of drug paraphernalia, disrupting an athletic contest, and possession of drugs believed to be controlled dangerous substances were not prosecuted.

Guthrie was arrested by the Garrett County Sheriff's Office following the execution of a court-ordered search and seizure warrant. Reportedly found at his place of residence were suspected marijuana seeds, a quantity of unknown pills, a hand-made marijuana pipe with suspected marijuana residue, a set of hand scales, and two packs of rolling papers.

Richard H. Feigley, 57, Grantsville, was found guilty of two counts of battery. The judge sentenced him to a 180-day suspended jail term and placed him on 30 months of supervised probation for each count. His knife and hatchet were forfeited to the state.

Two additional counts of battery, one count of resisting arrest, three counts of causing injury with a deadly weapon, one count of reckless endangerment, and four counts of malicious destruction of property were not prosecuted by the State's Attorney's Office because of plea agreements.

Feigley had been arrested by the Maryland State Police on August 19 after he reportedly assaulted his stepdaughter and her boyfriend and threatened them with a utility knife. He also reportedly scuffled with police and resisted arrest, which resulted in the damage of an officer's watchband and uniform trousers. He also allegedly destroyed a pair of handcuffs.

Jerry W. Clegg, 37, Oakland, was found guilty of one count of battery and was handed a 60-day suspended jail term and placed on one year of unsupervised probation. An additional count of battery and one count of assault were not prosecuted because of a plea agreement.

Those charges had been filed by the Garrett County Sheriff's Office after they had been alerted to a fight at a local restaurant. Upon arrival, deputies noted that Clegg had fled the scene. He was located at his residence and brought back to the scene. Witnesses said that Clegg had reached inside the vehicle of Michael and Barbara Stemple and attempted to strike Mr. Stemple. Instead, he reportedly struck Stemple's 1-year-old child on the head. Mr. Stemple then exited his vehicle and Clegg reportedly struck him in the face, jaw, and mouth. Mrs. Stemple then reportedly attempted to separate Clegg and her husband and Clegg then allegedly threatened her with harm.

Larry G. Wilson, 31, Oakland, was found not guilty of battery. He had been arrested for that offense on September 8 by the Garrett County Sheriff's Office.

Deputies had reportedly been called by family members who stated that Wilson was battering Edith B. Tasker. Police noted that Tasker's shoulder seemed to be out of place and that there were bruises on her right upper arm. Tasker reluctantly told police that Wilson had broken her arm and jaw. She, however, refused medical treatment.

DNR CASE

George E. McLellan, 82, Cumberland, was granted probation before judgment on a charge of operating a motorboat while under the influence of alcohol. A $150 fine was imposed and McLellan was granted 90 days of supervised probation.

GARRETT COUNTY OCF OFFICE MOVES - The Garrett County Office for Children, Youth, and Families, Inc. (OCYF), has moved its office from the Garrett County Board of Education office to the Big Tee Burger plaza area, next to Denny's restaurant. The new address is 450 North Third Street, Oakland. OCYF is a private, non-profit agency which promotes stable, safe, and healthy environments for children and families by increasing self-sufficiency and working toward family preservation. The agency accomplishes this by facilitating and providing flexible comprehensive services to children and families. OCYF also serves as the lead agency for the Garrett County Infants and Toddlers Program. Pictured above, left to right, are Bob Stephens, executive director, and Jay Stewart. Stephens expressed his gratitude to the education board office personnel for providing space for the agency from 1991 until the recent move. For more information about OCYF, persons may stop by the new office or call 334-1189.

Miss Bosley also told about a DNR sponsored week's program at Hickory Center which acquainted the participants with environmental, conservation, and land management issues. She had attended the camp last summer.

LIONS CLUB NEWS

The drive for clothing, furnaces, used or new appliances, furniture and toys for the children for the flood victims in the midwest is continuing. Anything that people wishing to contribute will be picked up by Lion Club members. Persons may contact Marlin or Lena Lawson at 301-748-5480 or 748-4242. The above items should be in good working condition.

The trailer that is going to deliver all collected items was parked at the home of Marlin and Lena Lawson on Saturday, Nov. 20, and all collected until then was loaded. Since then numerous donations have come in, including a trailer load of items delivered by Elizabeth Schoba and Beth Combs, who drove the truck and trailer, along with Beth's son, Phillip. This load was donated by people from the Moorefield and Wardsville, W.Va., area. These small communities also donated substantially in the first drive.

In last week's news it was stated that the Christmas party for the club would be held on Dec. 10. It should have said Dec. 21. The party will be held at Raven's Inn, at Markleysburg, Pa., at 6:30 p.m.

The next meeting of the Friendsville Lions Club will be held on Dec. 9 at 6:30 p.m. at Twila's Old Mill Restaurant. All members are urged to attend.

Persons who know of others in the area who are in need of food for Christmas are asked to contact any Lions Club members.

ROLLER SKATING

Roller skating will be held at Mt. Top Fellowship Center, Rt. 40, on Saturday, Nov. 27, from 7-9 p.m. It costs 75 cents to skate.

SELLING FRUIT CAKES

Pack 33 of Scouts are still selling fruit cakes and collecting canned food until the end of the year. The food will be given to the House of Hope, Oakland.

CAKE CORRECTION

In last week's issue of The Republican, a photo outline incorrectly reported that Paula Spear had baked a cake for the scouts. It should have stated that the cake was baked and decorated by Christy Thomas.

HOMEMAKERS MEET

The Homemakers club met Friday, Nov. 19, for lunch at the home of Mrs. Carolyn Humberston, and co-hostess, Mrs. Ina Grace Lechman. Ina Grace, new president, conducted the meeting. Other officers are: vice president, Betty Vitez; treasurer, Ellen Humberston; and secretary, Carolyn Humberston. The members decided to change the name of the club to Friendsville Country Women. They are making plans to go out for dinner in December for their Christmas meeting. Secret sisters will be revealed with a gift, and new names drawn. The next meeting will be at the home of Ellen Humberston.

BIRTHDAY CELEBRATED

Mrs. Sandy Robinson was honored on Saturday, Nov. 20, with a dinner by her parents, Garry and Dottie Friend, for her birthday, which was Nov. 22. She was honored with a cake, gifts, and cards. Attending the dinner were her husband, Michael, and daughter, Tabitha. Mrs. Jo Ann Robinson, Scott and Terry Stough and children, Randy and Sue Robinson and daughters, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Fike, Mrs. Candy Fike, Mrs. Alta Friend, and Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Humberston.

Student Named To Who's Who

Jeremy Daniel DeWitt, son of Terry and Nancy DeWitt, Oakland, has been named to Who's Who Among American High School Students for the 1992-93 academic year.

A senior at Southern High School, he is a member of the varsity basketball team and belongs to the Christian Club. He also belongs to the Powersource Youth Group and the youth choir of Crellin Assembly of God Church. The student plans to attend college and pursue a career in law enforcement.

Only five percent of the nation's high school students were selected to appear in the '92-'93 edition of Who's Who, according to a spokesperson. Students are recognized for their academic achievements and their contributions to their schools and communities.

Creedmore House To Be On ARC Christmas Tour

Creedmore, a Victorian house located in Mtn. Lake Park, will be the fourth house on the annual Home for the Holidays tour, sponsored by the Garrett County Chapter of the American Red Cross and scheduled for December 3-4.

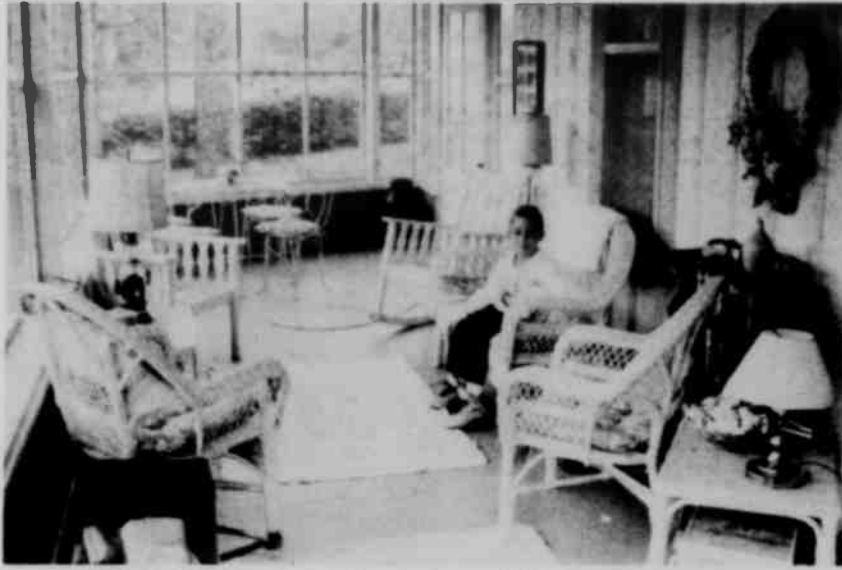

A three-story structure located at the corner of Oakland Drive, Old Rt. 135 and G Street, Creedmore was built in 1903 by the Honorable Creed Collins, of Cairo, W. Va., one of many summer residents of the Park at that time. Mrs. Collins purchased the property from the Mountain Lake Park Association for $400 on August 1, 1903, and it was reported in The Republican newspaper in October of that year that Creed Collins "spent the early part of the week at the Park arranging for the building of a modern cottage" on the property, and that "the house will cost about $3,500."

The house is presently owned by Donald and Suzanne Sincell, the eighth family to own the residence throughout its 90 years of existence. The five-bedroom structure lies outside of the town's historic district, but is a separate listing on the National Register of Historic Places. This will be the third time in recent years that the house has been opened to the public for touring.

The exterior of the house features some rather unusual architecture not found on most of the historic houses in the Park, while the interior is Victorian, with yellow pine floors, oak woodwork, high ceilings, and oak staircase. The entrance into the living room features a massive front door, with the name Creedmore etched into the beveled glass.

The second floor includes five bedrooms and a bath, with a hallway extending the entire length of the floor, north and south.

Although the general layout of the house is basically the same today as when it was constructed, the owners have restored and/or redecorated every room, with the exception of the full attic and the basement, which was added to the house in the 1950s.

CREEDMORE is the name of a Victorian "cottage" in Mtn. Lake Park that will be among four residences featured on the annual American Red Cross Home for the Holidays tour, slated for December 3-4. Built in 1903-04 by Creed Collins, of Cairo, W. Va., the five-bedroom house features 11-foot ceilings, finished yellow pine floors, an oak staircase, and oak woodwork. Pictured above is Adam Sincell, one of the residents of the house, seated on the sun porch. Below is Rachel Sincell seated in the dining room engaged in a homework assignment. The house is owned by Donald and Suzanne Sincell. Tickets for the tour are available at Gregg's, Englander's, and Proudfoot's pharmacies in Oakland. See story for details.

The owners recently purchased adjacent property and are in the process of restoring a small cottage, dating back to the late 1800s and once used as servants' quarters for a boarding house.

Residing with Mr. and Mrs. Sincell are their four children.

ma Rickman, Joanne Rehele, Nancy Leary, and Polly Harist.

Grand Central Station, Oakland, has donated a cotton coverlet that will be raffled off during the tour. Tickets may be purchased at the house.

Tickets for the Home for the Holidays tour are now available at Englander's, Gregg's, and Proudfoot's pharmacies in Oakland, or from Donna Heginbotham, tour coordinator, for $5 each. The tour will be held Friday, Dec. 3, from 4 to 9 p.m. and Saturday, Dec. 4, from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. Persons desiring more information may contact Mrs. Heginbotham at 334-2837.

The other three houses on the tour will be Oak and Apple Bed and Breakfast, the Harley Farm, and the Dennett Road residence of Wayne and Jackie Johnson. All proceeds from the event will benefit the local chapter of the American Red Cross.

AMI Cookbook Arrives; Holiday Sales Underway

The Garrett County Alliance for the Mentally Ill has announced the arrival of its first-ever collection of homestyle recipes in a colorful cookbook titled "Home Cooking."

The local communities joined together to collect hundreds of recipes from residents and friends, along with pages of helpful household hints, community information, and an array of appetizers, soups, salads, main dishes and dessert offerings.

"The price of the professionally printed recipe book is $6, and arrival is just in time for holiday gift-giving," stated Carol Cox, AMI president.

Proceeds from the project will be used for community education and outreach programs throughout the county in 1994, according to Mrs. Cox.

Persons who wish to purchase copies of the cookbook may contact Mrs. Cox at 334-4357, Barb Coberly at 304-735-5119, or Marvann Brennenman at 895-5386.

Mrs. Cox said those interested are encouraged to reserve their copies immediately, as supplies are limited.

The births of three infants this week at Garrett County Memorial Hospital were announced this morning by a hospital spokesperson.

A son was born November 18 to Michael Lynn and Ruth Anna Bender Friend, Oakland.

A daughter was born November 18 to Jason Paul and Lori Ann Knight DelSignore, Barton.

A daughter was born November 21 to Pramod A.

and Neena Kapoor Kapoor, McHenry.

Rebecca (Krause) and Steve Lichty, Hazelton, W. Va., formerly of Oakland, announce the birth of a son, Travis Drew, on November 12, at Ruby Memorial Hospital, Morgantown, W. Va.

William and Jody (Bee-man) Gordon, Frederick, announce the birth of twin daughters, born November 19, 1993, at Frederick Memorial Hospital. Maternal grandparents are Carolyn Beaman, Oakland, and Raymond Beaman, Bayard, W. Va. Paternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Von Rodeheaver, Kingwood, W. Va., and Mr. and Mrs. William Gordon, Newton Falls, Ohio.

In Memory

On Saturday, November 13, 1993, a lovely, young life was lost in Rochester, New York. Jennifer Koon, 18 years of age, grew up in the Oakland area. She was the daughter of David and Suzanne and the only sister of Jason, now a sophomore in high school. Jennifer was the innocent victim of a senseless crime and the ever-spreading violence in our society.

Because Jennifer Koon and her family were respected members of our community for many years, several friends, classmates, teachers, neighbors and acquaintances have expressed a desire to memorialize Jennifer's life. The family has requested that donations be sent to:

Butt, DeBerry Region XX All-Stars

Sheila Butt

Elaine DeBerry

Two members of the Garrett Community College Volleyball team, Sheila Butt and Elaine DeBerry, have been named to the All-Region XX Volleyball Team. The announcement came at the Region XX volleyball tournament, November 6, at Hagerstown Junior College.

Butt was named to the Second Team All-Region, while DeBerry was named to the Honorable Mention All-Region Volleyball Team. A sophomore accounting major, Butt is a 1992 graduate of Southern High School. As a member of Southern's team, she was named Volleyball MVP 1989-90 and Most Points 1990-91. She continued to excel both academically and athletically her freshman year at GCC. She maintained a 3.52 grade point average and received the team's Best Offensive Award 1992. This year at Garrett she was selected tri-captain while competing as a setter hitter. Although Sheila is a primary setter for the team, she made a remarkable contribution offensively, stated Head Coach Margaret Quinn.

Sheila is the daughter of David and Beverly Butt. A 1992 graduate of Southern High School, DeBerry, recorded the highest in career kills, third highest in blocks, fifth highest in aces and sixth highest in placement in the history of Southern volleyball. DeBerry's senior year she was awarded Most Kills and MVP. During her freshman season at Garrett, she continued to compile impressive statistics, by recording 128 kills, .5 service aces per game, and 573 receptions.

"Elaine was a dominant force in our offense. Her hitting ability was effective both front and back row," commented Quinn. "She is a well-rounded player that gives 110%."

Elaine is the daughter of William and Donna DeBerry.

Wisp Racers To Meet; NASTAR Winners Named

The first meeting of the Wisp Race Club for the 1993-94 ski season will be held Saturday, Dec. 4, at 4 p.m. at the Wisp Ski Area.

The club is open to skiers of all ages who have an interest in recreational ski racing. The organization provides coaching and practice sessions for its members throughout the season.

The success of the club's training was reflected in the fact that Maryland state rankings recently released by the National Standard Race System (NASTAR) placed 33 Wisp racers in the top 10 of their age groups.

Additionally, last season Wisp hosted one of 200 Junior NASTAR opens held throughout the country. Results of these races were compared and ranked based on medal point averages, and the Wisp Race Club came in sixth in the nation.

Members and Maryland rankings in the various age groups, male and female, are as follows:

Boys, 10-12 - Beau Gibson, first; Bill Scofield, second; Chris Herman, fourth; Lee Bailey, fifth; and Dustin Swiger, seventh.

Girls, 10-12 - Jane Williamson, ninth.

Boys, 13-15 - Jack Alvarez Jr., first; E.J. Scofield, second; Todd Gibson, third; Jason Herman, fourth; Chad Montgomery, fifth; and Lee Collins, sixth.

Girls, 13-15 - Kristin Heslop, first; Carolyn Alvarez, third; Noelle Collins, fifth; and Sara Lynch, eighth.

Males, 16-20 - Matt Sluss, third; Chris Wiltson, fifth; Frank Friend, eighth; and Napoleon Swyter, 10th.

Females, 16-20 - Kara Freyman, third; and Jessica Bolden, 10th.

Males, 21-29 - Alex Flanagan, second; Gordon Savage, sixth; and Scott Sweitzer, ninth.

Females, 21-29 - Heather Savage, fourth.

Males, 30-39 - Jeff Gonnell, sixth; Jimmy Bailey, eighth; and Bart Simpson, ninth.

Females, 30-39 - Susan Mould, fifth.

Veteran Southern Team To Open Hoop Season Dec. 7 With Beall

A veteran Southern High School varsity basketball team, under return coach Tom Bosley, will open its 1993-94 campaign on December 7 with a home game against Beall High School. The contest will kick off a 22-game regular schedule, high-lighted again by the Rams' 18th Annual Snowball Classic later in the month, which will feature last year's 2A division state champion, Allegany, and the 1993 1A regional champion, Westminster. The Rams return five lettermen from last year's squad and have six seniors on the roster: Doug Copeland, Mark Dawson, Mark Elliott, Brian Reams, and Jeremy Sanders, all seniors, started at various times last season and will make the Rams one of the area's most experienced teams.

Junior Brian Carlson, Rich Skipper, and Joe Tuomisto have moved up from last season's junior varsity squad, while senior Jeremy DeWitt and juniors Elias Black and Jeremy Skiles provide additional depth.

The Rams are expected to demonstrate what has become a Southern High trademark: an aggressive man-to-man defense, one that is known throughout the tri-state area.

"We spend the majority of our time in practice emphasizing defense," Coach Bosley said. "I'm looking for the five best defensive players to form our starting unit."

Bosley, who has returned to the head coaching position after a one-year absence, is Southern's all-time winningest boys' coach and has one of the most outstanding win-loss records in the area with a 109-55 mark.

He also has considerable experience to call upon in his assistant coaches, Dave Bender and Paul Pacella, both former head coaches at Northern and Union high schools, respectively. Jim Bosley and Barry Loudon are coaching the junior varsity team.

The Rams will play in the Region 1, 1A division, after having been a 2A school for a number of years. Bosley believes the change should benefit the Rams' post-season chances, as they will no longer have to play schools in Frederick and Montgomery counties in order to advance in the playoffs.

Lakers Fall A Few Points Short Of Second Tournament Title

After opening their season by capturing the championship of their own Preview Classic, the Garrett Community College Lakers fell just a few points short of earning a second tournament title this past weekend when they lost in the finals of the Rob Michael State Farm Insurance Alumni Tournament, also held at the McHenry Campus.

The Lakers crushed Northern Virginia Community College in the second of Friday evening's opening games, 116-89, but were edged in Saturday night's championship round by Howard Community College, 82-78. The results left the Lakers with a 3-1 mark for the young season, which they put on the line last night against Montgomery-Takoma (see separate story).

Troy Sexton, who paced the Lakers in scoring in the Preview Classic, recorded a team-high 27 points in Friday's win over Northern Virginia, while teammate and pre-season All-American candidate Wes Tubbs was right behind with 26 points. Eighteen of Sexton's points came on six three-point shots. Sexton set a single-game GCC record for three-point buckets in the Preview Classic final against Potomac State College.

Jermaine Jones, Brett

Coleman, and Kenny Gross also reached double figures for the Lakers with 19, 16, and 14 points, respectively.

Willie Flowers led Northern Virginia and all scorers with a 38-point effort, but was the only member of his team to reach double figures.

The visitors led by three, 9-6, at the 13:30 mark of the first half. The Lakers scored the next four points to take their first lead and, after another NVCC score, Tubbs hit to put Garrett on top for good. The Lakers led 50-37 at halftime and were never seriously threatened in the second half.

Tubbs led the Lakers' 25-rebound performance with eight, while Coleman and Sexton were each credited with five assists and four steals.

Howard earned a spot in the finals by topping Penn State-New Kensington in the other opener and came into the championship contest with a 3-1 record.

The Lakers held a commanding 60-42 lead with 13:41 left in the game, but Howard came alive and outscored the home team by a 32-14 margin over the next nine minutes to knot the score at 74-74 on a three-point goal by Rylon Austin.

Two consecutive buckets by Howard's Kamau Street put the visitors on top for good. The Lakers had several opportunities at the foul line in the final two minutes, but connected on only four of eight attempts.

Street and Randolph Edison led Howard with 21 and 20 points, respectively, while Ray Fountain finished with 13 and Darrin Johnson added 11.

Tubbs recorded a game-high 26 points and grabbed eight rebounds for Garrett, while Sexton netted 17 points and Gross and Jason Brenneman each chipped in with 10.

Named to the All-Tournament team were Tubbs and Jones of Garrett, Flowers of Northern Virginia, Todd Zivkovic of New Kensington, and Street of Howard. Named the Most Valuable Player was Howard's Ray Fountain.

"We played a terrible game," stated Laker Coach Dennis Gibson. "We couldn't hit from the free throw line, we didn't handle their press

Leading the Lakers in scoring following their first four games is Sexton, who is scoring just under 24 points per game, while Tubbs is averaging 21 points and 10 rebounds per contest. Gross has the best field goal percentage with just over 59 percent effectiveness, with Tubbs close behind at 58.6 percent. Sexton is leading in free throw shooting with an 80.8 percent mark (21 of 26).

The Lakers have added another game to their schedule, which will be their next outing. They will host the Frostburg State University freshmen next Tuesday, Nov. 30, at 7:30 p.m.

Tubbs Leads GCC To Easy Victory; Lakers Now 4-1

All-American candidate Wes Tubbs poured in 26 points last night to lead the Garrett Community College Lakers to their fourth win in five starts this season, as they whipped host Montgomery-Takoma Park, 97-77.

The score remained close throughout most of the first half, but the Lakers began to pull away late in the half and led 44-38 at intermission. Garrett carried the momentum into the second half and scored the first seven points on two buckets by Tubbs and a three-pointer by Jason Brenneman, who hit three on the evening.

The Lakers led by a double figure margin the rest of the way.

Brenneman and Kenny Gross each finished with 16 points for the Lakers, Jermaine Jones netted 12, and George Hilton and Troy Sexton each added 10. Tubbs also had nine rebounds and Jones had eight, while Gross was credited with eight assists and two blocked shots.

Leading 60-26 at the half, Martin Kelly with 24 points and Herries Moo-Young with 13.

"We didn't play well in the first half," stated GCC Coach Dennis Gibson. "Jason and Wes really stepped up our offense in the second half, though, and George (Hilton) sparked our defense. We still couldn't stop their

Coach Nesselrodt Taking Top Spot At Davis, Elkins

Lawrence Nesselrodt, head baseball coach at Garrett Community College, announced this past week that he has accepted the same job at Davis and Elkins College, Elkins, W.Va.

Nesselrodt, who recorded his 200th victory as the Laker mentor this past season, is a 1983 graduate of Davis and Elkins. He will assume his new post in January.

The search is underway for a new GCC coach. Nesselrodt said it is hoped that the position will be filled before the Christmas break.

The evening. The lovable cast forges ahead, proving that the show must go on, no matter what. Inept carollers and backstage workers add to the chaotic hilarity that lasts throughout the evening.

The cast consists of persons from various parts of Garrett County, all of whom have some theatrical experience.

Playing the roles of Thelma and Scrooge will be Jane Avery, well-known local teacher, actress, and director. Derek Spirk, captain of the Southern High School soccer team, will appear as Maynard; David Jones, Garrett Community College student and member of the Maryland Student Legislature, will play the bottom half of the ghost of Christmas Present; Jenny Finkel, freshman at Southern High School, will play the role of Felicity; Roger Strouse, recent graduate of Frostburg State University, will appear as Gordon; Suzanne Mitchell, teacher at Broad Ford Elementary School, will play Mrs. Phoebe Reece; Grantsville resident Marcie Beiler will play the choir mistress.

Louise Diehl, student at Northern High School, Tracy Teats, graduate of Northern High School, and Adam Chorpennin, student at Southern High School, will be members of the chorus.

Ben Sincell, associate professor of speech and theatre at GCC, is in charge of scenic and lighting design. The production is being funded in part by the Garrett County Arts Council and the Maryland State Arts Council.

Admission for the play is $5 for adults, $2 for students, children, and senior citizens.

identification every time they donate blood," announced Kuruzovich.

He said that the Red Cross is introducing this procedure to process blood donors more quickly and decrease the possibility of error or duplication with other donors' information in its confidential records.

"Thus, working together, the Red Cross and you can improve the donation process and at the same time support Red Cross efforts to ensure the safety of our nation's blood supply," Kuruzovich commented.

He explained that a donor's Red Cross Blood Donor Card is the best form of ID to provide when giving blood. "If you don't have a Red Cross blood donor card or are a first-time donor, we ask that you please bring your driver's license or other identification that includes your name, social security number or birthdate," Kuruzovich said.

Having a form of acceptable identification is so important, Kuruzovich added, that sometime after the current pilot study is completed the Red Cross may require those without ID to postpone giving blood until they can provide acceptable identification.

"Through the current study, we'll get an idea of the type of identification that donors carry on them, as well as comments about our asking for identification, so that we can most effectively introduce this donation requirement in the future."

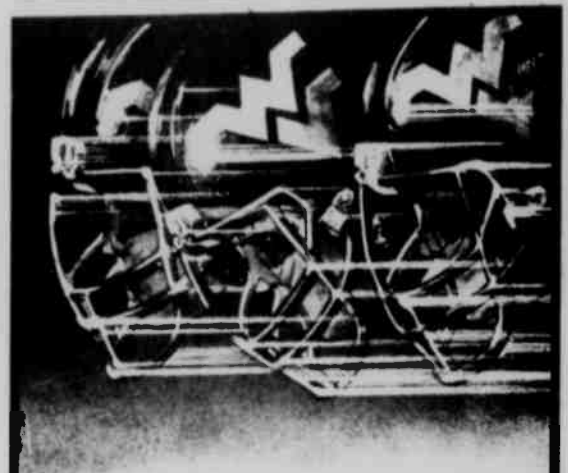

"Hospital patients need blood. But we need to make sure we're taking all steps important to provide for the safest possible blood supply," Kuruzovich emphasized. "In the rare cases when a donor gets sick soon after donating blood or a patient gets sick after receiving blood, we must be able to find the unit of blood which was transfused and the donor who gave the unit of blood. Correct identification will eliminate mistakes when donors have similar names."

He added that on occasions when the Red Cross cannot determine the donor's correct social security number, birth date or other important information following donation, the unit of blood cannot be used. "Our donor identification effort will prevent our having to throw away someone's blood because we've been unable to confirm their donor information," he said. Kuruzovich reminded Oakland residents that to give blood, individuals must be at least 17 years of age or older, weigh at least 105 pounds, and be in general good health. Those with questions about medications and past or current health conditions should contact American Red Cross Blood Services at 1-800-541-1000.

American Red Cross Blood Services, Johnstown Region, is committed to meeting the blood needs experienced by patients at hospitals in its five-state area, and regional residents receiving blood products elsewhere.

GEORGES DUBCEUF

Beaujolais
ext. arrive!

Beaujolais

One of the best-known and best-loved red wines in the world, made from the Gamay grape, full name Gamay Noir à Jus Blanc. Although the region may be said to be a continuation of the Burgundy vineyard, Beaujolais is, in fact, more correctly a Lyonnaise wine because the vineyards are in that department, with the exception of one section which is actually in Burgundy. These days, however, Beaujolais is usually considered separately from Burgundy.

The writer Léon Daudet said that three rivers flow through Lyon: the Rhone, the Saone, and the Beaujolais. Until fairly recently, the locals were the main consumers of this lip-smacking wine, often served in 45-cl 'petits' in the bistrats. However, during World War II many Parisian writers - including the author of Cahier de la Beaujolais, came to live in the Beaujolais, discovered the local tipple, and publicized it with gusto. Much additional publicity has been gained by the announcement of when the 'nouveau', or first engravements of the young Beaujolais, are released. It is carried literally all over the world and has inspired many other wine countries to publicize their own 'Nouveau' within weeks of its being vintage.

There are nine 'growths' (crus) of Beaujolais and, within these, a few estate wines, although the majority are sold under their regional names plus the name of the village. These growths are: Brully, Côte Brully, Côte de la Croix, Fleurbaie, Julienas, Saint-Amour, Morgon, and Moulin-à-Vent. Each has its own AOC. In addition to straight 'Beaujolais', there are Beaujolais Villages' wines from a number of communes (parishes) entitled to the AOC. Most Beaujolais is at its delectable best when fairly young, although the wines of both Morgon and Moulin-à-Vent can age agreeably for a few years. Traditionally, young Beaujolais is served 'à l'ancienne' (at cellar temperature), although this is a matter of personal preference.

In addition to the region's red wine, some white, rosé, and sparkling (white) Beaujolais are also made now.

disposal, as well as recycling, should continue to be dedicated to financing the overall integrated solid waste management system.

6. To make up the remaining shortfall, the committee recommends that an ad valorem tax for solid waste be established at a rate of 12¢ per $100 of as-essed value for non-municipal residential property. A lower rate of 5¢ per $100 of assessed value should be established for commercial, industrial, agricultural, and municipal residential properties. The committee believes that these rates would raise an additional $460,000 in revenue which would produce the remaining funds necessary to meet the $1.8 million target. The lower rates for commercial, industrial, and municipal properties are warranted due to the fact that these properties will also be impacted financially by imposition of tipping fees. An effort may also be needed to identify other residential properties outside of the municipal boundaries which are served by commercial haulers, and assess these properties at the lower rate.

7. Money expended for solid waste activities should be clearly identified in the county budget. Contingency fund money for items such as construction of future cells at the landfill should be placed in a special account and allowed to accumulate until needed.

8. No out-of-county refuse should be accepted at any Garrett County solid waste collection or disposal site for at least one year to allow for an accurate accounting by weight of all waste disposed of at the new solid waste disposal facility. This is critical due to the limited amount of disposal space dedicated to each cell and the need to expand the life expectancy of each to avoid future construction costs.

9. The county should provide a mechanism which would make voluntary recycling of all marketable items possible.

10. The Ordinance Governing The Disposal of Solid Waste in Garrett County should be amended to provide substantial fines for violators and an easier enforcement mechanism such as provisions for both civil and criminal penalties. Enforcement efforts must also be increased related to illegal refuse disposal practices.

Besides Herpel and Bauer, members of the committee include William Buckel, Grantsville; Wendy Bauer, Oakland; Amy Harman, Frostburg; W. Brooks Hamilton, Donna Aspinall, and Edgar Harman, all of Oakland; Edward Wilburn, McHenry; and James Wilburn, Grantsville. Ex-officio members are Sarah Bosley, Northern High School student, Christian Coviello, Southern High School student, and Wendell Keaton, liaison for the county's municipalities.

Clerk Responds

rack compatibility and reliability of other equipment on the market. Since we were using the combined bid package method, we found that one manufacturer, John Deere, most closely met the high standards and specifications we established. The process did not stop there, we had other concerns, such as parts availability, service, time, and the equipment's ability to not just meet our needs but also improve our operation. These concerns were further addressed by meeting individually with the prospective authorized dealers, their owner service managers, parts manager, and their sales representatives to discuss our needs and their ability to meet them. We then field tested that equipment over a several week period to ensure it met our expectations and it did.

"As a direct result of this process, a bid solicitation was initiated to the two closest authorized dealers. As a result of that bid solicitation, the low bidder was awarded the lease purchase agreement for the equipment."

"In closing, the providing for competitive bidding of a specified purchase and awarding to the lowest responsible bidder has been complied with. I further firmly believe that the selection of the equipment, the financing arrangement, warranties, and service agreement was in the best interest of the County Roads Department and the people it serves."

Pousek further stated that Grass Equipment Company - to which the bid was awarded - operates offices in both Frostburg and in Fairmont, W.Va., locations that afford a prompt response time for service and parts. He also noted that the contract with the company allows for more "inventory control benefits," by reducing the stocking of excessive parts from various brands of equipment (which also reduces administrative time).

The law, Article 25, Section 9D, specifies that, "When deemed necessary or advisable to purchase trucks or other road-building or repair equipment, it shall be necessary for the county commissioners to advertise for bids on any purchases where the purchase price exceeds $1,500, and they shall make all due and reasonable effort to purchase the same at the lowest possible price and, except in cases where equipment can be obtained to the advantage of the county by purchasing at public or forced sales, shall circulate local or other dealers handling or selling the type of equipment needed, giving all specifications and requirements. . . ."

Business Signs

Once Hauser established a demand for the product and purchased his first shredding machine, he sought to then secure an adequate supply. That task has not been easily accomplished, however, and he is still working to establish a generous supply and one that is usable. He explained that he has encountered problems at the newspaper recycling bins throughout the county because recyclers sometimes leave the lid of the bin open causing the paper inside to be exposed to any precipitation that might occur. That problem is made worse when the paper then freezes into clumps.

Hauser requested that citizens who recycle their newspaper remember to close the bins, and to place only newspaper materials in the bins. He explained that shiny inserts from newspapers, magazines, and other types of paper products cannot be utilized.

His search for a bigger market continues as well, as he is currently hoping to expand into the local area on a larger scale. Currently, his market is concentrated in the Moorefield-Petersburg, W.Va. area where he supplies poultry producers with the shredded paper.

"The most important message I'd like to get across to the people of Garrett County is that the newspaper is no longer going to the county landfill," stated Hauser.

He noted that he has been working with Red House Elementary School where the students have been collecting newspaper for his business, and he is currently working with Glatfely to employ civic groups to collect the paper as fundraising projects.

Glatfely reminded citizens that certain guidelines must be followed when recycling newspaper. They are as follows: All shiny inserts must be removed from the newspaper prior to recycling; bundles should not be tied with string or wire; boxes and plastic bags used to transport newspaper to the collection sites should not be placed into the recycling boxes with the newspaper; magazines cannot be recycled at this time and must not be placed into the containers; and phone books can be recycled if the front and back covers and staples are first removed.

DUI (driving while under the influence of alcohol and/or drugs) cases were heard in Garrett County District Court over the past two weeks.

Robert C. Peiffer, 54, Pa., was found guilty of DUI. He was handed a 12-month suspended jail term, fined $1000, and placed on 24 months of supervised probation. He was also found guilty of negligent driving and fined $105 for that offense.

Brian J. Holstine, 20, W.Va., was found guilty of DUI. The judge changed that verdict to probation before judgment and fined him $50 and placed him on 12 months of supervised probation.

Donald R. Shifflett II, 30, Md., failed to appear in court on a driving a vehicle with alcohol in blood in violation of a court order charge. A bench warrant was issued for his arrest and his bond was forfeited.

Deborah A. Countryman, 25, Md., was found guilty of violation of probation on an earlier DUI charge. The conditions of her original sentence were reimposed and her probation was extended to April 5, 1995.

Frank G. Wixler, 27, no address given, failed to appear on a DUI charge. The judge ordered that his bond be forfeited and signed a bench warrant for his arrest.

Christopher J. Arnold, 21, Md., was first found guilty of DUI. The judge amended that verdict to probation before judgment and fined Arnold $150 and placed him on 12 months of supervised probation.

Thomas J. Meyers, 21, Ohio, pleaded not guilty, but was found guilty of DUI. A $450 fine was imposed with $300 being suspended. He will also serve six months of supervised probation.

John J. Locke, 41, Pa., was granted probation before judgment on a DUI charge. He was fined $250 and placed on six months of supervised probation. He was also found guilty of failure to drive right of center. A charge of failure to display a registration card on demand was not prosecuted because of a plea agreement with the State's Attorney's Office.

Timothy W. Cowan, 25, Va., was granted probation before judgment on a DUI charge. A $150 fine was imposed and Cowan was placed on six months of supervised probation. He was also found guilty of failure to drive right of center and was fined $40. A negligent driving charge was not prosecuted.

Brian P. Senseney, 28, Md., was also granted probation before judgment on a DUI charge. He was fined $150 and placed on six months of supervised probation. He was also found guilty of negligent driving charge was not prosecuted.

In loving memory of the World's Greatest Mom
Stella Sisler Lowdermilk
March 28, 1893 to Dec. 6, 1983

So many times we needed you Mom, so many tears we cried.
If all our love could have saved you dear Mom, you never would have died.
But our dear Jesus saw you growing tired and needed a rest.
So he put his loving arms around you and called "Come, Unto Me."
Many memories are sprinkled with tears, you blessed our lives so many ways.
Mom, you have to be the most beautiful rose blooming in God's garden of peace and rest.
All our cherished memories are one blessing death did not take away.
A part of all our hearts went with you, "Rest in peace dear Mom."
Sadly missed by Sons, Daughter, Grandchildren, Great-Grandchildren, and a great host of Loving Friends

A Mass of Christian Burial was celebrated at St. Peter's Catholic Church on Monday morning with Father Paul Byrnes officiating. Interment was in the church cemetery.

Rev. Grant Joins TV Station Crew

Pioneer Productions, which produces Channel 3 television in the Deep Creek Lake area, announced this week that Rev. John A. Grant has joined its production staff as a program manager.

Rev. Grant, a local retired Episcopal minister, brings to Pioneer a mixed background of writing and technical work in the field, according to a Pioneer spokesman.

During the early 1970s he completed three semesters of graduate work in radio, film, and television in the Speech Department of West Virginia University. One off-shoot of this training was the development of a Sunday morning radio program on WMSG, Oakland.

"Rev. Lawrence Sherwood had a good speaking voice," Grant said, recalling the time, "and we produced a show which we called The Living Word. It was based on Biblical material, and ran for about five years."

During this same time, Grant wrote and directed one of the first commercial television programs made in Garrett County.

"The H.P. Stores sponsored a one-time, half-hour Christmas program," he said. "We did the traditional Christmas pageant with marionettes. Children from St. John's Episcopal Church Sunday School worked the figures, and choir music was supplied by a group from the Loch Lynn Evangelical Free

Both are students at Southern High School.

Church.

"We built four sets for the show, and arranged them on the stage of the Center Street School," Grant continued. "WDTV sent in a crew and recorded the show on 16 millimeter film. Small video cameras hadn't been perfected at that time."

More recently, Rev. Grant has been working with small video cameras. This past year, he produced a film for the Garrett County Historical Society, which will be released for sale in December or January.

Garrett County history is one of the subjects which Grant will be able to bring to the local television screen.

as he also serves as editor of the Garrett County Historical Society's quarterly publication, The Glades Star.

"Through the years I've collected a whole lot of interesting stories," Grant said. "If possible, one of the future programs for Channel 3 and Pioneer Productions will be Garrett County Stories. It will include actual views of the location where the event took place, and the story itself will be recreated with photographs and drawings."

Grant said that he hopes the program will become a reality by next spring and announcements of such will be made at that time.

judge as a gentle man who had never resorted to such violence before the night of Ms. Brady's death. The defendant also made a statement, expressing his remorse over the shooting.

"I did not want to hurt anybody that night," Beall said.

State's Attorney James Sherbin, who prosecuted the case, asked Thayer for a 25-year sentence.

After the sentencing, Beall was transported to the Maryland Department of Corrections to begin his 20-year term. He received 241 days credit toward the sentence, and, as all prisoners, will be eligible for a parole hearing after one fourth of the sentence has been served.

Friendsville Lions Continue Collecting For Flood Victims

The Friendsville Lions Club is now in the process of loading a tractor trailer with furniture, appliances, clothing, and toys to be transported to the midwest and donated to persons who lost their possessions in last summer's devastating floods.

According to Marlin Lawson, club president, the trailer was parked at his home this past Saturday and is now being loaded. He said that donations are "coming in slowly" right now, but hopes more people respond with donations before the trailer departs on next Thursday, Dec. 2.

Lawson said persons who have items to donate, but are unable to transport them to Friendsville, to contact him at 746-5480 or 743-4242 and he will make arrangements for pick-up. He noted that a trailer load of items were delivered this past week from the Moorefield and Wardensville, W.Va., area.

The Friendsville Lions collected and transported some 20 tons of food and other supplies to the flood victims in Iowa early last fall.

Fire Marshal Notes Decline In Arson Cases

Maryland State Fire Marshal Rocco J. Gabriele has found good news to report regarding arson incidents in the State of Maryland. During the first nine months of 1993, arson offenses declined by approximately 8% statewide as compared with this same period in 1992. According to statistics gathered through the Uniform Crime Reporting Program, there were 1,774 arsons reported during the first nine months of 1993 as compared with 1,932 incidents for the first nine months of 1992. The largest reduction in arson offenses occurred in the Eastern Shore region, which includes the counties of Cecil, Kent, Caroline, Queen Anne's, Talbot, Dorchester, Somerset, Wicomico, and Worcester. There were 114 arsons reported during the first nine months of this year for this region as compared with 140 incidents during this same period last year, for an overall decrease of 18.6%. The Western Maryland region, which includes Garrett, Allegany, Washington, Frederick and Carroll counties, also showed a significant reduction in arson offenses for the first nine months of this year.

There were 118 arsons recorded from January through September of 1993 in the region as compared with 140 for the first nine months of 1992, for an overall reduction of 15.7%. The Baltimore-Metropolitan region, which includes Baltimore City, Anne Arundel, Baltimore, Harford and Howard counties, recorded a 10.3% reduction in arson offenses during the first nine months of this year. There were 838 arsons recorded from January through September of this year as compared with 934 such incidents for this same period last year. The Washington-Metropolitan region, which includes Montgomery and Prince George's counties, showed a slight decline in arsons with 502 recorded during the first nine months of 1993 as compared with 511 for this period last year. The only region of the state to show an increase in arson for the first nine months was the Southern Maryland region consisting of Charles, St. Mary's, and Calvert counties. Arson offenses increased by approximately 9.4% in this region during the first nine months of this year as compared with the same period last year. There were 70 arsons recorded between January and September of 1993 as compared with 64 between January and September of 1992.

During the first nine months of 1993, five individuals died in arson related fires in the State of Maryland. This is a 61.5% decrease from the 13 arson murders which were recorded during the same period last year. The fire marshal is urging

IN ALL THINGS GIVE THANKS

Sunday	1 Chronicles 16:8-36
Monday	1 Chronicles 29:10-25
Tuesday	Psalms 30
Wednesday	Psalms 34
Thursday	Psalms 65
Friday	Psalms 66
Saturday	Psalms 67

"Well, money's been scarce. There'll be meatloaf instead of turkey on our Thanksgiving table. We won't have much of a celebration this year."

Whether we're "talking turkey" or Christmas trees, those are only symbols, not the true theme of the celebration. In 1 Thessalonians 5:16-18 we read, "Rejoice always, pray constantly, give thanks in all circumstances, for this is the will of God..."

The message is clear. In all things give thanks. We may recall some "lean" holidays that were extraordinarily joyous and memorable. Why? Perhaps we were expecting little, thus, magnifying any additional blessings. Perhaps we relied more upon tradition, family, and worship in our search for joy and thankfulness.

It is our nature to seek thankfulness. God made us in His image with a joyful and thankful heart. This Thanksgiving, may a thankful heart be the center of your celebration. You will discover joy unsurpassed

These firms invite YOU to a House of Worship each week.

Prayer of Thanksgiving

Old Dutch Melody

BY LAWRENCE W. ALTHOUSE
RANDOM CHANCE OR GOD'S BLESSING
November 28, 1993

Background Scripture:

Genesis 18

Devotional Reading:

Psalms 103:1-5

The past week I was at a meeting of a board of directors which began with each of us giving a brief biographical statement and an indication of when and how we had become associated with the organization.

Even as I recapped some of my milestones along the way and people who influenced me in some way or another, I marveled at the connectedness of my life. Because I met X, I came to know Y, and because I knew Y, I got to work with Z, and working with Z has made all the difference in my life.

Random events and people, but in the long run they seemed not so random at all. The connectedness, I decided, was God.

Although I exercised my free will virtually every step of the way, still there was a sense of something more than random choices and accident, the sense of a broad plan that guided me both consciously and unconsciously, yet without denying me my freedom. Even when I seriously messed up that divine plan, God has been able to make something good out of the pieces. Some would call it coincidence, but I cannot help seeing it as providence, the will of God.

HUMAN ACTS

In the story of Jacob blessing Manasseh and Ephraim, Joseph's sons, in Genesis 48, we can see this same sense of connectedness. There were human acts and there was a divine will. The divine will shaped the direction, but the human acts filled in the details along the way. Writing in The Interpreter's Bible (Vol. 1), Walter Russell Bowie says, "As is repeatedly evidenced in Genesis, they saw the destiny of Israel shaped not by human intentions, but by the long sure purpose of God." According to the custom of the time, Ishmael, Abraham's firstborn, should have been his father's heir, but instead it was Isaac God chose to perpetuate the covenant. So, also, Esau should have been the father of the Israelites, but it was Jacob whom God was able to use for that purpose.

In Genesis 48 we see still another evidence of God's hand in the story of Israel. Normally, Joseph's two sons should have had no inheritance from their grandfather, Jacob, except what they would eventually inherit through their father Joseph's portion of Jacob's estate as one of 12 sons, should have been one-twelfth of the inheritance. But, when Joseph brings his two sons to see their grandfather, Jacob proposes something that must have seemed radical: they will receive equal share of Canaan with their uncles and, although Manasseh was Joseph's oldest son and heir, Ephraim would be the greater of the two. The patriarchs may have had their time-honored traditions, but in the long run it was the will of God that would prevail.

A PRIOR BLESSING

The story of Genesis 48 is often called "The Blessing of Ephraim and Manasseh," but there is a blessing that antedates the blessing that Jacob gives. That is the blessing that Jacob already has experienced. He blesses Ephraim and Manasseh because he himself has been blessed. How? The writer says, "And he blessed Joseph, and said, The God before whom my fathers Abraham and Isaac walked, the God who has led me all my life long this day, the angel who has redeemed me from all evil, bless the lands" (18:15).

Most of us have been blessed like that. We can discern the blessings that God has bestowed upon those who have walked before us. We can perceive God's blessing in the way he had led us through this life. And, like Jacob, we have been blessed as our lives have been redeemed from the evil around us and even the evil within us.

That's what life is all about recognizing the blessings we have received and letting God bless others through us.

National Hospice Month Survival Strategies For The Holidays

A note from Hospice Executive Director Brenda J. Butcher

November is National Hospice Month. Hospice of Garrett County, Inc. provides many services. Among these services, we have available to the residents of Garrett County a Bereavement Program that has received national attention. As the holiday season begins, we realize this will be a difficult time for those who lost a loved one during the year. We would like to share with you an article from Bereavement Magazine, November/December 1991 issue. This article was written by Judy Tattelbaum, M.S.W., Carmel Valley, Calif. For Hospice Services call 301-334-5151.

Be Kind To Yourself

This is a time when it is important to take good care of yourself. Nothing you do will make a bigger difference than respecting yourself, your needs and your feelings. Handling your emotions may be the only job you can manage right now. Because no one knows your needs as well as you do, you need to notice them and honor them. Don't overwhelm yourself just because it is the holiday season. Instead, do only as much as you can comfortably manage. Get the rest and nourishment and affection you need. Choose what's best for you - to be with people or to spend time alone, to be immersed in the holiday spirit or not.

Expressing your feelings - The surest road through grief is to feel it, not deny it. If you are hurting, the best advice is to allow your feelings. Cry if you need to cry, rage if you need to rage. Admit the longings, the loneliness or whatever you are feeling. Don't suppress yourself, nothing changes.

Ask for what you need - Other people do not know how you feel unless you tell them. Don't just go along with people or plans that are not for you. Tell people what would help you most. Speak up!

Friends and relatives may think you will feel better if you do not talk about your loss, or they may be afraid to upset you by mentioning the missing person. If you want to talk about the person who is gone, say so. If you want your privacy respected, if you need companionship or if you want a shoulder to cry on, say so. People outside your grief may feel awkward and not know what to do. As much as they want to help, they need you to direct them.

Don't be afraid to ask for help with planning, shopping, entertaining or just getting through today. As hard as it may be to ask, force yourself. Ultimately, asking will make your life a little easier. If you cannot shop or decorate this year, ask a friend, relative, hospice or other social agency volunteer to help. What looks arduous to you may be a lot of fun for someone else. As hard as it may be to imagine, remember that serving you can be very satisfying and rewarding for the other person.

Create support for yourself - Sharing your pain eases it. Be sure you have people with whom you can talk. Most of us can cope best with tough times if we have a loving presence - a relative or friend to walk with us through this painful time. When spouses or family members hurt as much as you do and cannot be a support, find an alternative. Look for a short-term support partner, perhaps a friend, another person in grief, a relative, a counselor. Or, create a small group of people who have similar concerns with whom you can stay in touch daily or frequently through the holidays or beyond. Support people and support groups really help. Appreciate your other loved ones - Enjoy the people you love. It is natural to feel alone in your grief and want to isolate yourself, yet that closes off all chances for closeness and nourishment from other people. Don't deprive your children, spouse, or other loved ones or yourself. As hard as it may be to get the attention off your loss, they need your love too. And in return, their love can nourish you and help you begin to heal.

Don't compare your life with other people's - Feeling jealous of intact families and feeling deprived are natural reactions after a loss - as if other people have what you do not. We have a lot of illusions about how other people live. Actually, for many intact families, reunions can be stressful and upsetting. Contrary to our illusions, holiday times are often not ideal times for families, intact or not. Don't try to compare lives, it only adds to your misery. Embracing what you have gives you much more power than regretting what is missing.

Resolving how or where to spend the holidays - Choosing how or where to spend the holidays may be your biggest dilemma. There is no perfect solution. Holiday time may be hard no matter what you do or where you are. In fact, it may seem as if you are trying to pick the best from some rotten alternatives. The choices: celebrate as usual, avoid the holidays altogether, or do something brand new.

Celebrating as usual - Many people wish to keep their holiday traditions intact, to celebrate as usual. This way is bound to be painful, accentuating the gap left by the loss. It is fine to follow family traditions as long as you know they cannot be the same as before your loved one died. Pretending you can recreate the past will only cause you more grief. Just remember to allow any feelings as they occur. If you have the energy to do so, following old traditions may enhance your self-esteem and may help you manage the holidays successfully.

Avoid the holidays - It is not wrong to want to avoid Christmas or other holidays entirely. If celebrating seems too difficult to bear, you can choose not to observe the holidays and go somewhere else - skiing, a cruise, a resort, a different city. If you cannot afford to travel, go to the zoo or the movies or some other distracting place. There is no guarantee that this will erase your pain, but it may lessen it some.

Doing something new and different - If NOT celebrating would deeply disappoint or deprive children or other family members, you probably cannot run away from Thanksgiving or Christmas. Yet, you can avoid repeating your traditional ways and perhaps observe you holidays more simply than before. People often work too hard cooking, decorating, planning, shopping, and entertaining at holiday times, so you can at least ease up.

Often, the more we try to recreate the past, the more obvious is our loss, so changing traditions can be a freeing and satisfying way to spend the season. You can celebrate Thanksgiving, Hanukkah, or Christmas in a brand new way by going to the home of a different relative or friend, having a family reunion away from home, or eating in a restaurant. You can do anything that will make your holiday experience new rather than a memory with someone in it missing.

If it is too hard for you, personally, to think up a new way to do the holidays, give the job of planning to a creative friend or relative. Again, most important in taking care of yourself is not to feel you have to do it all - whatever the circumstances.

You will survive the holidays - You may hurt, but you will survive. The holidays may be the worst of your grief time. Eventually, you will heal, and your memories will persist without pain. Meanwhile, it's OK not to have a good time. There may be no way you can make this holiday fun and nothing you want to do. Allow that you may not enjoy the parties, reunions and events of the season. If you are hurting and unable or unwilling to have your attention on anything else, let yourself be.

It is also OK to have a good time, even though you have experienced a loss. You do not have to deny pleasure to yourself or your family. While grieving, we often feel guilty about having fun, as if we should be miserable all 24 hours of a day. That is not necessary. Often, we think it is how much we grieve that signifies how much we care about the one who died. Not true! Our love is not measured by the extent of our grief. We can love forever without having grief as our testimonial to that love. Remember, few of us would want others to be forever bereft because we were gone.

Perhaps the best testimonial we can give to our missing loved ones is how we live our lives. Don't deny yourself life because someone has died. If you can do so, enjoy the holidays and every day; for death teaches us, more than anything, that every day of life is precious and worth living to the fullest. The best gift we can give ourselves and others for the holidays and every day is to live our lives wholeheartedly.

The Garrett County Crime Solvers organization is currently seeking information about a breaking, entering, and theft incident that occurred on Birchwood Drive in the Youghiogheny Mountain Resort. Sometime between Aug.

31 and Sept. 8, unknown persons entered a residence and removed a Craftsman chain saw and other tools.

Any person with information about this or any other crime is urged to contact Crime Solvers at 334-1975. Callers do not need to give their names nor appear in court. Rewards of up to $1,000 are available to persons who provide tips that lead to arrests.

Year's 12th Rabies Case Is Confirmed By Health Dept.

The year's 12th case of rabies was confirmed by the Garrett County Health Department last week, according to Tina Buckel, sanitarian. The animal was a raccoon.

The diseased animal apparently entered property located near the Deer Park fire hall and fought with a dog. The owner of the property shot the raccoon and was careful in handling his pet, which was currently vaccinated against the disease. The dog was given a booster vaccination and will be observed for 90 days.

Buckel advised all pet-owners to check their animals' vaccination records to make sure they are up to date. Dogs and cats should be re-vaccinated against rabies every three years.

Rev. Karsten Is Named Director Of Bethesda, Inc.

Rev. Wilfred L. Karsten, Accident, was recently elected to the Board of Directors of Bethesda Lutheran Homes and Services, Inc., a nationally recognized leader in the care and education of the mentally retarded.

The Bethesda corporation has headquarters in Watertown, Wis., with other campuses in Kansas City, Houston, and Aurora, Ill. In addition, residential care facilities are operated by Bethesda in cities in 10 states, including Frederick.

Bethesda also operates the National Christian Resource Center on Mental Retardation at its Watertown campus, and has recently begun production of the program "Focus on Mental Retardation" seen weekly on America's Disability cable network.

Rev. Karsten received a bachelor's degree from Concordia College in Ann Arbor, Mich. He did other undergraduate work at Wartburg College in Waverly, Iowa, and Valparaiso University at Valparaiso, Ind. He holds the master of divinity and master of sacred theology degrees from Concordia Seminary in St. Louis, Mo., and was recently admitted to the doctor of ministry degree program there. He and his wife, Lynette, have previously served in the Bethesda Corporation as managers of a group home in Maryville, Mo., where they lived and worked with eight mentally retarded adults.

Since 1984, Rev. Karsten has been the pastor of Zion Lutheran Church in Accident.

Southern High School Students Of The Month Selected

Megan Battista, the Student of the Month winner for English, is a sophomore and daughter of Donald and Patricia Battista, Oakland. She is a member of the concert band, the marching band, and the stageband. She was the first place winner of the DAR History Award and has also won numerous art contests, including the Elks Drug Awareness Poster Contest.

The Student of the Month winner for math is Nicole Bosley, a sophomore and the daughter of Dave and Ludean Bosley, Oakland. She was recently recognized by the Oakland Rotary for having the highest academic average. She has also been named to Who's Who Among American High School Students and earned a Minds in Motion award. She is a member of St. Paul's United Methodist Church. In the future, she would like to attend Pennsylvania State University with a computer related major.

Vicky Elliott was chosen as the Student of the Month winner for career employability and marketing. A senior, she is the daughter of Bobby and Nancy Elliott, Mtn. Lake Park. She is a member of the Southern High volleyball team. Vicky plans to go to Allegany Community College and enroll in the marketing program.

The vocational Student of the Month is senior Carl Friend, son of Loretta A. Friend, Mtn. Lake Park. He plans to go to a technical school for masonry and welding after graduating high school.

Lisa Lohr, a junior, was chosen as the social studies Student of the Month. She resides in Swanton with her parents, James and Linda Lohr. She is a member of the Student Service Alliance at Southern. She recently participated in Community Service Day. She plans to attend beautician school in the future.

The science Student of the Month winner is junior Joni Wilson, the daughter of David and Mary Lou Wilson, Swanton. Joni is a member of the marching band and concert band at Southern.

She participated in the 1993 German Exchange Program and has won several science and band awards. She is president and an active member of the Swanton Otterbein United Methodist Church Youth Group. Joni plans to attend college and major in physics and chemistry with a minor in environmental science.

Career Planning Class Completed By Local Students

The New Horizons Program of Garrett Community College recently completed a five-week, 10-session Career Planning class taught by Mary Kirkland, intake counselor specialist with the New Horizons Program. The class included learning about job hunt strategies, getting to know oneself, what self-esteem means to a student returning to classes or to the work world, ways to build self-esteem, what stress is and how to manage it, combining work with family obligations, time and budget management, resume writing, and job interview techniques.

Several interest tests were administered to students to determine their career interests including the Career Assessment Inventory, the Holland Code Self Directed Search, and the GATB (General Aptitude Test Battery).

The recent group of students completing this class included: Sharon Conlee, Renota Murphy, Mary Jo Shaffer, Madeleine Stubbings, and Rebecca Tasker.

The next scheduled Career Planning class will begin Monday, January 3, at Garrett Community College, McHenry Campus. Anyone interested in enrolling in the Career Planning class should call New Horizons Monday through Thursday between 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. at 387-3071 for complete information.

"The class is a great beginning for a support group and has proven beneficial for re-entry women to make career decisions and enter training in their areas of interest," stated a New Horizons spokesman.

The New Horizons Program is jointly funded by the Maryland State Department and Garrett Community College. Grant funds in the amount of $45,000 are made available to the program through the Division of Career Technology and Adult Learning, which is 90% of the total program budget, with Garrett Community College contributing an additional $5,200, which is 10% of the total budget.

Herpel Attends Annual Convention For Pharmacists

Jerry Herpel, of Deep Creek Pharmacy, McHenry, recently joined more than 5,000 attendees at the 95th Annual Convention and Trade Exposition of NARD, the national association representing independent retail pharmacy. This year's NARD convention was held Oct. 23-27 in Indianapolis.

NARD's Annual Convention keeps independent retail pharmacists up to date on the latest developments in pharmacy care, marketing, and management, as well as pressing political issues facing the profession. The conference featured 20 educational workshops on pharmacy management and practice, and seven symposia on current pharmacy issues. The annual meeting includes opportunities for pharmacists to share ideas with their peers, including "Colleagues in Consultation" roundtable sessions exploring a variety of pharmacy topics. NARD's Annual Convention concludes with association policy-making at the NARD House of Delegates meeting, in which Herpel was one of the state delegates for the fourth year in a row.

NARD, the national association representing independent retail pharmacy, serves the pharmacist owners, managers, and employees of nearly 40,000 independent pharmacies across the country. Independent retail pharmacists — more than 75,000 nationwide — dispense two out of every three of the nation's retail prescription drugs.

Lodge 11 Plans Awards Dinner And Convention

Woodmen of the World Lodge 11 met recently at the lodge hall in Oakland with 17 members present. President John Sines presided.

George Zimmerman, director on the board of the Md., D.C., Fraternal Congress, reported that he had attended the annual meeting at the Ramada Inn, Calverton, on Oct. 2, representing the Woodmen of the World. His term expires this year. He reported that the program and speakers were "very interesting," however the attendance was down considerably.

The nominating committee gave recommendations for officers for the coming year. The new officers will be installed in January.

The awards dinner was slated for Nov. 20 at the Deer Park fire hall. Membership pins and awards were given.

The Spencer Graham family has established a scholarship fund in memory of Mr. Graham. Both Lodge 11 and Youth Lodge 112 made contributions to the fund. Others who wish to make contributions may contact Robert Rodeheaver.

Lota Peck gave the overall update for the plans for the Md., D.C., Delaware, N.J. Jurisdictional Convention to be held at the Wisp in McHenry in the spring of 1995. She went over committee appointments and the responsibilities of each.

There will be no December meeting. The next meeting will be Jan. 25 for the installation of officers.

DNR Supports Hunter Program To Feed Needy

Maryland Department of Natural Resources (DNR) Secretary Torrey C. Brown, M.D., announced this week DNR's strong support for the "Hunters Harvestshare" program's effort this year in providing hunter-donated venison to feed Maryland's needy.

The Maryland Deer Hunters Association has set up a network of meal processors across Maryland which have allocated some of their freezer space to store donated venison. Hunters who harvest a deer this year are encouraged to take their deer to these processors and set aside a pack of their venison for distribution to the Maryland Food Bank. The food bank will distribute the venison to soup kitchens, shelters and charities around Maryland.

Last year the program provided more than 10,000 pounds of venison to the needy. This year, Hunters Harvestshare is shooting for 30,000 pounds.

"DNR encourages every hunter who is skillful enough to harvest a deer this season to take part in the Hunters Harvestshare program," Dr. Brown said. "DNR supports the efforts of all deer hunters and sportsmen who take the time to care for Maryland's needy, no matter how large or small their donations may be."

For more information on the donation program, persons may call the Maryland Deer Hunters Association at (410) 922-5549.

DNR reminds hunters that the deer firearms season begins Nov. 27. For more information on hunting in Maryland, persons may call (410) 974-3195, or contact the closest regional DNR Wildlife Division office (Western Region (Cumberland), (301) 777-2136).

Bartlett Claims Clinton Bought NAFTA Votes

Sixth District Congressman Rosco Bartlett last week voiced his disappointment that NAFTA (North American Free Trade Agreement) passed in the House and Senate, expressing his uneasiness that President Clinton "promised pork projects for some members of Congress in return for their yes vote on NAFTA."

"NAFTA did not have the strength to win passage on its own merits. The only way President Clinton was able to ensure the votes was to buy them with costly pork projects at the taxpayers' expense. In buying the support NAFTA needed for passage, the very result NAFTA was supposed to produce was sacrificed — ironically for free trade."

Bartlett cited the trade-offs, saying, "Among the back-room deals struck were subsidies for the sugar industry, protection for the citrus industry, taxpayer funded cargo planes, and countless others that will soon surface. Subsidies and market protections are not strong foundations upon which to build a so-called free trade agreement. This type of deal-making is a disgrace to democracy, the presidency, and to the American people."

Local Student Hosts Metal Show

Tom Shawley grew up on a 300-acre dairy farm off Rt. 495 in Bittering. His parents, George and Sharon, and before them his grandfather have raised milk cows for over 50 years, when the family settled there from Pennsylvania. The oldest of five children, Tom is "an unassuming bespeckled young man with neatly trimmed blond hair and quiet demeanor," stated an FSU spokesman.

He's broken with tradition and is a student at Frostburg State University. He's also a host of the heavy metal show on the University's radio stations. Every Friday night from 9 p.m. until the small hours of the morning, Tom and his colleagues broadcast Metalica, Guns 'N Roses, and other head-banger sounds from WFSU, 91.7 FM. Looking at him, he's the last person one would expect to have an interest in heavy metal music. "I never have looked the part," Tom explains. "Anything is possible in radio."

A graduate of Northern High School, Shawley became aware of the station while still in high school. "I found the Friday night metal show by accident, while roaming the radio dial one night," he said. He's been listening to the station ever since.

"During high school, I had no idea what I wanted to do," he said, until his senior year when he took an accounting class. It appealed to him. He said, "Plus, I was hoping to get into a field with some time off," unlike farming.

When he arrived at FSU, he sought out the station and soon after applied for his FCC license, a requirement for all on-air personnel. Now, in addition to the Friday night show, called MetalWorks, he hosts a drive-time jazz show Wednesdays at 5 p.m. He also serves as a station administrative assistant. "It's a nice diversion from everything else I do," he said, referring to the rigorous academic requirements of the accounting department.

WFSU, 91.7 FM, the only public radio station in Western Maryland, features jazz and classical programming daily. Evening shows feature new age, classic rock, and other alternative programming, in addition to MetalWorks.

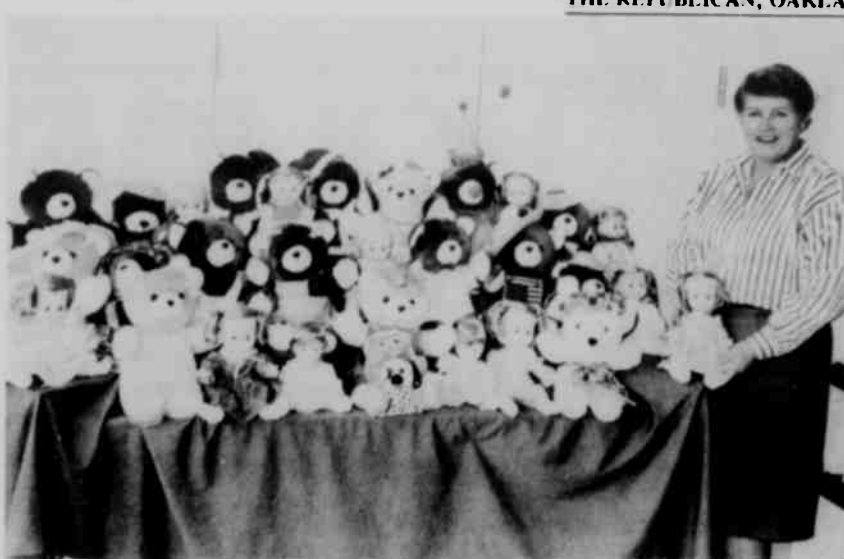

Wozniwicz New President, CEO of American Trust

J. Glenn Beall Jr., chairman of WM Bancorp, and Donald E. Stone, president and chief executive officer of WM Bancorp, Cumberland, have announced the appointment of Robert R. Wozniwicz as president and chief operating officer of American Trust Bank and American Trust Bank of West Virginia, effective Jan. 3, 1994. The appointment of Wozniwicz is a result of the planned and approved merger of WM Bancorp with Keystone Financial, Inc., expected in January 1994.

Wozniwicz is currently senior vice president, director of retail banking at Northern Central Bank, a Keystone Financial member bank located in Williamsport. He graduated from American College, Sacramento, Calif., the Pennsylvania Bankers Association School of Banking at Bucknell University, and has earned management certificates from the Pennsylvania State University, University of South Carolina, and from the Massachusetts Bankers Association.

Wozniwicz serves as chairman of the Greater

DRESSING DOLLS AND BEARS FOR THE NEEDY - The Garrett County Extension Homemakers and other volunteers have been dressing bears and dolls as a Christmas project. Through the Salvation Army, the Rotarians supply bears and dolls, which, when dressed, will be given to low-income Garrett County children. The Homemakers are looking for more volunteers to pick up bears and dolls at the Cooperative Extension Service office, dress them, and return them to that office by December 10. Patterns are available, but clothing can be simple in design. Shown with the dolls and bears is Extension Agent Irmgard Koscielnik. Persons desiring additional information may call the Cooperative Extension Service office at 301-334-1990.

Williamsport Business Committee, is a director for the Williamsport Chamber of Commerce, and is a director for the Central Atlantic Advanced School of Banking.

Carl L. Campbell, president and chief executive officer of Keystone Financial, Inc., Harrisburg, said, "Robert Wozniwicz is familiar with the Keystone Financial Super Community Banking philosophy. He understands the importance of local decision making and is conscious of meeting the unique needs of individual communities. Over the last seven years, he has contributed to the success of Northern Central Bank and the communities it serves. We are eager for him to continue that tradition at American Trust. We are equally eager to welcome WM Bancorp into the Keystone Financial family of community banks."

WM Bancorp, the holding company for American Trust Bank and American Trust Bank of West Virginia, has assets of $350 million and collectively operates 21 community offices.

Keystone Financial, Inc., a four-bank holding company headquartered in Harrisburg, is the ninth largest bank holding company in Pennsylvania. Member banks include, Mid-State Bank, Altoona; Northern Central Bank, Williamsport; Pennsylvania National Bank, Pottsville; and National Bank of the Main Line, Wayne, which operate 94 community offices in 23 Pennsylvania counties. In addition to the WM Bancorp acquisition, Keystone Financial, Inc., expects to complete the acquisition of Elmwood Federal Savings Bank, Media, in the first quarter of 1994.

Low-Interest Mortgage Loans Now Available

Governor William Donald Schaefer has announced that $78 million in low-interest mortgage loans is available for income-eligible Maryland homebuyers.

The funds are available through the Department of Housing and Community Development's (DHCD) Maryland Mortgage Program on Behalf of Local Jurisdictions (MMP). Most MMP eligible people are purchasing their first homes with the loan, but it is not always required that applicants be first-time buyers.

"The Maryland Mortgage Program helps low- and moderate-income people buy homes," said Governor Schaefer. "More than 33,236 Maryland families and individuals have purchased homes through this program."

The Maryland Mortgage Program is administered by DHCD's Community Development Administration, which recently issued tax-exempt revenue bonds to finance the program on behalf of 21 Maryland counties and Baltimore City. This arrangement enables local governments to take advantage of the state's excellent bond rating, share the cost in issuing the bonds, and benefit from the centralized administration of the program.

Montgomery and Prince George's counties did not participate in the bond issue because they separately issue revenue bonds for housing programs in their jurisdictions.

To qualify for an MMP 30-year, fixed-rate mortgage loan, individuals may earn up to $37,000 a year and families up to $47,000.

Two interest rates have been established for the program based on household income. The interest rate is 5.50 percent for people earning $30,200 or less a year. Those earning more than $30,200 a year up to the program's maximum income limit will pay 5.95 percent interest. Maximum purchase prices are $93,500 for a newly constructed unit or $88,000 for an existing unit.

To apply for the program, interested persons must first have a signed sales contract on a qualifying home before contacting a participating lending institution. Borrowers must also make their sales contracts contingent upon receiving financing through the MMP.

For a program brochure and list of participating lenders, persons may call the Homeownership Program at 1-800-638-7781.

●● Make tree trimming a joyous occasion ●●

The holiday season is a signal for parties... a time for family and friends to get together. A practical, but festive, theme is a tree-trimming party, which appeals to children and adults. Set up the tree and arrange the lights, then let guests decorate the tree with ornaments and perhaps even strings of old-fashioned popcorn ropes. Songs of the holidays and a fire in the fireplace will add to the atmosphere.

Make the party an event to remember by spoiling your guests with festive holiday treats that tantalize the eye as well as the taste buds. While guests are decorating the tree, set out taste tempters, such as Festive Fudge, an irresistible blend of real chocolate, marshmallows and nuts. Pair the fudge with Holiday Bon Bons, rich chocolate gems crowned with maraschino cherries. A plate of Cherry-Almond Clusters, a savory snack that can easily be prepared ahead of time, is the perfect finishing touch to your "table of treats." You might even want to send your guests home with a decorative box of these easy-to-prepare treats.

After the tree is decorated, capture all the excitement and joyous spirit of the season by serving One-Bowl Christmas Cake. This spectacular, show-stopping dessert is easy to prepare with the Baker's® One-Bowl™ method, which uses only a few, readily available ingredients and has no complicated instructions. It's the perfect recipe for party planners during the busy holiday season. An ideal accompaniment for this cake is Merry Cherry Punch, a combination of hot mulled cherry juice spiced with cloves, cinnamon and lemon.

This party menu, made extra-special with the luscious flavors of real chocolate and succulent cherries, is guaranteed to win rave reviews from your guests.

Here are some baking tips that will help make recipe preparation easier, especially during the busy holiday season:

- Read through the recipes before you begin in order to understand how to prepare them. Check that you have the right ingredients.
- Assemble all ingredients and utensils before you begin.
- Use a glass "liquid" measuring cup to measure liquid ingredients, such as water and oil, and a set of "dry" measuring cups to measure dry ingredients, such as flour and sugar.
- Be sure to preheat the oven, if necessary.
- For good size, shape and texture, always use pans of the size called for in the recipe. A cake baked in a pan that is too large will be pale, flat and shrunken. A cake baked in a too small or too shallow pan will bulge over and lose its shape.
- Make use of your freezer for holiday baking by selecting recipes that freeze well. Frosting cakes and cupcakes freeze better than frosted ones. Allow the cakes to cool thoroughly, then place on a piece of cardboard, cover with heavy duty aluminum foil or plastic wrap, and freeze.
- Baking chocolate is easy to melt in a microwave oven. Just place unwrapped chocolate squares in a microwavable dish. For 1 square of chocolate, microwave on HIGH 1 to 2 minutes or until almost melted, stirring after each minute. Add 10 seconds to the time for each additional square of chocolate. Remove from microwave and stir until completely melted.

- Give cakes, desserts and pies a festive look with chocolate shavings, which can be made quickly by pulling a vegetable peeler across the surface of a square of semi-sweet chocolate.
- Ruby-red cherries make festive garnishes. Add red or green maraschino or glaze cherries to holiday cookies, cakes and other desserts. Use cherry filling to top cheesecakes, puddings and other holiday treats.
- Chocolate drizzle can dress up your favorite holiday dessert. To make it, just place a square of semi-sweet chocolate in a zipper-style sandwich bag and close the bag. Microwave on HIGH 1 minute or until chocolate is melted. Fold down top of bag, snip 1/8 inch off the corner and drizzle onto pies, cookies, cakes or brownies.
- Dried cherries are a taste treat that are generally available at gourmet and specialty food stores. They're ideal for holiday baked items, such as muffins, breads and sweet rolls, as well as stuffings and sauces. And they are delicious covered with chocolate as in the recipe for Cherry-Almond Clusters.

More Baking Know-How

- The answers to your holiday baking questions are just a telephone call away. Dial 1-800-4BAKERS (9 a.m. to 4 p.m. Eastern Standard Time) with your chocolate baking questions.
- Solve your menu problems with free recipes using cherries in desserts, main courses, appetizers and side dishes. Send a stamped, self-addressed envelope to Cherry Marketing Institute, 22201 Myersville Park Drive, Okemos MI 48864.

| 6 squares Baker's semi-sweet chocolate | 1 1/2 cups water |
| 3/4 cup (1 1/2 sticks) margarine or butter | 1 can (21 ounces) cherry filling and topping |
| 1 1/2 cups sugar | 1/2 teaspoon almond extract |
| 3 eggs | 7 cups (16 ounces) non-dairy whipped topping, thawed |
| 2 teaspoons vanilla | Chocolate curls or shavings |
| 2 1/2 cups flour | |
| 1 teaspoon baking soda | |
| 1/4 teaspoon salt | |

Heat oven to 350°F.

Microwave chocolate and margarine in large microwavable bowl on HIGH 2 minutes or until margarine is melted. Stir until chocolate is completely melted.

Stir sugar into melted chocolate mixture until well blended. With electric mixer on low speed, beat in eggs, one at a time, until completely mixed. Add vanilla. Stir in 1/2 cup of the flour, baking soda and salt. Beat in remaining flour alternately with water until well blended and smooth. Pour into 2 greased and floured 9-inch layer pans.

Bake 35 minutes or until toothpick inserted in center comes out clean. Cool 10 minutes. Remove from pans, cool completely on wire racks.

Mix cherry filling and almond extract. Spoon evenly over one cake layer on serving plate, reserving 1/2 cup for garnish. Spread about 2 cups of the whipped topping evenly over cherries and top with second cake layer. Frost top and sides of cake with remaining whipped topping, reserving about 2 cups. Press chocolate curls around top of cake. Pipe reserved whipped topping around base of cake. Garnish with reserved cherries. Refrigerate.

Note: Store any leftover cake in refrigerator.

●● Holiday Bon Bons ●●

- | | |
|---|--|
| 2 jars (10 ounces each) maraschino cherries | 2 cups sugar |
| Cherry-flavor liqueur | 4 eggs |
| 4 squares Baker's unsweetened chocolate | 1 teaspoon vanilla |
| 3/4 cup (1 1/2 sticks) margarine or butter | 1 cup flour |
| | (Chocolate Fudge Filling recipe follows) |
| | 1/2 cup powdered sugar |

Heat oven to 350°F.

Drain liquid from cherries; do not remove cherries from jars. Refill jars with liqueur to completely cover cherries, cover tightly. Let stand at least 24 hours for best flavor.

Microwave chocolate and margarine in large microwavable bowl on HIGH 2 minutes or until margarine is melted. Stir until chocolate is completely melted.

Stir in granulated sugar until well blended. Add eggs and vanilla; stir until completely mixed. Stir in flour until well blended. Spoon into greased 1-3/4 x 1-inch muffin pans.

Bake 20 minutes or until toothpick inserted in center comes out with fudgy crumbs. Cool slightly in muffin pans; loosen edges with tip of knife. Remove from pans. Turn each brownie over onto wax paper-lined tray while warm. Make 1/2-inch deep indentation into each brownie "bon bon" with end of wooden spoon. Cool completely.

Meanwhile, prepare Chocolate Fudge Filling. Drain cherries, reserving liqueur. Let cherries stand on paper towels to allow surface to dry. Combine powdered sugar with enough reserved liqueur to form a thin glaze.

To assemble "bon bons," pipe or spoon about 1 teaspoon Chocolate Fudge Filling into indentation of each brownie. Gently press cherry into filling. Drizzle with powdered sugar glaze. Makes 4 dozen.

●● Chocolate Fudge Filling ●●

- | | |
|---|--------------------------|
| 3 squares Baker's unsweetened chocolate | 1 teaspoon vanilla |
| 1 package (3 ounces) cream cheese, softened | 1/4 cup light corn syrup |
| | 1 cup powdered sugar |

Microwave chocolate in microwavable bowl on HIGH 2 minutes, stirring halfway through heating time. Stir until chocolate is completely melted.

Beat cream cheese and vanilla in small bowl until smooth. Slowly pour in corn syrup, beating until well blended. Add chocolate; heat until smooth. Gradually add powdered sugar, beating until well blended and smooth. Makes about 1 cup.

●● Festive Fudge ●●

- | | |
|---|---------------------------------|
| 1 package (8 squares) Baker's semi-sweet chocolate or 2 packages (4 ounces each) Baker's German's sweet chocolate | 1 cup miniature marshmallows |
| 2 3/4 cups sweetened condensed milk | 1 teaspoon vanilla |
| | 1/8 teaspoon salt |
| | 1/2 cup chopped nuts (optional) |

Microwave chocolate and milk in 1 1/2-quart microwavable bowl on HIGH 2 minutes, stirring halfway through heating time. Stir until chocolate is completely melted and smooth.

Stir in marshmallows, vanilla, salt and nuts. Spread in greased 8 x 4 or 9 x 5-inch loaf pan. Refrigerate until firm, then cut in small squares. Makes 1 1/2 to 2 dozen.

Note: Recipe can be doubled; spread in greased 8-inch square pan.

●● Cherry-Almond Clusters ●●

- | | |
|--|--------------------------------|
| 1 package (8 squares) Baker's semi-sweet chocolate | 1 cup toasted slivered almonds |
| | 1 cup dried cherries |

Microwave chocolate in large microwavable bowl on HIGH 2 minutes, stirring halfway through heating time. Stir until chocolate is completely melted. Add nuts and dried cherries; mix lightly until completely coated. Drop from teaspoon onto wax paper. Refrigerate until chocolate is firm. Makes 2 dozen.

●● Merry Cherry Punch ●●

- | | |
|--|--------------------------------------|
| 1 can or bottle (40 to 46 ounces) cherry juice blend | 1/2 teaspoon whole cloves |
| 2 tablespoons sugar | 1 cinnamon stick |
| Juice and peel of 1 lemon | 1 lemon, thinly sliced (for garnish) |

Combine cherry juice blend, sugar, lemon juice and peel, cloves and cinnamon stick in large saucepan. Simmer over low heat 10 minutes or until hot. Remove and discard lemon peel, cloves and cinnamon stick. Carefully pour into heat-proof punch bowl or cups. Garnish with lemon slices. Makes 10 to 12 (1/2-cup) servings.

Note: Punch can be prepared in advance and reheated just before serving.

Historic Trust Stalls Sewer Expansion Plan

The plan to expand the Grantsville sewerage system to service the Rt. 40-Chestnut Ridge Road-1-68 interchange area is "still on hold," according to Wendell Beitzel, Garrett County Sanitary District administrator, who reported that the Maryland Historical Trust has challenged the project based on the group's perception that it would have an adverse effect on the Casselman Bridge, a National Historic Landmark.

Those concerns, which are shared by the Farmers Home Administration (FmHA), have effectively blocked the Garrett County Sanitary Commission from further development of the plan and ways of funding it, and have resulted in a memorandum of agreement being drawn up that would ensure as little intrusion on the historic property as possible.

The agreement has now been signed by the Garrett County Sanitary Commission, the FmHA, the Maryland Department of the Environment, and the Environmental Protection Agency. The document is now awaiting clearance at

Deer Kill Down From Last Year; Weather Blamed

Maryland Department of Natural Resources (DNR) Secretary Torrey C. Brown, M.D., reported this week that inclement weather on the opening day of deer firearms season was a major factor in the kill numbers statewide, which are down from last year.

On opening day, which was Saturday, November 27, an unofficial kill of 12,058 deer was reported, down from 1992's kill of 15,561, which was the second highest first day kill on record.

"Heavy rains accompanied by high winds throughout most of the state played a significant role in these first-day harvest numbers," Dr. Brown said. "Even with the inclement weather, Maryland hunters spent literally thousands of hours enjoying the state's outdoors and taking part in this centuries-old sport."

The weather was also a factor in 1991 when the total kill was 12,582. If normal weather conditions prevail for the rest of the season, DNR officials expect the final harvest figure to be close to the 1992 total of 35,133.

In Garrett County, the reduction in numbers was also witnessed, with a kill of 1,729 in 1990; 1,453 in 1991; 1,193 in 1992; and 731 in 1993.

THE SNOWMAKING GUNS WERE SILENT at the Wisp Ski Resort in McHenry this morning, as temperatures crept above the 32-degree mark, but it is obvious in this photo that the Wisp now has plenty of snow to begin at least limited operation this Friday. Snowmaking over the past several days has provided a base of up to 24 inches on "Belly Flop," the beginners' slope of some five acres of ski-able terrain. The rope tow will operate tomorrow from noon until 9 p.m., Saturday from 9 a.m. to 10 p.m., and Sunday from 9 a.m. to 4:30 p.m., with reduced rates for skiing and equipment rental. Snowmakers were moved up the mountain early this week to begin pouring out the white stuff on the upper trails, as conditions allow. Photo by Craig Phillips.

First United Corporation Completes Acquisition Of HomeTown Bancorp

First United Corporation on Tuesday completed its acquisition of HomeTown Bancorp, Inc., the parent company of Myersville Bank located in Myersville. With the addition of HomeTown, First United will have more than $425 million in total assets.

Under the terms of the acquisition, which is structured as a share exchange, each share of HomeTown common stock will be exchanged for 15.5 shares of First United common stock.

"The addition of HomeTown to our organization combines two highly successful and compatible companies," said Richard G. Stanton, First United's chairman and chief executive officer. "We firmly believe this acquisition will increase our ability to effectively serve our customers and at the same time increase our presence in our regional banking market."

"This combination provides access to the Frederick County market while assuring that a locally-managed financial institution sensitive to the local needs and services will be able to provide for those needs and services over the long term in a cost-effective manner," Stanton added.

Effective Tuesday, three directors of HomeTown Bancorp joined the First United Board of Directors. They are: Terry L. Reiber, president and chief executive officer of HomeTown; Tod P. Salisbury, a Frederick attorney and a director of HomeTown; and Paul Cox, a director of HomeTown. Also effective Tuesday, Stanton joined the Board of Directors of Myersville Bank and Reiber joined the Board of Directors of First United National Bank & Trust.

The acquisition was announced on May 28 of this year and received regulatory approval from the Federal Reserve Board on September 3.

First United is the parent company of First United National Bank & Trust and First United Bank of West Virginia, N.A. The common stock of First United is traded on NASDAQ/NMS under the symbol "FUNC."

Edwards, Hafer To Host Annual Community Meet

District 1-A Delegate George C. Edwards and District 1 Senator John J. Hafer will host an annual legislative session community meeting on Saturday, December 11, beginning at 10 a.m., in the Garrett Community College auditorium.

The purpose of the meeting is to allow citizens the opportunity to make suggestions and to voice their concerns and opinions concerning the upcoming General Assembly session in January.

Similar meetings have recently been conducted by the legislators throughout the individual towns in the county.

The December 11 meeting will continue until "all concerns and questions have been addressed," according to Mary Lou Stemple, legislative aide to Delegate Edwards.

Choral Society's Holiday Concerts Slated Dec. 10-12

The Garrett Choral Society, under the direction of Nancy K. Learey, will present "Homespun Sounds of Christmas" on Friday and Saturday, December 10 and 11, at 8 p.m. and again on Sunday, December 12, at 2:30 p.m. The concerts will be held at St. Paul's United Methodist Church in Oakland.

According to Mrs. Learey, the performance will stress traditional Christmas numbers. Included are "What Shall I Give," "Rejoice," "Shepherd's Pipe Carol," "Carols Four," "Carol of the Bells," and several other favorites.

"We wanted to give the area a real treat and bring back some of the carols which everyone remembers, although some may be in a different format," Mrs. Learey explained.

The Garrett Choral Society is composed of area residents who share a common interest in singing. Their most recent performance was Felix Mendelssohn's Elijah. Past offerings have included major musicals, such as Fiddler on the Roof and South Pacific as well as the Messiah and Bach's Christmas Oratorio.

Commissioners To Decide School Issue Next Week

The Garrett County Commissioners did not render a decision this week concerning the future of two southern area elementary schools, and apparently do not plan to do so until Dec. 7, which is the state deadline for such project requests.

"We will try to have a decision as early in the day as possible," said Commissioner John Braskey.

The decision in front of the elected officials is whether or not to support a plan submitted by the Garrett County Board of Education which proposes the construction of a new school to house the student populations of Loch Lynn and Red House elementary schools. The two schools are in poor repair and at the present, students and teachers must tolerate a severe lack of space in the facilities.

A plan was brought to the commissioners by the school board which would consolidate the two school communities into a new facility, with a central location between the two present schools. Commissioner Elwood Groves did not wish to support a consolidated school, however, and sent the school board back to consider the renovation of both facilities. This was an option not considered initially by the education board because of the much higher cost of the project.

Dr. Jerome Ryscavage informed the commissioners last week that the state would in fact not support the renovation of two schools, but would support the consolidation project. This decision by state officials was based mainly on the state's trend toward consolidation where it is possible in an effort to keep costs in check. The renovation and operation of two schools would be more costly, they told Ryscavage, than the construction and operation of one.

The final proposal to the state must be made by Dec. 7, which is the date of the commissioners' next meeting. Their support of the plan must be presented to the state in the form of a letter, according to Albert Coviello, assistant superintendent.

Rotary Christmas Project Underway

It is once again time for the annual Garrett County Rotary Christmas Project. Over the past weekend, Rotarians and helpers were busy setting up "giving trees" at 33 businesses throughout the county.

Designed to serve a two-fold purpose, gifts accumulated at the trees will be distributed to members of needy families, unnamed but identified by numbers on tags placed on the trees. Money donated in lieu of gifts will help defray some of the cost of providing food boxes to the 300 plus Garrett County families approved for inclusion in the project. Family names and specific needs are obtained from Garrett County Social Services and Garrett County Health Department WIC.

"LOON-ER LANDING" REPORTED ON AREA ROADWAYS - A confused flock of loons crash-landed on several area roadways from Grantsville to Swanton Friday afternoon after the birds apparently got faulty altimeter readings while piloting through an ice storm. They mistook the roadways for bodies of water, DNR officials assume, and because their feet are webbed and they can only take off from water, the loons were essentially grounded after their clumsy landing. Local emergency lines were apparently flooded with calls as folks asked what to do for the floundering birds, many of which had suffered minor injuries from hitting the asphalt. To remedy the dilemma, DNR personnel carefully transported the birds to bodies of water where they could feed on fish and get their "footing" to take off again. The one pictured here discovered a farm pond on Rt. 135, near St. John's Episcopal Church in Deer Park. He apparently helped himself to a huge feast of fish, and will most likely head on his way soon, if he hasn't already. DNR Liaison Gary Yoder reported that the loons were actually loaded on a Greyhound bus and should arrive in Disney World any day now. (Readers might also note that Yoder has won numerous liars' contests in his lifetime.)

Double Fatalities Occur In Tuesday Two-Vehicle, Head-On Collision

Both drivers involved in a two-vehicle, head-on collision Tuesday night on U.S. Rt. 219 north of Oakland were killed, according to reports filed by the Maryland State Police, Barrack W. McHenry.

Killed were David W. Kight, 38, Baltimore; and Albert J. Martinoli Sr., 70, Linthicum.

Tfc. S.H. Anderson investigated for state police and indicated that Martinoli, operating a 1984 Lincoln Continental north on U.S. Rt. 219 near Glotfely Enterprises, crossed the center line for unknown reasons and struck head on the 1986 Buick Riviera, operated by Kight. There were no passengers in either vehicle.

Martinoli was pronounced dead at the scene by a medical examiner and Kight died of injuries at Garrett County Memorial Hospital shortly after the 7:05 p.m. accident. Police said that neither driver was wearing seat belts.

Responding with state police were the Southern Garrett County Rescue Squad, the Garrett County Sheriff's Office, the Oakland City Police, the State Highway administration, and Oakland volunteer firemen.

Born June 4, 1955, in Baltimore, David Warren Kight was the son of Orville A. and Shirley Pancake Kight, Horse Shoe Run, W.Va.

Mr. Kight was a purchasing agent in the Baltimore area. He was a member of the Church of the Brethren and served in the U.S. Navy.

Besides his parents, he is survived by one brother, Robert Allen Kight, Horse Shoe Run; one sister, Sandra Lynn Whaley, Westminster; two foster sisters, Teresa Peterson Collins, Thomas, W.Va.; and Ruthie Peterson, Horse Shoe Run.

Ralph M. Burnett Appointed Judge Of District Court

Governor William Donald Schaefer announced Saturday the appointment of Ralph M. Burnett as judge of the District Court of Maryland for Garrett County. The appointment is effective immediately.

Burnett, who will serve a 10-year term, is succeeding Judge Jack R. Turney who retired in September.

Burnett is presently a partner in the law firm of Burnett, Eiswert, and Jones, P.A. He formerly served as the state's attorney for Garrett County after he was elected to that post in 1974. He decided not to seek reelection in 1978 and instead devoted his time to working in his law firm.

Regarding his recent appointment, Burnett stated, "I am greatly honored by the faith of the local bar and judicial nominating commission in elevating me to this position. I will do everything I can to emulate the high standards of my predecessors."

A graduate of the University of Baltimore School of Law, Burnett earned his juris doctorate degree in 1972. He and his wife, Lucy, are the parents of two children.

Burnett will be officially sworn in as District Court judge on Monday, December 13, at 4 p.m. at the District Court building on Third Street in Oakland. The public is invited to attend.

SANTA TO BE STAR OF FRESH AIR EVENT - The town of Oakland will be alive with Christmas activities tomorrow night, December 3, as WKJH-Radio's Fresh Air Christmas gets underway. The event will begin at 8 p.m., with the Southern Garrett Band performing its holiday field show music as the lights on the towering town tree are activated. Santa will "magically appear" at the tree, which is located in front of St. Matthew's Episcopal Church. Several area groups will sing carols throughout the evening, and a variety of seasonal goods and food will be available from vendors. This year's event will also feature the characters of Charles Dickens's A Christmas Carol, portrayed by actors from the Deep Creek Dinner Theatre. This event is in lieu of a parade this year, according to Cathy Cocker, spokesperson for WKJH. "This magical evening is for children as well as adults," she said. "Fresh Air Christmas is WKJH's gift to all."

NO END TO THE GIVING - Friendsville folks have done it again - filled to the top a tractor-trailer with donated items for the flood-ravaged people of Iowa. People are quick to respond in the first few days of a catastrophe like the floods out west, but oftentimes the initial excitement wears away and the good will tapers off, even though the victims may still be in severe need. However, the Friendsville Lions Club has kept the giving flame alive, inspiring the town to give again and again. A truck loaded down with all kinds of needed items is to arrive today in Des Moines, Iowa, where the belongings will be distributed to devastated families. Lions Club President Marlin Lawson said many businesses, individuals, and other groups donated the items and helped load the truck at his home earlier this week. Pictured above, left to right, are Oscar Van Schaatz, Homer Rodasheaver, Janice Welch, Ken Melhany, Wayne Friend, and Lawson.

Accident Society To Hold Holiday Festival Of Music

The Accident Cultural and Historic Society will sponsor the fourth annual Holiday Festival of Music in Accident at the Flowery Vale Community Center on Saturday evening, Dec. 11.

The program will feature a Christmas performance by the Accident Concert Band, beginning at 7:30 p.m.

In recognition of the World War II Commemorative Community status of the Town of Accident, donations will be accepted to support veterans in nursing homes on behalf of the Disabled American Veterans and the Disabled American Veterans Auxiliary.

Lori and Daymond Schmuck will provide vocals. George Keller will treat children with popcorn balls and provide picture taking opportunities as Santa Claus. Admission is free.

Pearl Harbor Day Program Slated At GCC Campus

A special presentation to mark the "day that will live in infamy" attack on Pearl Harbor by the Japanese Empire will be held at Garrett Community College December 7 from noon to 1 p.m. in Room 314 of the Continuing Education Building. The program is open to the public, free of charge.

Adjunct instructor Paul Shogren will give the political and international background leading up to the attack, the military and naval planning that preceded and followed the attack, along with the immediate changes that occurred on the home front as the United States went to war. During the presentation, a video tape of the actual attack, including combat film footage, will be shown. Shogren also plans to have several Garrett Countians who were here at that time tell of the event as they remember it and the significant changes it brought.

The Pearl Harbor Day

CHRISTMAS FARCE GREAT FOR WHOLE FAMILY - A family Christmas farce is being presented at the Garrett Community College auditorium this weekend, beginning tonight at 8 p.m. and to run through Saturday at the same time each night. A matinee will be held Sunday, Dec. 5, at 3 p.m. The title tells the basis of the play - The Farmdale Avenue Housing Estate Townswomen's Guild Dramatic Society's Production of A Christmas Carol. Written by David McGillivray and Walter Zerin, the story centers on a women's group attempting to present a presentation of the Charles Dickens Christmas classic. The hour-and-a-half farce is under the direction of Sue and Chuck Harkins, and stars local actors. Pictured above, left to right, are Suzanne Mitchell, Jenny Finkle, Roger Strouse, Derek Spirk, and Jane Avery. Tickets for the performances, available at the door, are $5 for adults and $2 for children, students, and senior citizens. See review on page A-4.

presentation has been planned in conjunction with the World War II 50th Anniversary commemoration. Shogren plans to do a series of presentations at Garrett Community College next year to commemorate other World War II events. These will probably be offered as one of the spring Beacon courses to begin in March, according to Joan B. Crawford, director of enrollment development.

"Light Up" Night Set For Friday In Friendsville

The Friendsville Mayor and Town Council will be sponsoring "Light Up" Night in the town at 8:30 p.m. Friday, December 3. Lighting of the community tree will be at the corner of Maple Street and First Avenue.

Santa Claus will be on hand to receive the children's Christmas lists and to assist Mayor Spencer Schlosnagle in the lighting of the community tree.

Santa will be riding throughout the town following the lighting of the Christmas tree.

Only Eight Deer Harvested In '29; Article Reprinted

While Garrett County deer harvests in recent years total many hundreds, such was not the case in 1929, which was the first official deer hunting season in the county in over 30 years. Only eight deer were taken that year, but the largest of the eight, shot by Whitfield DeWitt, was a 14-point buck that weighed 210 pounds dressed.

The following is a reprint of an article that appeared on the front page of the December 5, 1929, issue of The Republican. It was submitted to us by Mr. DeWitt's son, Harold DeWitt, of McHenry, who still has the 14-point rack of that deer.

The headline read: "Deer Shot by Whitfield DeWitt Gets Heavyweight Prize. Many Nimrods Bring In Alibis."

The most optimistic and still one of the most successful hunters in Garrett County has been discovered since the season on deer opened for the two-day period on Monday and Tuesday.

Whitfield DeWitt, Hoyes, started hunting for his deer Tuesday morning with an ancient muzzle-loader - the kind into which you have to drop your powder and ball and tamp it good and tight with waddin', trust in the Lord and keep your powder dry - and he expected, and did, return with a buck.

He did, but not until after a Winchester rifle and who couldn't have pulled the trigger if he had tried. DeWitt's prize was the largest of any of the other eight or 10 successful hunters in the county, the weight of the animal being 210 pounds, dressed.

Bucks Have Narrow Escapes

Reports of many narrow escapes for the bucks were brought back to Oakland by the hunters, with their usual alibis, but so far as is known at the present time only the following were successful in bagging a deer: Whitfield DeWitt, Frank Schell, Zenas L. Mellott and son, H.C. Buckingham, Roy Frantz, Leonard Sweitzer, Swanton and a Mr. Durst, of Grantsville.

Approximately 300 hunters, it is estimated, scoured the forests of Garrett County, exclusive of the game preserve, in search of venison, and although many were seen during the two days, the majority of them were said to be does, and, of course, safe from the guns of the ambitious nimrods.

Most of the hunters scoured the thick woods on both banks of the Youghiogheny River, north and west of Muddy Creek, Sang Run and the mountains in the vicinity of Grantsville and Swanton.

Harry Mickey, veteran hunter, estimated that there were about 100 deer along the Youghiogheny River, the most of them being large.

It has been only within the last few years, hunters say, that there have been deer in Garrett County. The State Conservation Commission placed a few on the game reserve at Nicola's a few years ago, and in addition to them and the natural increase, it is said that many have wandered into the county from the forests of Pennsylvania. This is the first open season on deer in this county for more than thirty years. A three-day period was opened from December 1 to 3, inclusive, but December 1 happened to fall on a Sunday, cutting down the hunter's frolic period to but two days. But even two days is long enough for Garrett County hunters to gather material for crackerbox stories and Burnside yarns that will last through the remainder of the winter.

And there will always be plenty of willing listeners. People are funny that way.

Mrs. Martha Jachowski Is Selected As 1993 Oakland Civic Clubwoman

by Ginnie Clutter
The Civic Club of Oakland has selected Martha Jachowski as its 1993 Clubwoman of the Year. Mrs. Jachowski, completing her second term as president of the organization, is so well known throughout the community for her volunteer work that merely mentioning the name "Martha" at many civic organization meetings needs no further identification as to who that Martha might be.

Her life began in Columbia, Missouri, but in early adolescence she moved with her family to Tacoma Park, a suburb of Washington, D.C. Martha's professional credentials include a Bachelor of Arts degree in sociology/psychology from the University of Iowa, 1948, and a Master of Arts degree in sociology/psychology from the University of Maryland, 1968.

After her bachelor's degree was conferred, Martha married Bob, an engineer who had just graduated from the University of Maryland. Shortly after their honey-continued with this organization, becoming its executive director, retiring in 1985. During that period she was also dean of training programs with the Mental Health Centers and on the National Health Association Board.

After her retirement in 1985, Martha and Bob (who retired the same day as his wife) moved to Garrett County permanently. Back in 1972 the Jachowskis had built a vacation cottage at Deep Creek Lake, and it was there that they established residence. Shortly after their arrival, they began to build their retirement home in Sky Valley.

But retirement for Martha only began a new phase of her lifetime of community involvement. Her volunteer work in Garrett County started with Hospice, where she initiated and provided training for the bereavement program and gave in-services for nursing home personnel on death and dying. She has been and continues to be an active volunteer for the V.I.V.A. program, has been an officer and member of the American Association of University Women, vice-president of the Board for Lighthouse, Inc., and a volunteer in countless other local programs.

Her membership responsibilities with the Civic Club of Oakland have included serving on the board for seven years. She is presently completing her second term as president of the organization. Even with this responsibility club members know if there is a committee being formed or a community project underway, Martha will somehow become involved as an active participant. The state purpose of the civic club is "to promote artistic, humanitarian and educational efforts of the individual and the community." It is no coincidence that Martha Jachowski's lifetime commitments and achievements have embodied these goals.

Martha has been instrumental in promoting Long Term Health Care and the all-year-long Celebration of Garrett County Women. A recent highlight of Martha's tenure was the highly successful Women's Fair in March. The day-long event involved eight months of committee meetings, planning sessions and coordination, overseen by Martha Jachowski. The fair presented 35 varied classes for participants with hands-on exhibits and displays dealing with many topics.

It was planned for and attended by women throughout the county, as well as all the eighth grade girls in Garrett County schools. The eighth-graders were transported by school buses with funds from the civic club. The day-long event took place at Garrett Community College.

In addition to her community activities Martha shares many hobbies with her husband Bob. Among them are travelling, crafts, reading, and decorating. The Jachowskis have three children and nine grandchildren who visit them often at their home in Sky Valley. Members are justifiably proud of their selection of Martha Jachowski as the Civic Club of Oakland's Clubwoman of 1993.

Holiday House Tour Tickets Still Available

A few tickets remain for the "Home for the Holidays" house tour, sponsored by the Garrett County Chapter of the American Red Cross. The tours are set for December 3 and 4 and tickets are available through today at Proudfoot's, Englander's, and Gregg's pharmacies.

"This year's homes are equally as beautiful as last year's," stated Donna Heginbotham, coordinator of the tours. "Each home is unique and will certainly put you in the holiday mood."

GCSO Charges McHenry Man With Battery

A McHenry man was charged by the Garrett County Sheriff's Office with battery and violation of an exparte order early Saturday morning. Officers also charged an Oakland man with DWI (driving while intoxicated) following a minor car mishap on Rt. 495, and served several bench warrants for various violations.

William G. Friend, 41, apparently returned to his McHenry place of residence against an exparte order at 1 a.m. Saturday and allegedly attacked family members. According to the police report, the defendant had obeyed a seven-day restraining order and had returned at the end of that time, which was Saturday. Friend was supposed to have received a continued exparte order, however, barring him from the residence for several more months. The papers had not yet been delivered to him at the time he returned to the home.

He apparently argued with his son at the door and entered the house against the son's wishes. He then allegedly attacked his wife, attempting to choke her. She called 911 to notify police, and when she hung up, Friend yanked the phone out of the wall, according to the report.

Police officers arrived on the scene and Friend was transported away from the home, and later arrested for the alleged attack. He was released on his own recognizance following the charging procedure.

A 42-year-old Oakland man was charged with DWI as a result of a minor car crash Sunday evening. Alfred T. Marucci II was apparently operating a vehicle owned by Garrett County Memorial Grounds, Inc., southbound on Rt. 495 near Green Glade Road. A second vehicle, driven by Dana A. Groves, 34, Mtn. Lake Park, was in the roadway ahead of Marucci. Groves, operating a 1987 Dodge Charger, slowed in order to allow Marucci to pass her, which he proceeded to do. When his vehicle was next to hers, he apparently fish-tailed and hit the rear quarter panel area of her car, forcing her to the right.

Police were called to the scene, and tested Marucci for blood alcohol levels. He was then charged with DWI, according to the report. Neither driver was injured in the 6:44 p.m. mishap.

In a separate case, an arrest warrant was issued for the arrest of Kenneth B. Haught, 25, Kitzmiller. He was charged with four counts of writing bad checks to the Mtn. Lake Park IGA grocery store. The charges were first brought against the defendant by Marsha King, owner of the store, who reported that four bad checks with a total of $475 were uttered by the defendant. A bench warrant was issued for the arrest of Leonard P. Hebb, 49. He apparently failed to pay fines connected to his original conviction of battery.

Kirk E. McKenzie, 20, was arrested on the strength of a bench warrant on Nov. 17 for failure to appear in court. He apparently was to face four charges of theft under $300 and two counts of malicious destruction of property. Three men were arrested

Do Your Job!...

When the state of Maryland finally issued a mandate to the Garrett County Board of Commissioners that it absolutely must close its old landfill and spend the funds needed to open a new, far more expensive one, the commissioners immediately sold $6,000,000 worth of bonds to pay for it.

However, these same commissioners (two of the three), absolutely refuse to secure bonding when it comes to funding capital projects for education. The Southern High School renovation effort was literally hacked to pieces and is still unfinished. We have children attending school in worn out, dangerous, inadequate buildings, but this apparently is not enough of a mandate for the commissioners to take appropriate action. They are ready and willing to float six million dollars in bonds for garbage disposal, but refuse to take similar steps for the well-being of our children.

The commissioners' handling of this most recent issue involving the proposed consolidation of Red House and Loch Lynn schools has us outraged. Their response in recent weeks has been, "We haven't had enough time to make such a major decision. How can you (the Board of Education) expect us to make such a decision in such a short period of time. You haven't given us enough information."

The fact of the matter is, the commissioners have not been doing their job. This consolidation matter has been in the works for years, not just months or weeks. They were afforded every opportunity to be involved in the process, but they declined. Even if they had not been invited to participate, they should have insisted on being involved since one-half of the county budget is for education! They sit smugly at their desks about one day per week, wait for others to do the work and research, and then want the proposals and information laid in front of them so they can take a vote. That is the extent of their involvement.

How dare they say they "haven't had enough time" to make a decision. They have had more than enough time: they simply haven't done their job. Plus, they were elected to make tough decisions. If they can't do it, then they should get the hell out and give someone else that opportunity, someone who has the initiative to do the job correctly, to do the research he/she is paid to do, and has the guts to make the right decision.

They also love to exercise their all-powerful authority by waiting until the absolute last minute to render their decision, just as they are doing in the consolidation issue. It's not because they are actually holding special meetings to jointly study the issue. We believe they do this for no other reasons than to intimidate and manipulate.

To Elwood Groves, we say, "Stop playing politics and do what is right." To John Braskley, we say, "Display a little courage, raise your voice, and make a difference in the commissioners' office." To Brenda Butscher, we say, "For God's sake, wake up and start doing your homework."

The relationship between the county commissioners and the board of education should not be adversarial, but a team effort. If the two sides could work together, using whatever is in the best interest of our children as the primary guide, we could do wonders in education and avoid all of this destructive game playing.

Letters to the Editor

To the Editor:

The holiday season is the time for Thanksgiving or being thankful for what we have.

It has been almost three years since Sheila Ford had her car accident and we, the family, are very thankful that we still have her.

The Lord spared her life that she may live to see her sons grow to maturity and that we, the family, still have her to remind us that the Lord still performs miracles.

She has a big heart and is such a treat to have as our daughter, sister, mother, and wife.

We would like to take this opportunity to thank everyone who played a part in her recovery, be it helping with the boys, visiting her in the hospital, a church member (and she loves her church), taking her to the doctor, grocery store, or whatever that part may have been.

This holiday season, don't forget to help someone in need, visit someone in the hospital or a shut-in, or some elderly person who needs company. Think of someone else before thinking of yourself, and make it another joyous holiday season, and remember America is a wonderful place to live.

Mother, husband, sons, brothers, sisters and grandmother

To the Editor:

Sometimes, as we watch issues unfold in our county, we are almost unaware of their final impact on us as taxpayers and citizens. That seems to me to be the case with some of the recommendations made by the solid waste advisory committee regarding the upcoming Solid Waste Ordinance.

One proposed regulation is that to use the dumpsters you must buy a yearly permit. Another says you may bring only a certain amount of garbage per visit, and arrive at certain hours only.

Many of the proposed new "rules" seem to me to disregard one thing. When the dumpsters were placed almost 20 years ago, they were supposed to make it convenient for people to throw their trash in them, rather than over almost any road bank in the county. "Trash magnets," you might say. In that regard, they are doing their job. Perhaps too well, some say.

Why not try a reward of, say, $500 for information leading to the conviction of out-of-state dumpers that could be paid for by the fine levied on the offender? How about a "clean-up" program like the "Adopt-A-Highway" campaign provides? Perhaps some organizations or citizens' groups near the dumpster sites would participate. As for large objects, etc., possibly just some space and a sign that says, "place large objects here."

The idea that the same people who are breaking the law now by putting large items or whatever in the bins will somehow change their ways because the county is going to spend many thousands of taxpayers' dollars to fence in the sites and hire "guards" to enforce the "rules" for eight hours a day, is in my opinion, an expensive joke!

I won't be surprised if much of what you see set off around the dumpster sites now will soon be found up and down our country-side, once these regulations are in force. What will it cost to go around the roads and pick up these objects one or two at a time? It took years to get some people to bring their junk to the dumpster sites, where at least it can be collected easily. Now we're ready to spend a lot of money to make them stop?

What if only a few buy a $20 sticker and the dumpsters are all used less? How many "trash police" will our new "solid waste czar" have to hire to find where all the garbage is going then?

We all want the new landfill, as much as it will cost, to last as long as possible, but decisions need to be made that are cost effective over the long run, and tend to "put the lid on" a young "trash bureaucracy" that will tend, as all bureaucracies do, to grow, develop, and justify itself. We could end up one day paying the pensions of county employees whose entire careers were as dumpster watchmen, while others worked to pick up the trash along the roads that the old "trash magnets," the dumpsters, used to collect all by themselves. Think about it!

To the editor:

I need to bring something of great importance to the attention of the residents of Garrett County - especially Oakland and Friendsville residents.

I am a dark-complected young man who has lived in Garrett County for 13 years, 10 of which were in Friendsville where I finished my high school years with needless to say, a lot of hassle from the other students. Even though I avoided confrontations at school, I still had them at home and so did my parents, because it was supposedly wrong for two white folks to raise a black kid - especially in Garrett County.

People fail to realize that I lived in the county before I ever moved here, but I was still told I would never make it here by my own school principal. Well, he was wrong, but my story is not finished.

I got tired of living in Friendsville. There's not much work there, and to say the least, it's very depressing there. So I moved to Oakland two years ago. In between, I served in the U.S. Army and I continue to serve in the army. I married a great woman and we set up residence in Oakland. Jobs were still scarce, but there was a little more employment and more to do. So I thought it was great.

"Thought" is right. My father-in-law, Sheridan Kight, is a good man; no doubt about it. But he has been told a lot of negative things about me. What is funny is that the people who tell him these things don't even know me. My question is "Why?" Well, I don't know, but then again, yes I do know - prejudice and racism. But I'm here to tell you I'm not a thief I'm not a racist. And I'm not someone who judges a book by its cover, nor am I someone who cares what other people think.

I presently work with mentally disabled children and adults and I am a member of the Oakland Volunteer Fire Department. It is the only organization that has accepted me for who and what I am and I don't have to have a well-known last name.

So, to finish these little words of wisdom, times have changed and no matter what is said around me or what is attempted to be done to me, I'm here to stay for as long as I like. And if someone needs to say something about me, they don't need to say it to my in-laws. They can come to me and we will deal with whatever it is right then and there, or they don't have to say anything at all. That's the way this old boy was raised to be, anyway.

To the Editor:

Recently my husband and I had the opportunity of being involved with the local National Guard Unit, Company C.

Garrett County can be very proud of this unit.

Captain Rick Wakefield did everything he could to help us so we did not lose the pet food donation from Elizabeth, N.J., but the wonderful part was getting acquainted with these men.

We were informed the food would be at our house at 8 p.m. At about 7:30 p.m. we got a call from Mike Rogers, the truck driver delivering the food, stating he would be several hours late.

I had no way of contacting the guardsmen as they are punctual and were already on their way to our home; thus there was a long wait.

We had prepared coffee, soft drinks, donuts, and cookies for a snack, but how long does it take for a snack? It was very cold outside and we were all seated in our sunroom. At first the men talked of their animals, to please me I do believe. Then the conversation turned to their experiences in the military, to please both my husband and me since they knew both my husband and my father were in the military. For two hours we shared life experiences. What a wonderful evening it turned out to be, what a wonderful opportunity to spend time with these gentlemen.

Five of these guardsmen are from the Friendsville area: Jack VanSickle, Eugene VanSickle (whose name was omitted in the paper and even though I did not identify the men in the picture, I do apologize), Charles Patton, Brian Codrington and Kenny Fike.

Captain Wakefield has done a great job with his men. Uniforms were clean and pressed, shoes were polished until they shined, mannerisms were great and the minute the tractor-trailer stopped all were alert and on the job, each doing what he needed to do.

We are so very grateful to

A Little Dickens by John R. McEwen

Somehow, I think if Charles Dickens would happen to catch a performance of his most famous Christmas story showing this week at Garrett Community College, he'd get bruises on his shoulders from rolling in his grave.

This hilarious sendup of Dickens's classic, directed by Sue and Chuck Harkins, is titled simply The Turntable Avenue Housing Estate Townswomen's Guild Dramatic Society's Production of A Christmas Carol by David McGillivray and Walter Zerlin. It stars GCC theatre veteran Jane Avery as Thelma, the prima donna "actress" assigned the role of Scrooge. In this problem-laden production, Thelma is so late arriving for the show that she is nearly replaced by an audience member, but when she finally does get there, she proves to us that she is the only "professional" actor present. She does this by constantly nagging the other actors about everything from technique to missed lines, which occur quite frequently, while she plays Scrooge as if he has been taking hallucinogenic drugs. The Abbott and Costello bit between her as Scrooge and Roger Strouse as Marley, trying to remember his lines, is absolutely hysterical. Of course, one can't blame Strouse's character, Gordon the stage manager, for not knowing Marley's lines, because he himself is a last minute replacement.

All the way through, the ladies' production is beset by constant troubles, such as lighting and sound cues being missed, actors walking on with the wrong props, and the continual struggle by Maynard (Derek Spirk), the young man trying his damndest to portray Bob Cratchit while in a neck brace and crutches. We learn upon Maynard's arrival at the beginning that he has been in some sort of horrible accident, but he bravely plays his part, crying out pitifully every time another actor pulls his arm the wrong way or steps on him (which happens more than one might expect).

All this action is overseen by the "director," Mrs. Phoebe Reece, who is played by Suzanne Mitchell. Mrs. Reece also takes part in performing several roles in the play, but does not hesitate to stop the action to tell the audience about the designer clothes she's wearing. In fact, she seems quite comfortable talking to the audience at any time during the show, occasionally asking for minimal audience participation.

Also present as an excellent straight man is Jenny Finkel, playing the role of Felicity. Felicity keeps her cool as everything crumbles around her, whether she is playing a topheavy snowman or coughing up her lungs as Scrooge's ailing sister, Fan.

The scene changes are accompanied by a chorus singing gut-wrenchingly off-key Christmas carols while actors and stagehands stumble around trying to change sets. Ben Sincell's sets are simple and effective, allowing for quick changes to bring the carols to a mercifully fast conclusion. Some are not as quick as they could be, but in a production like this, a few rough edges don't really matter. Who's to say they're not part of the act?

If you love Dickens's A Christmas Carol as I do, or if you hate it, this show is not to be missed. It is a 1½-hour yuk fest that will have you laughing all the way home.

Kal Kan for their wonderful donation to our humane society, but spending time with our National Guardsmen was an honor and a privilege we shall always remember.

P.S. We also are very grateful to the Drs. Alvarez for their offer of financial help if we needed it. Of course, there was no expense to the Humane Society. Everything was donated. The Drs. Alvarez, their family, staff and friends are always there for us.

To the Editor:

Two articles in the Nov. 25 Republican brought to mind a paraphrase of Robert Service's opening lines in his poem, "The Cremation of Sam McGee" -- "There are strange things done 'neath the midnight sun," now "There are strange things done 'neath the Garrett sun," to wit:

1. Your editorial, "Come Back Jack," I agree with 100 percent. Here we have hard working state troopers, county deputies, and municipal police doing their duty to keep drunks off the road, while judges administer "slaps on the wrist." On the same page is pictured a victim of drunk driving, Nicolas Esposito, killed Oct. 13, 1989 at 8:25 p.m., with the caption, "Drunk driving doesn't just kill drunk drivers." Our children are at risk at the hands of drunk drivers. Can someone within the judicial system explain why DWI offenders do not have their driver's licenses lifted, and why there is not better coordination between the judges and police officers to keep drunks off our roads?

2. Directly under your editorial is a letter from John Hinebaugh concerning the strange actions of the County Clerk and Roads Administrator who invited only two John Deere dealers to bid on a $1.3 million contract for road graders and loaders. Methinks, as does Mr. Hinebaugh, that the county commissioners and taxpayers have been hoodwinked by the clerk, whose explanation of his action does not jibe with the quote from the appropriate state law at the end of his article. I do not believe that "all due and reasonable effort to purchase the same at the lowest price possible" was followed. Nor was "circularizing" two John Deere dealers adequate in light of all the other equipment dealers available. If special conditions for parts, warranties, etc., were deemed necessary, such could have been made part of the bid package. I suggest the state's attorney general investigate this matter. Since the clerk is confident he "did right," there should be no problem obtaining his cooperation. Furthermore, does not being county clerk and roads administrator seem like an odd combination, leading to the appearance of collusion?

On a more positive note, it is commendable that the county has made a contract with Terry Hauser of "News for Moos" to recycle paper. If I recall correctly, Mr. Hauser began newspaper recycling while serving as vo-ag instructor at East Preston High School. I substituted for Mr. Hauser's classes and was impressed with his creative teaching. He might recall, with humor, what happened when he and his class attempted to bale paper during a high wind. News for Moos was scattered around the Terra Alta Post Office as if it had snowed! I hope Terry does well in this recycling effort and county residents follow instructions so that the effort is successful.

WHY DO GCC'S STUDENTS EXCEL? By Dr. Steve Herman PART I

Quietly but consistently over a five-year period, Garrett Community College, led by its faculty, has been moving against the grain in higher education. What's happened in higher education is no secret. Writing for the October 18 edition of U.S. News & World Report, John Leo in an article entitled "A for effort. Or for showing up," decries the spread of grade inflation. He reports that in 1992 at Harvard University, 91% of the undergraduate grades were "B-" or higher. At Stanford University only 6% of the grades were "C's." At Princeton 40% of the grades were "A's." If the most prestigious universities inflate grades, one should not be surprised if the rest of higher education emulates them. Leo quips: "It seems average students are disappearing from the campus, all replaced by outstanding achievers." Yet everyone knows that students have steadily declined until just recently. At the same time students' high school grades have improved dramatically. In 1972, 28.4% of those taking the SAT reported having an "A" or "B" average in high school. By 1993 the figure had risen to 83%.

A number of factors have combined to compromise the integrity of the grading system. One factor concerns a change in the role of education. In generations past educators functioned as forthright evaluators. Two purposes were served. Students were given an external assessment of their abilities and performance, so they could frame reasonable judgments about their personal strengths and weaknesses and plan their careers accordingly. Society, including prospective employers and institutions of higher education, could rely on grades as a fair basis on which to make hiring and admissions decisions. Today neither students nor colleges nor employers can rely on grades as an honest indicator of what students know or can do.

A second factor concerns the general decline in national morality. I regret to report that many colleges have put survival and funding above their ethical responsibility to tell the truth about student performance. Higher education has become a competitive business to the point that educational leaders have forgotten that it is first and foremost a public service. Fearing that high standards will result in students forsaking their institutions for an easy degree elsewhere, some educational leaders sacrifice standards to retain students.

Finally, education has fallen victim to the national permissiveness. Many faculty no longer have the stomach to give a low grade even if deserved. Many want to be their students' friend without realizing that friendship is incompatible with their evaluative role since it undermines the perception of objectivity. The obligation to evaluate students directly and forthrightly takes courage. Sometimes honest, demanding instructors have to face angry students or parents or endure poor student evaluations with consequences for their future employment and standing. Although all these considerations are understandable, they do not exonerate teachers of their fundamental responsibilities. If faculty do not function as honest evaluators, the evaluative purpose of education is destroyed, and that is precisely what has happened to the detriment of all concerned. Students are not learning what they should; they are being given false sense of their own abilities, a hoax that will prove very cruel as their lives unfold, and society is deprived of a fair and forthright evaluator of performance.

I am very proud to tell you that GCC's faculty has taken a strong stance against these trends, and I believe that is why GCC's students who transfer to other Maryland community colleges outperform students transferring from all the other seventeen Maryland community colleges.

Next week, if you'll bear with me until then, I'll tell you in a second installment what measures GCC has taken and is taking to give our students the full value of their educational dollar.

December Declared Drunk Driving Prevention Month

"Let's Take a Stand! Friends Don't Let Friends Drive Drunk" is the theme for this December's National Drunk and Drugged Driving (3-D) Prevention Month. The Garrett County Health Department has joined a coalition of national organizations, including the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration (NHTSA) and the Center for Substance Abuse Prevention (CSAP), as a sponsor of the campaign.

A decade of combined efforts by NHTSA, the media, and many public and private organizations and volunteers has demonstrated that prevention works to reduce impaired driving, a spokesperson said. 3-D Prevention Month and other strategies are credited with saving lives and reducing both injury and property damage. About 17,700 Americans died in crashes involving drivers and pedestrians impaired by alcohol and other drugs in 1992. This is the lowest figure in 30 years, according to the spokesperson.

The Garrett County Health Department is taking part in this nationwide effort to emphasize the consequences of impaired driving and call to action ways to significantly reduce the number of alcohol-related crashes that claim thousands of innocent lives each year.

The local 3-D Prevention Month public awareness

DRUNK AND DRUGGED DRIVING PREVENTION MONTH PROCLAIMED - The month of December has been proclaimed by the Garrett County Commissioners as National Drunk and Drugged Driving (3-D) Prevention Month. A proclamation declaring the observance was signed by the commissioners Tuesday, stating that as drivers and pedestrians impaired by alcohol and other drugs account for nearly 17,700 highway deaths annually, and that alcohol is involved in nearly half of all fatal motor vehicle crashes (the number one cause of death for children, adolescents, and young adults in the U.S.), and whereas a decade of intense public education efforts have proved these crashes are not accidents and are preventable, therefore be it resolved that December 1993 is proclaimed as National Drunk and Drugged Driving Prevention Month. Seated left to right are Commissioners Brenda Butcher, Elwood Groves, and John Braskey. Standing in the same order are Phil Fisher, Addictions Program director; Diane Lee, Director of Highway Safety of the Garrett County Health Department; Sally Boone, health department prevention coordinator; Luther Parrack, director of secondary education of Garrett County schools; and Joelle Plauger, assistant prevention coordinator, health dept.

campaign, which includes educational and promotional events, was kicked off by an official proclamation by the Garrett County Commissioners on Tuesday, Nov. 30. The Garrett County Health Department's Community Outreach Team will be working throughout the month with local businesses, churches, and schools to promote both the non-alcoholic entertaining and drunk and drug-free driving messages.

The "Let's Take a Stand" campaign promotes recognition of alcohol impairment at any level of blood alcohol concentration (BAC) and urges communities to support reduced legal BAC limits to .08 for drivers 21 and over, as well as zero tolerance and use-lose laws for younger drivers. It seeks administrative license revocation (ALK) laws, enabling police to immediately confiscate the driving license of a driver who is found with a blood alcohol level over the legal limit or who refuses to take a blood alcohol level test. The campaign also asks community leaders to create safer and healthier norms regarding drinking and to provide balanced information about the health and safety consequences of alcohol use for youth.

For more information on how to support national 3-D Prevention Month, and for assistance in planning activities to promote "Let's Take a Stand! Friends Don't Let Friends Drive Drunk," persons may contact the Health Department at 334-8111.

Lonaconing Men Arrested In Theft, Assault Complaint

Two Lonaconing men were arrested on Thanksgiving Day in connection with a robbery and assault that had occurred on November 9 on the Savage River Road in Garrett County.

Charged with assault with intent to rob, robbery, assault with intent to maim, battery, and felony theft were David G. Duckworth, 20, and Richard Shockey, 19. The two allegedly assaulted Michael L. Staup, Nikep, and stole numerous personal items from his trailer, including a pair of $5,000 earrings. None of the stolen property was recovered.

Staup had been hospitalized at Sacred Heart for a broken hand and a collapsed lung following the alleged attack.

Tfc. J.R. Tindal was the arresting officer and is continuing his investigation. Duckworth was jailed on

WOMAN ARRESTED

State police also noted the arrest of a Grantsville woman charged with assault with intent to maim and with battery.

Catherine M. McKenzie was arrested after she allegedly cut her husband's (Harold J. McKenzie) arm with a knife during a domestic dispute.

Reports indicate that Mr. McKenzie allegedly assaulted his wife with his hands and that she then reportedly went to the kitchen and allegedly cut him in the biceps area of his arm, leaving a deep three-inch laceration.

B&E's, THEFTS

Several cases of breaking and entering and theft are being investigated by state police.

Tfc. Randy Tarburton is investigating the report of a breaking and entering and theft of the residence of Keith E. Grove near Friendsville.

Grove told police that someone entered his residence by unknown means and removed a four-wheel all-terrain vehicle, a video cassette recorder, and a chain saw.

Tarburton is also probing the breaking and entering and theft reported by Richard T. Fornear who stated that someone gained entry through a rear window of his residence and removed two 22 caliber rifles, a video cassette recorder, a chain saw, and $150 in coins.

Tfc. A.S. MacLane is looking into the report of a breaking and entering of a vacation home on the Stockslager Road belonging to John M. Karras, Wheeling, W.Va. The door of his home was reportedly forced open.

Thefts, Breaking And Enterings Probed By GCSO

Incidents of theft and breaking and entering have been reported to the Garrett County Sheriff's Office this week. Investigations into the incidents are underway by office detectives.

A Craftsman mechanic tool set worth $850 was apparently stolen from Judy L. Hebb, Lonaconing. The set was in a barn located on her property, and the door was unlocked. She had last had seen the tools on Oct. 31. Other tools near the stolen set were not disturbed. There is a possible suspect in the case, according to the report.

Approximately $200 worth of damage was done to a door at Southern High School sometime between Nov. 24-29. Georgie L. Durst contacted officers when she noticed that the rear door at the school cafeteria had been vandalized. Apparently an unknown person had attempted to break it open, but were unsuccessful. The door had not been used during the days noted, and the exact time of damage is unknown.

Pam and Frederick Peddicord reported a breaking and entering at their summer cottage, located on Pritts Road. An aluminum ladder was found against the house, leading up to a window that had been broken out. The cottage was then ransacked, drawers opened and rummaged through. Nothing of value had been stolen, but the damage to the window was estimated to be $200.

The theft of a black leather jacket was reported to the sheriff's office last week. Michael Liller, Mtn. Lake Park, was the victim in the case. He had apparently left his jacket in an unlocked car, parked at Par-Matt Lanes. Sometime between 4 and 5:30 p.m. on Nov. 17, the item was stolen. The jacket's value is estimated at $437, according to the report.

Margaret Coddington, Mtn. Lake Park, contacted police on Nov. 21 when she found that the front tires of her automobile had been slashed. The vehicle, a 1990 Plymouth van, was parked at the victim's home on N Street on the night of Nov. 20. She discovered the following morning that the tires had been slashed. There are no suspects in this case.

DECEMBER 1 PROCLAIMED AS WORLD AIDS DAY - The Garrett County Commissioners proclaimed December 1 as "World AIDS Day" in Garrett County. World AIDS Day was sponsored by the World Health Organization and the Garrett County Interagency Council on AIDS. AIDS (Acquired Immune Deficiency Syndrome) is a fatal, world-wide pandemic disease infecting people of all ages and regions. In the United States, an estimated 1.3 million people are currently infected with HIV. The proclamation called for the encouragement of behavioral change as the most effective way to gain control over the disease. Pictured above, seated left to right, are Commissioners Brenda Butcher, Elwood Groves, and John Braskey. Standing in the same order are Paul Stauffer, Mt. Top Ministerial Association; Chris Shaffer and Dr. Rex Archer of the Garrett County Health Department; Mary VanSickle, Garrett County Memorial Hospital; Kay Trantham, Cuppet Management Co., Inc.; and Beverly Murphy, president of the Garrett County Board of Education.

"That $7,000-$8,000 could bring in as much as $2 million to $3 million in revenue," said Archer, adding that the county's contribution to the health department's budget has been reduced from approximately 10 percent in 1989 to five percent currently.

Archer also noted that the health department has been successful in recent years in expanding its prevention programs to ultimately reduce health care costs, and that the home health care program, in particular, has largely been self-supporting.

DENTAL HEALTH GROUP HELPS HEAD START - The Dental Health Group staff of Oakland recently volunteered two days out of their busy schedules to screen and treat 35 Head Start children. Dr. Bill Yant and Brenda Crabtree, office manager, visited three classrooms prior to the appointments to get acquainted with the children and to explain procedures and show the children the instruments they use. "The Dental Health group is very concerned about the dental care of our county residents, especially our young citizens. They are doing everything possible to erase the tears and to make the first dental visit a good experience," said a Head Start spokesperson. Each child also received a goodie bag after their visit, compliments of the Dental Group. The Group will again be volunteering its time in January to serve the new Head Start program just beginning. Above, registered dental hygienist Vicki Evans checks Mitchell Tasker's teeth while mother Becky Tasker looks on. Below, Dr. Daniel Koch explains the importance of removing plaque from the teeth for good dental hygiene. Above, far right, Dr. Yant and dental assistant Tammy Crosby reassure a youngster as they clean his teeth. Jean Tressler, director, Deborah Brown, health coordinator, and the entire Head Start staff expressed appreciation to the Dental Health Group. "This is great encouragement for preventive dental practices," said Brown.

drawing of new names for 1994 will take place.

Southern Mat Club Registration Set For Tuesday

The Southern Mat Club will hold its annual registration on Tuesday, December 7, in the Southern Middle School cafeteria from 7 to 8 p.m. Registration is open to all youngsters from kindergarten through eighth grade. The Southern Mat Club has provided area youth with the opportunity of competitive wrestling for the past several years.

The club conducts practices through the week under head coach Dave Sines, and attends tournaments throughout the tri-state area. In order to defray costs, each Mat Club family is asked to pay a $10 per family registration fee. Financial assistance is available in hardship cases. If interested youth are not able to attend the registration session, or have further questions, they should contact either Rex Archer at 334-1503 or Bill Grant at 334-8370.

An after-school program for sixth through eighth grade students will begin December 13, 3:30 to 5:15 p.m., conducted by coach Kurt Lear. Persons should contact Jack Rickman at Southern Middle School at 334-8881 if interested.

Track And Field, Cross Country Officials Named

The Maryland Public Secondary Schools Athletic Association recently announced that 14 local residents have been certified and registered as track and field and cross country officials. Those receiving certification were: Southern High School coach Carl Booth and Steve Cosner, Assistant Coach Bill Freyman, and Vice-Principal Bob Quick. Receiving certification for the first time were: Linda Alkire, Linda Booth, Joan Clickener, John Clickener, Linda Freyman, Coach Katie Kane, Christa McBee, Robert McBee, Coach Louis Newcomb, and Lyn Quick. These officials are available for local meets and can be asked to assist at the regional and state championships.

Prior to being certified, the 14 officials participated in a clinic conducted by John Grimm, the track and field rules interpreter for the MPSSAA. Their training included a lecture, a video which demonstrated application of the rules, a seminar, studying the Track and Field Handbook, and passing a comprehensive rules examination. Another officials clinic is being planned for March of 1994. Anyone interested in attending the next clinic and becoming certified as an official may contact John Clickener at 334-8990.

Sportsmen Donate Drawing Proceeds To Area Programs

The Maryland Federation of Sportsmen recently sponsored a drawing on a Remington Model 700 rifle, donated by Wal-Mart in LaVale. W.R. McCoy, Cumberland, won the rifle at the drawing held on Saturday, November 20.

Proceeds from the drawing went to various benefits. Four hundred dollars was donated to NRP Officer John Milbourne to assist with expenses that will be incurred while training a wild-life detection canine. The money will be used early next year for lodging, meals, and canine equipment while Milbourne is training.

The remaining proceeds went to Western Maryland Food Bank and Garrett County Community Action Food Bank, with both receiving over $570 including matching funds from Wal-Mart.

include an early season trip to the Baltimore area as well as a Christmas tournament in Hagerstown on December 29 and 30.

Last season's Area Player of the Year, Carrie Newcomb, returns to the squad this year. Newcomb led the area in scoring and was the team's leading scorer and rebounder.

The team expects strong performances from Aaron Buser, Josey Covello, and Staci Kianer, as all three of the players are returning starters and turned in good season as juniors last year. Emily Friend and Angie Shaffer will add support to the line up. Both are sophomores and played on last year's undefeated junior varsity team. Also expected to help the team this year is sophomore Alisa Rugg, a transfer student from Pennsylvania.

"All games should be exciting this year because every team in the area returns veteran line-ups," said Coach Don Stemple. "We are hoping to improve on last year's record and be known as the area's best defensive team. We want to avenge last season's losses to Seaton Keogh, North Hagerstown, Wilde Lake, and Westmar and do well in Region 1-A and advance to Catonsville for the State Championship."

Ram Coach Booth Is Selected PVC Coach Of Year

The Potomac Valley Conference named Southern High School's Carl L. Booth as the boys cross country Coach of the Year at the PVC Banquet, held Monday.

Booth is an English teacher at Southern and has been the coach of the boys team for four years. He previously coached at Union High in West Virginia.

During the 1993 season his team was undefeated in regular season competition. The Rams were second in the Area and Bi-County meets and won the Garrett County Meet for the second consecutive year. In state level competition they easily captured the 1A Western Regional and dominated the 1A State Meet. The team placed six runners in the top 20 and won by the widest margin in 1A records.

Coach Booth credits the team's success to the "dedication and cooperation" of his runners. "They endured a number of injuries and illnesses during the season, but always found the extra effort needed to excel," he said. According to a spokesman for the team, this ability to make an extra effort came from Booth's emphasis on teamwork and mutual respect combined with a progressive training program. "He has earned the respect of his team and the team parents for his fairness, enthusiasm, dedication to his athletes, and leadership, the spokesman said.

Although five seniors will be lost at graduation, Booth says he looks forward to the 1994 season. He has three sophomore All-Staterunners, a strong JV team, and several talented freshmen returning to mold into a new varsity team.

DIEHARDS PERFORM AT PRO GAMES - The Aerobic Diehards of Brenda's Body Shop, Oakland, have recently provided half-time entertainment at two professional sports games. The group performed at the Pittsburgh Steelers/Buffalo Bills contest on Nov. 15 and at the Washington Bullets/Miami Heat game on Nov. 20. See story. The aerobic group is pictured above with the Bullets mascot. In the front row, kneeling left to right, are Coach Brenda Brosnihan with two of her children, Morgan and Zak, Michelle Goralski, Brianne Meyers, and Stephanie Ballard. In the second row, same order, are Bethany Savage, the Bullets' mascot, Leigh Anne Scheff, Amy Evans, and Ann Sebold. In the third row, same order are Amanda Mountain, Melanie Cook, Carrie Carpenter, Shannon Spurrier, Janet Cook, and Kristen Spurrier. At the Steelers event, several adult members of Brenda's Body Shop also took part in the show. They were Carol Savage, Sue Snyder, Pam Spurrier, Karen Carpenter, Mary Lynn Evans, Karen Scheff, Debbie Goralski, Dawn Panther, Lexi Frey, and Mrs. Brosnihan.

Aerobic Diehards Perform At Bullets, Steelers Games

The Aerobic Diehards from Brenda's Body Shop, Oakland, recently provided half-time entertainment at both a Pittsburgh Steelers football game and a Washington Bullets basketball game. The group performed for capacity crowds at both events, according to Brenda Brosnihan, coach.

The Steelers versus Buffalo Bills game was on Nov. 15, and several adult aerobic members of Brenda's Body Shop performed with the Diehards in the half-time show. The Oakland group was one of 250 other performers/volunteers who raised money for the American Lung Association. Over $40,000 was raised for the Association in the event. The funds will be used for special programs, including Camp Huff 'n Puff and Camp Breathe-E-Z for children with asthma.

"This was a unique opportunity for all of us," Brosnihan said. "For most of us, it was our first visit to a professional football game. Sitting in the end zone certainly gave us an up-close and personal look at things." The local group was also present for Pittsburgh's

"light-up night," the official opening of the Christmas season in the city.

The Diehards then traveled to Baltimore on Nov. 20 to the Washington Bullets versus Miami Heat basketball game.

"This was the largest crowd for which the Diehards have performed," the coach said. "They were nervous and excited."

The opportunity to perform at a professional game came about by the group's audition at the U.S. Air Arena (Capitol Center) in Landover. Nearly 100 acts auditioned, and the Diehards made it through the preliminary round and competed against the top 20 acts. Finally, the local team finished in the top 12, which awarded them the opportunity to perform. Brosnihan said she and the group are hopeful that they will be invited to another game this winter.

Nesselrodt Reflects On Career At Garrett; Accomplishments Noted

Garrett Community College baseball coach Lawrence Nesselrodt, who has guided the Lakers to success for the past nine seasons, but announced his resignation last week to accept the head coaching post at Davis and Elkins College, reflected this week on his tenure at the McHenry Campus.

"While I'm really excited about my job at D&E, it's really difficult to leave Garrett County," he said this week. "I'm very fond of the community and the people whom I've been associated with, especially the network of friends who have had such a positive influence on baseball at all levels in the county."

Nesselrodt will also have a rather unique opportunity to serve as head coach at both of his collegiate alma maters, as he played for two years at GCC and then transferred to D&E where he was a standout player in the 1982 and '83 seasons.

A graduate of Petersburg High School, Nesselrodt also played American Legion and Pen-Mar League ball. He served as an assistant coach at Garrett in 1984 under Phil Caruso, whom he succeeded the following year.

Nesselrodt amassed a record of 201-179-3 while at Garrett and coached two All-Americans, eight players who were drafted or signed by professional teams, and over 60 players who continued their careers at four-year schools.

Laker Mick Bayle was named a first-team NJCAA All-American first baseman in 1990 and '91, while second baseman Bo Bishop was an honorable mention All-American last season. Bayle, Bishop, and shortstop Mike Leshok (1992) were all selected as pre-season All-Americans during their years at the McHenry Campus.

Nesselrodt's Laker teams averaged over 22 wins per season, with a season-high of 31 in 1988. His first team finished 24-18, marking the first time the Lakers had won 20 games or more in nearly a decade. Five of his nine teams qualified for post-season play.

Fifteen players set school records during Nesselrodt's years at Garrett and eight team records were broken.

Nesselrodt gives much credit for his success to his successor at Garrett, Phil Caruso, who was recently named head coach at Frederick Community College.

"Phil was, without a doubt, the most influential person on me," he said. "I have always tried to follow his philosophies that I learned when I was a member of his Legion and GCC teams. I owe an awful lot to him.

There are a whole lot of people that I wish I could mention, but I'm sure I would miss someone. I do want to note my appreciation to Cliff Everett (coaching assistant manager), who has really put in long hours and a lot of work for our program.

"It has also been a pleasure working with Phil Carr, first coaching him as a player, then seeing him succeed at Frostburg and now as coach of the Northern Huskies. He has always been right there all the way," he said.

Another memorable event

Lakers Crush Bobcats, Flatten Pioneers To Up Record To 6-1

The Garrett Community College Lakers upped their record to 6-1 this week by crushing the Frostburg State University junior varsity on Tuesday, 118-64, in McHenry and then flattening for Nesselrodt that occurred just last year was when Coach Carr's Huskies played the Westmar Wildcats on the GCC field. The Wildcats are coached by another former Garrett standout, John Smith. "It was really fun to sit in the stands and watch two of my former players coaching against each other on GCC's diamond," he said.

Nesselrodt says the most rewarding part of coaching is seeing his players successfully complete their classroom work, earn their degrees, and achieve success, "not only in college and on the field, but more importantly, in life after college."

Nesselrodt lost only one player to academics since 1987.

Davis & Elkins, which is an NAIA Division II four-year school, competes in the West Virginia Intercollegiate Athletic Conference. Nesselrodt will have some rebuilding to do, as only 14 players are back from a 17-17 season last year.

Nesselrodt will begin his new job the first of the year and announced that his successor at Garrett would probably be named sometime this month. "We've received a number of calls and applications," he said, noting that the deadline for applications is December 19.

Smith contributed 10. Tubbs and Troy Sexton each recorded 23 points in last night's victory over the Pioneers of Anne Arundel CC. Tubbs also grabbed 17 rebounds during just 27 minutes of playing time.

The contest remained close throughout the first half, as the visitors were down by just four, 42-38, at halftime. But the Lakers poured it on in the second half by adding 61 points.

Also reaching double figures for Garrett were Jermaine Jones with 17 points and Hilton with 14, plus three blocked shots. Eugene Pleyo led the Pioneers with 24 points, with 15 of those scored on three-point shots. Wendell Williams and Vernon Osborne recorded 18 and 13 points, respectively.

Gibson commented on the performance of Jones, calling it "his best game to date." He added, "Jermaine played very good defense and penetrated well on offense."

Overall, Gibson was not particularly pleased with his team's effort, but was pleased with the win. "We didn't do a very good job of stopping them," he said.

The contest at ACC (6-2) on Saturday will get underway at 8 p.m. The Lakers will play next Wednesday at Harford CC.

OBITUARIES

WILLIAM F. DEWITT
William F. DeWitt Sr., 68, Oakland, died Wednesday, November 24, 1993, at Garrett County Memorial Hospital, Oakland.

Born November 14, 1925, in Deer Park, he was the son of the late Gilmore and Lina (Waters) DeWitt.

Mr. DeWitt was a retired farmer and for over 40 years was a school bus contractor in Garrett County. He attended Lakeside Assembly of God Church, was a past president of the Garrett County Farm Bureau, and a 10-year member of the Agriculture Stabilization and Conservation Service. He was a U.S. Navy veteran of World War II and was a member of Proctor Kildow Post #71, American Legion, Oakland.

Survivors include his wife, Leona H. (Flick) DeWitt; two daughters, Debra Barnard, Swanton; and Lana Tuck, Oakland; four sons, Donald W. DeWitt, Richard G. DeWitt, and Kenneth DeWitt, all of Oakland; and William F. DeWitt Jr., Frederick; seven sisters, Martha Peabody, Princeton, N.J.; Anna Mae Cannon, Deer Park; Joan Cupp, Martinsburg, W.Va.; Irene Gibson, Silver Spring; Linnie Lou Krisman and Dixie Wardrop, both of Frederick; and Virginia Neach, Chicago, Ill.; two brothers, James DeWitt, Oakland; and Elwood DeWitt, Lakeland, Fla.; and 12 grandchildren.

Friends were received in the Stewart Funeral Home, Oakland, where a service was held Saturday at 11 a.m. with the Rev. Gail Hixon officiating.

Trina Green Becomes Bride Of Rodney Rounds In October Event

Trina Green and Rodney Rounds were united in marriage October 2, 1993. The wedding took place at Frostburg United Methodist Church, with Rev. Warren Friend officiating.

Vanessa Hordubay was the vocalist.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Green, Avilton. The groom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Rounds, Swanton.

Escorted to the altar by her father, the bride was wearing a white semi-long gown, trimmed with beads and lace and had a V-neck line and an open back with a bow at the top and beads hanging down and a bow at the bottom of the beads. The bride carried a bouquet made of white and wine flowers. The flowers were made by the bride's and groom's mothers.

Serving as the matron of honor was the bride's cousin, Tina Arnold, Frostburg. She wore a tea-length, wine colored dress with beads draped across the back, and carried a bouquet made of wine, pink, and white flowers with baby's breath mixed in.

Bridesmaids were Shelly Oester, friend of the bride, Accident, Karen Wilhelm, cousin of the bride, Avilton; Vanessa Hordubay, cousin of the bride, Frostburg; and Misty Baker, cousin of the bride, Finzel. They wore matching dresses and carried the same bouquets as that of the matron of honor.

The flower girl was Shenna Drees, cousin of the bride, Hagerstown. She wore a long satin pink dress and carried a smaller bouquet made like those of the bridesmaids.

The groom wore a white tuxedo with a white bow tie and cummerbund, and also wore a wine colored flower.

Best man was Matthew Warnick, Bittinger, a cousin of the groom.

Groomsmen were Chris Rowe, cousin of the bride, Old Frostburg Rd.; David Rounds, brother of the groom, Bittinger; and Dean and Jimmy Green, brothers of the bride, Avilton.

The ring bear was Ronald Wilhelm, cousin of the groom. He carried a square-shaped satin pillow and wore a tuxedo that matched those of the groomsmen.

The father of the bride wore the same thing as the groomsmen. The mother of the bride wore a wine made dress with beads and lace around the waist. The mother of the groom wore a wine made two-piece skirt outfit with bead buttons.

A reception followed the wedding at the Wilhelm Recreation Area. The cake was made and served by groom's aunt, Shelly Broadwater, and the band was Mid-Night Magic. The dinner was made and served by the bride's aunts. Desserts were made and served by the groom's aunts. Pictures were taken by Amy Durr.

Allen Frederick Bittinger, 18, and Cora Jean Thomas, 18, both of Grantsville.

Teresa Kitzmiller Weds Brian Glass In August Double-Ring Ceremony

Teresa Lynn Kitzmiller and Brian Eugene Glass were united in marriage on August 21, 1993. The double-ring ceremony took place at Faith Evangelical Free Church with the Rev. Robert Bonser officiating.

The bride is the daughter of Charles and Peggy Kitzmiller, Deer Park. The groom is the son of Randall and Marlene Glass, Swanton.

Given in marriage by her parents and escorted to the altar by her father, the bride was attired in a French satin gown with Schiffl lace centered on the Victorian bodice which was adorned with sequins and pearls. The traditional high neckline with a sheer yoke featured cascading pearls. Lace extended swan-like to the jeweled encrusted Victorian sleeves. The sheer V-back dipped into a Basque waist and the fully gathered skirt with appliques graced the front and back of the skirt. A garland of organza ruffles accented the back skirt and semi-cathedral train with a lace-traced hemline.

Her barrette headpiece featured hand-rolled satin roses and leaves with pearl filament. Trailing lilies surrounded a pouf enhanced with short, corded bridal illusion. She carried a cascade bouquet of white roses, lilies, baby's breath and English ivy.

Stefanie Pritt, Oakland, friend of the bride, served as matron of honor. Bridesmaids were Becky Kope, Oakland, sister of the bride, Becky Rounds-Blackman, Finzel, Brenda Rafferty, Swanton, sister of the groom, Runetta Field, Oakland, and Norma Schrock, Georgetown.

The attendants wore magenta, tea-length gowns and carried sprays of lilies, a variety of wild flowers, and magenta streamers.

Sarah Shaffer, Oakland, cousin of the bride, and Jill Dombroskie, Baltimore, cousin of the groom, were flower girls. They wore white Jessica McClintock lace dresses. Each girl's hair was French braided with baby's breath and white bows as accents. They carried baskets filled with rose petals.

The groom was attired in a black Pierre Cardin, pin-striped tuxedo with tails and black vest and tie. Serving as best man was Blair Glass, Oakland, brother of the groom. The groomsmen were Jeff Peck, Oakland; Craig Fowler, Swanton; Mike Rafferty, Swanton, brother-in-law of groom; Randy Bernard, Oakland, and Ron Edwards, Swanton. Colin Miller and Brad King, both of Oakland, served as ushers. Matthew Shaffer, Oakland, cousin of the bride, served as junior usher. Joshua Dombroskie, Baltimore, cousin of the groom, served as ring bearer.

The groom's attendants were attired in black tuxedos with magenta and black stained-glass vests and ties.

Before the ceremony, mothers of the bride and groom lighted candles and during the ceremony, the couple lighted the unity candle.

Pianist was Holly Bender, and Wayne and Cindy Tiersma were the vocalists. Shannon Riley, Gaithersburg, friend of the bride, registered guests, and distributed the programs and the bird seed-filled roses.

A reception was held following the ceremony at the McHenry House Wisp Resort. The multi-tier cake featured a lighted fountain and staircases and was decorated with cupid and roses in shades of magenta. The cake was baked by Kristi Thomas, Friendsville. The decorations were provided by the Party House. Music was provided by Tim Martin of GO-106. The photographer was Jeannine St. Marie, Frostburg. The wedding and reception were videotaped by Doug Heitzel, Salisbury, Pa.

A rehearsal dinner was hosted by the groom's parents at the Silver Tree Inn. The bride was the guest of honor at a shower hosted by Stefanie Pritt.

Following a honeymoon trip to Ocean City, the couple set up residence in Deer Park.

The bride is a graduate of Southern High School and is currently employed as a bookkeeper at Casselman Lumber Company, Grantsville.

The groom is a graduate of Southern High School and is currently employed by Westvaco Corp., Luke.

Carol Hensley Becomes Bride Of Leavitt Horst In Sept. Ceremony

Carol Ann Hensley and Leavitt Ray Horst were united in marriage on Friday, Sept. 24, 1993. The double-ring, candlelight ceremony took place at the Mt. Zion Mennonite Church, Boonsboro, with Pastor Richard R. Buchert officiating. Vocalist was Lavinia C.M. Buchert, cousin of the bride. Acolytes were DeWayne Horst and David Posinger.

The altar was decorated with fresh flower arrangements and a heart-shaped double candelabra. The flowers were presented to the mothers following the lighting of the unity candle.

The bride is the daughter of Ray and Beverly Hensley, Clear Spring, and former residents of Oakland. She is the granddaughter of Mary Virginia Mayle, Hagerstown, and the late Clarence W. Mayle. Mr. Horst is the son of Leonard and Elsie Horst, Maugansville.

Escorted to the altar by white streamers and greenery. The flower girl was Kayla Hensley, who wore a floor-length white gown trimmed with red and black satin bows. She carried a basket of red and white silk miniature roses.

Serving as best man was Arlin Horst, brother of the groom. Groomsmen were Randy Martin and Alex Mellott, cousin of the bride, Oakland. Ring bearer was Keith Horst, nephew of the groom, Hagerstown.

A reception was held in the church social hall immediately after the ceremony. Owanda Hensley, sister of the bride, greeted and registered the guests. Kelly Swope, cousin of the bride, handed out programs and distributed the rice packets.

The three-tiered wedding cake with fountain was surrounded by four side cakes connected by bridges, holding figurines representing each person in the wedding party. It was decorated with red silk flowers and black satin bows. It was surrounded by fresh red carnations, baby's breath, and ferns. The punch was served from a flowing, silver fountain, surrounded by golden cherubs.

The couple honeymooned in western Maryland and will reside in Hagerstown.

Cupp is a grandson of Mr. and Mrs. George Vitez, Friendsville.

A fall 1994 wedding is being planned.

Stacey Rodeheaver, Andrew Upton Married In Private July Service

Stacey Ann Rodeheaver and Andrew Eugene Upton were united in marriage on July 31, 1993. The private, double-ring Christian service took place at Calvary Chapel Christian Center, Severn.

with Anthony Spero officiating.

The bride is the daughter of Dwain and Judy Rodeheaver, Melleny. The groom is the son of Jerry and Scarlet Upton, Quapaw, Okla.

Escorted to the altar by her father, the bride was attired in a street-length, ivory ensemble with sequins and pearls on the inset bodice. She wore a picture hat of ivory satin and lace with pearls and sequins and silk flowers with a cascading veil. Her bouquet consisted of a dozen pink and ivory fresh, long-stemmed roses, accented with baby's breath and encircled by an ivory bow.

Serving as matron of honor and best man were Cindy and Milton Hunt, Baltimore, friends of the couple. Jacquelyn Kay Rodeheaver, niece of the bride, was flower girl, and Jared Jamie Rodeheaver, nephew of the bride, served as ring bearer.

Nicole Frost, cousin of the bride, Frostburg, attended the guest book and videotaped the ceremony. Ronald Frost, uncle of the bride, Frostburg, was the photographer.

All bouquets, corsages, boutonnières, and flower arrangements were designed and handmade by Juvonia Kelsay, aunt of the bride, Frostburg. She also designed a special centerpiece for the couple's three-tier wedding cake.

A private reception was held immediately after the ceremony at the home of the couple.

The bride is the granddaughter of Vergie McKenzie, Frostburg, and the late Hubert N. McKenzie, and Mason and Geraldine Rodeheaver, near Melleny.

The Hinkle Funeral Chapel on Friday from 2-4 and 7-9 p.m. A service will be held in the Hinkle Funeral Chapel on Saturday at 11 a.m. with the Rev. Elroy Keller and the Rev. Dan Hammel officiating.

Interment will be in the Kight Cemetery.

ANOTHER HEAD-ON

Icy roads were a factor in another head-on collision that occurred Sunday evening on U.S. Rt. 219 near Grantsville.

Tfc. W.L. Mowbray reported that Brian D. Jones, 18, Mt. Airy, was operating a 1984 Toyota south on Rt.

219 when the rear of his vehicle slid on the icy roadway. The driver reportedly attempted to counter steer and the vehicle crossed the center line and struck another vehicle head on, operated by Suzanne R. Kasenamp, 63, Frostburg.

Both drivers and a passenger in the Kasenamp vehicle, Mary J. Pifalo, 63, Frostburg, were reportedly transported to Frostburg Community Hospital where they were treated and later released.

No charges were filed in the 5:55 p.m. mishap.

DWI ARREST

One motorist was charged with DWI (driving while under the influence of alcohol and/or drugs) this past week by state police.

Donald Meier, 25, no with DWI on Saturday by address given, was charged Tfc. G.S. Becker.

Cassoulet- A dish originally from Languedoc, which consists of haricot (navy) beans cooked in a stewpot with pork ribs and seasonings. A garnish of meats, which varies from region to region, and a grain topping are added in the final stages. The word comes from cassole, the name of the glazed earthenware cooking pot traditionally used.

Located on Rt. 219, south of the Deep Creek Lake Bridge.

Under the stars of a wintery sky, Christmas lights are glowing amid the frosty air in Garrett County's small towns. In Bloomington, the Town Christmas Tree Lighting was held this past weekend, and on Christmas Eve at 6:30 p.m., a service will be held in the Bloomington United Methodist Church. Bloomington, Swanton is another small town where the residents are busy preparing for the holidays. On December 17 at 7 p.m., a Christmas Program will be held of the Mt. Zion United Methodist Church on Mt. Zion Road, Swanton. A cantata, "He Came To Us", will be performed on December 18 at 7 p.m. at the Chestnut Grove United Methodist Church on Chestnut Grove Road, Swanton. The Swanton United Methodist Youth Fellowship will go caroling on December 18, the church Christmas Program will be held at 7 p.m. on December 19, and the Swanton United Methodist Watch Night Service will be December 31 at 11 p.m. A Christmas Church Program will also be held at Chestnut Grove U.M. Church on December 19 at 7 p.m. Tonight in Deer Park, the Christmas spirit will shine at the United Methodist Women's Christmas Party and Dinner at the home of Marian Caldwell. On December 14 at 7 p.m. the Deer Park Homemakers Club will hold a Christmas Party at the Deer Park Fire Hall. "The Christmas Story" will be told December 19 at 7 p.m. at the Church of God of Prophecy in Deer Park. Everyone is welcome to attend, and that same night, the Deer Park Methodist Church will hold a Christmas Program at 7:30 p.m. Kitzmiller will be celebrating the season with a wide variety of activities. The Kitzmiller Assembly of God Church will hold its Annual Sunday School Program December 19 at 7 p.m., Christmas Caroling on Wed., December 22 at 6 p.m., Candlelight Christmas Eve Service on Fri., December 24 at 6 p.m., and New Year's Eve Service on December 31 at 6 p.m. At the Full Gospel Church of Blaine, a Sunday School Christmas Program will be held on December 12 at 7 p.m. St.

credible mess of non-accountability.

Thank God for all those committed local people who try to get our local officials to act responsibly, even if it is in vain!

The differences between the commissioners and the school board and administration used to be because the commissioners weren't allowed representation at the school board decision-making level. They got that, and so what happened? Their responsible (?) commissioner "doesn't attend the school board meetings, until last Monday night." Mr. Braskey, you take your commissioner salary and your teaching salary from the system, but you don't attend as a representative of the commissioners the school board meetings to know what's going on. How come? How responsible are you to the taxpayers in the most important aspect of our lives -- the education of our children? Do you care?

Mr. Braskey, you are also a representative to the Mental Health Advisory Board and have been for many years. I believe you have attended two meetings in these years and have attended not one meeting in a year and a half. What do you think the loved ones of these "disenfranchised" Garrett County citizens think of you and all the others who have their names on the advisory board roster, or purport to be advocates for the mentally ill, but care about as much as you apparently do? How can people with any honesty continue this charade, while they never miss the opportunity to smile before the camera to get their picture in The Republican? The whole scene is becoming repulsive to thinking people! The disillusionment of taxpayers isn't only for what's going on in Washington at the federal level.

How offensive does the stretch have to get before we do something to change it? Think and act, please.

This is my opinion, Thanking you,
Mrs. Louise V. Harvey
Friendsville

To the Editor:

Thanks for the excellent coverage on the "Maryland You Are Beautiful" program, beginning with the Autumn Glory Festival, and front page coverage, and pictures.

There are hundreds of people in Garrett County who also deserve such an honor for all their volunteer work.

Danny and I have always done this thinking it was the thing to do and never realized we would be recognized.

Floraine Applefield is director of this program for Annapolis. The program at St. John's College in Annapolis was certainly most outstanding.

We were delighted to have our elected officials with us. Gov. William Donald Schaefer, Louis Goldstein, comptroller of the treasury, Rhea Feibin, TV, R. Dean Kenderdine, assistant secretary of tourism development, DEED, John Hafer, senator, John Braskey, county commissioner, Fred Holliday, mayor of Grantsville, Pat Vetter, coordinator, Alta Schrock, Penn Alps, Esther Yoder, Spruce Forest, and many friends and family including our daughter, Pam Cutler, who nominated us, and our son, Chuck Klotz, wife and grandson.

Danny and I both were raised in Garrett County, and the parents of a daughter and son, and have four grandsons. The two oldest boys were born the same day. Our daughter and son each presented us with our first grandsons born two hours apart and 200 miles apart (Nov. 24, 18 years ago).

Danny and I helped with the search of the B-52 flyers on the 13th of January 1964. After the crash we still remain friends of the families.

A Baltimore Sun photographer stayed with us for several days during a snow storm when Route 40 was closed before I-68 was open. Both of us helped with the world whitewater event in 1989.

Dan was the first to have introduced artificial insemination of dairy cows in northern Garrett County.

At the program in Annapolis, Gov. Schaefer presented us with an engraved Armata Tray.

Also an outstanding congratulatory card was received from Florida, from Ms. Frieda Dennison, a former Extension Agent, who worked with Mrs. Klotz during the 4-H days, when Mrs. Klotz received a 4-H State Alumni Award.

Also DEED, Department of Tourism sent a gift package to tour Inner Harbor, which includes dinner at Hausners, and overnight at a hotel.

At this time of the season, Dan will be delivering packages of food and toys to the needy through the Rotary Club.

May everyone have a blessed Christmas and our many thanks to all who gave us the support for this honor.

Hazel and Danny Klotz

Editor's note: The recipient of the following letter (Joanny Martin, Wellness Day Committee member, Northern High School) requested that it appear in this column.

Dear Joanny:

Thank you for inviting me to Wellness Day at Northern High School. I commend you and the MSAP team for your hard work in putting together such a successful day. What a fantastic opportunity for kids! The sessions that I attended were very interesting and the students seemed to enjoy them as well (particularly the line dancing).

It was a great feeling walking around and seeing the positive energy of the student body. I believe that wellness days are deserved by all students and faculty alike.

You did an outstanding job and your hard work, I am certain, is appreciated by the students.

Sincerely,
Barbara Scherr

the National Historic Trust office in Washington, D.C.

The agreement stipulates that trees and bushes be removed on the north and west side of the existing facility and any proposed pump station locations be kept to a minimum. The document further states, "If the sewer line possesses the potential to affect archaeological resources, FmHA will ensure that all appropriate identification and evaluation investigations of archaeological resources are conducted."

The document also specifies that a landscape architect/camouflage expert be employed by the Sanitary Commission to ensure that the stipulations are met.

Beitzel recently told the Garrett County Commissioners that his department does not believe the project, as initially proposed, would have an adverse effect on the surrounding area, with only "minor visual impact."

He continued, explaining, "The whole clearinghouse review process takes more and more time, and more money, to satisfy all the requirements of all the interest groups involved."

In fact, he said, that concern is evidenced in any project the county becomes involved in, including water projects, school projects, and others. The requirements also frequently overlap with each other, he said.

It's not that we take objection to the process of historic preservation but it seems they're hindering their own cause right now," said Beitzel.

He explained that Penn Alps, whose representatives have approved of and support the sewer system expansion because it would serve to further their continuing efforts of historic preservation.

Beitzel also stated that officials of the Maryland Historic Trust "did not even look at the bridge" before they made their opinions about the sewer project known.

"The agencies that review these projects should be familiar with them and discuss them with the appropriate people," he noted.

Beitzel concluded by saying that the paint color of the existing station is light green -- a color initially approved by the Historic Trust -- and that the agency is now requiring that the color be changed to better blend in with the environment.

The estimated total cost of the project is $1,975,500, according to Beitzel.

The Western Maryland office of the Legal Aid Bureau is located at 110 Green Street in Cumberland. The office can be reached in Garrett County by calling 334-8832.

Whenever possible, persons needing assistance should call in advance to schedule an appointment for the Outreach location or for an appointment at the Cumberland office.

There will not be a representative available in Oakland if Garrett County schools are canceled because of bad weather. Persons are advised to call the Cumberland office at 334-8832 by 10 a.m. each scheduled Outreach day to confirm whether the representative will be available.

HOW THEY ARE RAISED...

Who says dogs and cats don't get along? It's all in how they are raised.

The same is true in our emerging relationships with one another. Given the right influences in early years, we learn respect and tolerance, friendliness and forgiveness.

God's House is especially important in this aspect of raising a family. As part of their religious education, children learn that relationships with others are a practical expression of their relationship with God. Their reverence and growing faith begin to be reflected in the treatment of others at home, at school and in the community.

This vital area of every child's growth depends on the parents' awareness of their children's spiritual needs. Provide for their religious education. Your place of worship is eager to help.

BAD NEWS
GOOD NEWS
December 5, 1993

Background Scripture:
Luke 15:25-31-18

Devotional Reading:
Matthew 1:18-25, 2:1-12

Someone once remarked to me that "the Good News of the Gospel can sound remarkably like bad news. how can 'good news' begin with a call for repentance?"

It's true that, when we first hear that admonition to "repent," it seems very threatening. If we are called to "repent," it means that something is wrong with us or our lives, something we need to feel sorry about. Feeling sorry about ourselves does not sound like "good news."

Years ago, when I was a young pastor fresh out of seminary, I took Holy Communion into the homes of some shut-ins of our parish. One day when I asked an elderly woman to pray with me the Prayer of General Confession, she said, "But why? I haven't anything to confess. I'm stuck here in this house, this room and this bed, day after day." Taken aback as I was, I'm not sure how I responded to her. I think I said something to the effect that everyone always has something of which to repent, none of us are ever perfect.

NONE RIGHTEOUS
Like many people I've encountered since then, this woman focused upon sins rather than upon infractions of the rules instead of the selfish willfulness within that lies behind those infractions. Sins are the outward acts, while sin is the inner reality. We may be able to go through periods of our lives without committing sinful acts (although not as much as we like to think) but hardly a day goes by that sin doesn't lodge within our hearts. Jung regarded this sinner reality as the "shadow" or "dark side" of the human psyche. All of us have a "shadow" side. We may not let it take over and direct our lives, but it is always there, tempting us. All of us experience failure, all of us fail at some time to do and be the best that we can, none of us live up to the potential that God has placed within us.

So, that sounds like "bad news," but actually the very fact that we can repent is the best possible news because it means we are not stuck with our sin, our failures, and our shadow side. Think of the moral failures in your own life and then imagine what it would be like if there was no forgiveness. DIVINE REDEMPTION!

Some people charge that the Church is obsessed with human sinfulness, always emphasizing how unworthy we are. I will agree that the message as it sometimes comes across, is very much that the bad news of human depravity. But the call to repent that John the Baptist issues and which later Jesus himself began with, is focused not on the bad news of human depravity but upon the good news of divine redemption.

Thus, when we are called to repent, it is a reminder that we are not stuck with our sin for here and eternity. Once we acknowledge it, we can deal with it and experience the forgiving grace of God. As Luke tells us, John came "preaching a baptism of repentance for the forgiveness of sins" (Luke 3:3b), not a baptism for despair or condemnation.

That is the best possible news for me and, I'm certain, for you, too.

COVER STORY

Matheson and Rogers share 'Kiss to Die For'

BY TED KUSIO

Turn up the setting on your air conditioner when NBC airs "A Kiss to Die For" on Monday, Dec. 6. The steamy thriller puts Tim Matheson and Mimi Rogers in the middle of mystery, murder and some pretty hot passion.

Matheson plays William Tauber, a psychology professor who becomes suicidal after the death of his wife. But death takes a back seat when Tauber is rescued, and then seduced, by Rogers' mysterious Ali Broussard. The couple pursues a permanent relationship, but in addition to more common emotional problems, the couple has to deal with Broussard's rather strange involvement in a number of mysterious murders.

This film could easily have sunk from the weight of its plot. It starts out as a love story, then grows into a murder mystery, and finally becomes a sexy thriller with deep psychological and emotional elements. The film could have been engaging if it dealt with their relationship without the murders. But Matheson and Rogers both save the day by offering strong, credible and compassionate — as well as very passionate — performances. With an expression they convey more emotion than most actors create in an entire mini-series.

Matheson credits co-star Rogers and director Leon Ichaso with the success of the film. "I think (Rogers) is wonderful. She's one of the reasons that I wanted to work on this. (Ichaso) is a mad director, he's wild! He really just wanted to get the reality of it without the melodrama and the tendency might have been to be melodramatic about certain aspects of it and he was not."

Another element that supports "A Kiss to Die For" is the subtle strength and style of its sensuality. Without crossing the line of an R-rated movie or "NYPD Blue," Rogers and Matheson get the television set to sweat. Matheson has no problem with sexuality in films. "It's all OK as long as it's an integral part of the story. In 'A Kiss to Die For,' or 'Basic Instinct,' or 'Sea of Love' (the characters' sexuality is a part of the story. Generally speaking, I don't think it has much to do with anything more than titillation and then I think it's gratuitous. In 'A Kiss to Die For' the sexuality of the characters has a lot to do with the plot. It was the first time I had ever seen that in a television movie, when I first read the script I thought that it was for cable."

Filming the love scenes with Rogers was a challenge for Matheson. "It's like inviting 70 people into your bedroom," he says. "There's a lot of tricks to it: I start taking my shirt off and walking around the set so that I can feel comfortable. Or I'll put on a pair of gym shorts and I'll walk around without a shirt on, just so I'm not self-conscious about my body. So that it's my space, and not the crew's space, so if anybody has any silly things they want to say, they'll say it then."

Although "A Kiss to Die For" has some holes in the story, and sometimes the density of the plot seems overwhelming, Matheson and Rogers are both strong actors who give the film life, as well as plenty of steam.

IN FOCUS

Jessica Tandy and Hume Cronyn star as a devoted couple whose love transcends mortality in "To Dance With the White Dog," on CBS, Sunday, Dec. 5.

Cronyn and Tandy bring the experience of their real-life marriage to the screen, playing Sam and Cora Peck. Family and friends become concerned for Sam following Cora's death.

The lonely widower is frequently visited by a mysterious white dog only he can see.

CABLE OVERVIEW

Four feet or 50, a good week on cable

BY SUZANNE GILL

As winter settles outdoors and it's not quite time to make the holiday rounds, it's a good week to watch TV. Fortunately, there's plenty to recommend.

Dogs have their day Sunday, Dec. 5, when one in 11 households can catch "The Moxie Pirate Show," a new form of computer-generated animation featuring a hip toon pooch, on The Cartoon Network. In the evening, anyone who's ever cared for a canine should tune in the two-hour premiere of "Dogs" on A&E. The warm and informative documentary continues through Thursday, Dec. 9.

"Geronimo," debuting Sunday on TNT, begins a flood of factual and fact-based programming on TNT, TBS and CNN highlighting the native tribes of North America. Joseph Runningfox, on TNT, "The Last of His Tribe" plays the Apache firebrand in his middle years.

Guns and sex are the topics of two sobering specials Wednesday, Dec. 8. MTV News presents "Generation Under the Gun," a look at how and why young people carry guns and what some kids are doing to stop the violence. On Friday, Dec. 10, A&E "Investigative Reports" host Bill Kurtis reveals the tragic toll of the sex trade in "Dying for Sex."

She's tall, and she's got an ax in grind: Thanks to alien intervention, Nancy Archer (Daryl Hannah) finds personal empowerment on a grand scale in HBO's B movie remake, "Attack of the 50-Foot Woman," debuting Saturday, Dec. 11. Daniel Baldwin in "Homeward" plays Nancy's two timing husband, and William Windom is her money-hungry dad.

Ho, Ho, Ho: Holiday specials crowd onto the screen beginning Tuesday, Dec. 7, with a documentary look at the Wise Men's guiding light in a "Science Frontiers" episode entitled "The Christmas Star" on The Learning Channel. The Nashville Network presents "Joe Diffie and Friends in Concert" on Wednesday. Thursday brings Sandi Patti and BeBe and CeCe Winans to pay per view in "The Young Messiah Concert." On Friday, The Disney Channel offers "The Comic Book Christmas Caper."

Best of all may be the "Roundhouse" holiday special, airing Saturday on Nickelodeon. As funny as 40 minutes of "Saturday Night Live," this half-hour package has a hip-hop, a dollop of YuleWhip (a tree-flocking, dessert-topping product) and a reminder of those less fortunate. Oh yeah, Ren and Stimpy have a Christmas special that night, too.

For five nights A&E goes to the 'Dogs'

BY JOHN CROOK

It's enough to give Socks Clinton nightmares: a six-part documentary on "Dogs," premiering Sunday, Dec. 5, on A&E.

Host Jack Perkins takes the viewer through several countries and across the span of 20 centuries to examine the link between man's best friend and his human "pack leader."

The series, an A&E/BBC co-production, opens with two back to back episodes. The first, "Fatal Attraction," gives a general overview of the complex relationship between human and canine, dating back to the first wolf who was attracted to the heat and warmth of primitive campfires. This episode is immediately followed by "Fame and Fortune," a look at celebrity dogs including Lassie, as well as William Wegman's Lay Ray and Battina.

"Matters of Life and Death" (Monday, Dec. 6), explores the extraordinary skills and instincts of dogs, including a fascinating profile of Ribbon, a dog who saved her owner's life by predicting her epileptic seizures.

The fourth episode, "Gods and Gladiators" (Tuesday, Dec. 7), examines the spiritual importance of dogs in cultures around the world, and their power as symbols in history.

"A Question of Breeding" on Wednesday, Dec. 8, illustrates ways in which canine breeds are used to reflect human class and social status.

"What Price Friendship?" (Thursday, Dec. 9), is the most unsettling in the series, for it examines the extremes to which humans go to produce "the perfect dog" — and asks whether the dogs themselves can stand the genetic strain

Jack Perkins serves as the host of A&E's "Dogs." The documentary on man's relationship with his best friend premieres Sunday and continues through Thursday.

TV PIPELINE

BY TAYLOR MICHAELS

Q: What is the name of the talented young actor who plays a genius on NBC's "seaQuest DSV"? Where can I write him? —Jaime Krull of Michigan.

A: Jonathan Brandis, who plays Lucas Wolenczak, started working as a print model in New York City when he was 2. Later, he commuted with his parents from their home in Danbury, Conn., so he could do TV commercials in the Big Apple. These led to a recurring role on "One Life to Live" when he was 6. Three years later, in 1986, the family moved to Los Angeles. His first serious dramatic role was in 1987's "Poor Little Rich Girl" with Farrah Fawcett, but he attracted major attention with his uncanny portrayal of Richard Thomas' character as a kid in the miniseries "Stephen King's 'It.'" His theatrical films include "Sidekicks," "Ladylugs" and "The Never-ending Story II," and he has made guest appearances on at least a dozen TV series. The recent high-school graduate was named in "Who's Who Among American High School Students." He lives in Los Angeles with his parents, and enjoys billiards and basketball in his spare time. Write Jonathan C/O "seaQuest DSV," NBC Television Network, 3000 W. Alameda, Burbank, Calif. 91523.

Q: Can you tell me when "Your Hit Parade" with Dorothy Collins was on TV? Who were the other performers? —Margaret Martin, San Luis Rey, Calif.

A: "Lucky Strike Hit Parade," a radio staple since 1935, moved to TV under a new name on NBC in July 1950. In addition to Collins, the main stars were Russell Arms, Snooky Lanson and violinist Gisele MacKenzie. A new cast took over in September 1957. The show moved to CBS in October 1958, then expired the following April.

Jonathan Brandis

Q: How can I get a video of the five Sullivan brothers who were killed in World War II? —Larry W. Chavis, Laurinburg, N.C.

A: Ask your video dealer to order "The Fighting Sullivans" with Anne Baxter and Thomas Mitchell.

Footnote: A Welsh reader, now living in Ohio, took me sternly to task for my flippant comment that actor Jonathan Price was born "in one of those Welsh towns that never seems to have enough vowels." She found this remark to be a "snotty, uncalled-for smearing" of her Welsh heritage. As I personally am a mixture of Welsh and Scots stock, I'm completely taken aback, but in case anyone else reacted the same way, rest assured, I heartily Wales!

SOAP TALK

McCloskey enjoys daytime scene

BY CANDACE HAVENS

Like most actors, Leigh McCloskey likes to work. But unlike many of his peers, McCloskey is quite happy to bounce back and forth among soap operas, prime time television and feature films.

"I like working in the different mediums," says McCloskey. "It keeps things fresh. I like to work, and I appreciate the challenges of daytime. Every day you go in there, and you have so little time to do it right, and it amazes me how well it all goes sometimes."

McCloskey portrayed surgeon Michael Baranski last year on "General Hospital," and now he is back on the soap as a different character, Damian Smith.

It isn't the first time McCloskey has portrayed two different roles on a soap. He was Zack Kellon, a rapist who was killed off on "Santa Barbara." Six weeks later he returned to "SB" as district attorney Ethan Asher.

In between his stints on daytime television, McCloskey made several movies for television and feature films. Most recently he was in the earthquake movie "Trouble Shooters: Trapped Beneath the Earth." It was "one of the most physical roles I have ever taken on," according to the actor. He is also in a USA Network film, "Accidental Meeting," co-starring Linda Gray and Linda Purl.

McCloskey says the brass at GH liked his work as Michael and asked him to come back. "We had to wait for the right time," he says. "I was working on a couple of films for television, but I had said if GH came up with the right character, I would be happy to return.

McCloskey's first foray into television was in the role of Billy Abbott in the miniseries "Rich Man, Poor Man." One of his most visible roles was that of Mitch Cooper on "Dallas," one of the most popular prime-time soaps of all time.

When McCloskey has time off, he enjoys spending it with his family. Carla, his wife of 15 years, is a highly-respected assistant director who just completed work on the upcoming Bruce Willis film "The Color of Night." Her credits include "Jurassic Park," "Hook" and "The 'burbs." The couple has two children, Cayli (10) and Brighton (6).

McCloskey is an accomplished artist, and his paintings are featured in the book "Actors in Art."

TIME OUT

ESPN looks at issues 'Outside the Lines'

BY JEFF PLASS

ESPN's award-winning series "Outside the Lines" examines topical issues off the playing field. The program has captured the last three Emmys in the sports journalism category. The show's host, Bob Ley, explains just what differentiates the show from others of its kind.

"It's unique in its form," Ley says. "It's long-form sports journalism on TV, and you don't really get to see that anywhere else. It takes the time to really delve into issues, hopefully in an intelligent, yet still entertaining manner. I think that is what really sets it apart."

The episode airing Friday, Dec. 10, "Winners and Losers," takes a look at the great emphasis society places on winning, how it defines people and also the great stigma that is attached to losing and how that affects people.

"We'll be talking to some social commentators," Ley says, "to get an idea of just why it is we place all of this emphasis on winning, what accrues to those who win."

"I would think that people such as (Philadelphia Phillies relief pitcher) Mitch Williams and (Toronto Blue Jays outfielder) Joe Carter have their winters pretty much defined by one pitch and one swing in Toronto that ended the World Series."

The program will also examine the phenomenon of "choking."

"We're going to look into whether there's any physiological basis for that," Ley says, "because that's just about the worst thing anyone can say about a professional athlete, that he chokes."

Ley discusses some of the more interesting moments in the series' history.

"On the special we did on sports and the presidency, I was fortunate enough to ride on Air Force One and interview President Bush. To fly on that plane and have a one-on-one with the president of the United States, that's the ultimate power trip," Ley says.

"I can also remember pursuing the case of a young man who claimed that a doctor was giving him a steroid prescription while he was at school. Everyone denied it and we were able to locate the doctor and got him to admit it on camera. That was a very unusual moment."

That particular episode, entitled "Steroids: Whatever It Takes," won the series its second Emmy.

"It sounds like a cliché, but when your peers recognize you, it is very nice," Ley says.

MOVIE MARQUEE

She's ba-ack: HBO remakes '50-Foot Woman'

BY SUZANNE GILL

"This is a movie that's better known for its poster than its actual sell," says Daryl Hannah, who's just remade 1958's frightful "Attack of the 50-Foot Woman." At about twice the running time of the original, the new version descends on HBO Saturday, Dec. 11. How does an actress who's played a mermaid and an android research a role like this?

"I hadn't seen the original film," Hannah admits, but "I'd seen the poster and the T-shirt. Just as well, perhaps, since this 'Woman' seeks to rise above the original with a tale of feminine empowerment."

"My character in our version is very passive and demure and quiet at first," Hannah says, "and then evolves into a more self-confident, assertive woman" after she draws herself up to her full height.

A comedy, "Woman" is an homage, too, says writer Joseph Dougherty. "It doesn't wink, it's not a parody." Unblinking viewers may catch a quick nod to B movie pioneers Sam Arkoff and Roger Corman.

To allow Hannah to eat dinner with her estranged husband (Daniel Baldwin) and bathe in a neighbor's pool, director Christopher Guest used vintage special effects "because of the way they look, (and) because of the fact that when you shoot them, you have them, and you move on."

In a real life tale of courage, Mel Harris stars Sunday, Dec. 5, in ABC's "Desperate Journey." The Allison Wilcox Story, as a cancer survivor who faces losing her own life and that of her unborn child in a sailing accident during a hurricane. On CBS, Jessica Tandy and Hume Cronyn star in the Hallmark Hall of Fame presentation of the love story "To Dance With the White Dog."

Also Sunday, the Turner networks begin a 14-month "Native American initiative" with the historical drama "Geronimo," starring Joseph Runningfox, on TNT. Norman Lewis is the executive producer.

Monday, Dec. 6, brings the romantic thriller "A Kiss to Die For," starring Mimi Rogers and Tim Matheson, on NBC. Tuesday, Dec. 7, CBS offers "Marked for Death," starring Steven Seagal battling a vicious Jamaican drug ring.

Julian Lennon plays a voice role in NBC's animated version of "Charles Dickens' David Copperfield" on Friday, Dec. 10.

Also of note, the USA Network offers the "Star Wars" trilogy beginning Wednesday, Dec. 8, and TBS airs a James Bond film each weeknight.

ELEMENTARY SCHOOL NEWS

The P.T.A. recently held a Book Fair, with a profit of $339.86.

Seventy-eight percent of all students' parents attended the parent conferences recently.

Eight students received "straight A's" on their last report card, and 22 students received all A's and B's. Five third grade students who earned A's on their reading unit test were: Miranda Gallagher, Trista Guthrie, Amanda Lambert, Eric Schrock, and Ashley Van-Meter.

CRELLIN HEAD START

METHODIST CHURCH

The congregation of the Crellin Methodist Church will hold a covered-dish dinner on Saturday, Dec. 4, at 6:30 p.m., at the Crellin Community Building, to officially welcome the new pastor, Rev. Ralph Reedy, and his wife, Doris. There will be a "Pounding Party" for the Reedys, and attendees are asked to bring a pound of foodstuffs or household items as gifts.

UNITED BRETHREN CHURCH

Freda Martin's Puppets will be featured during the evening worship service for December 5.

The congregation held its Sunday school election and also the first ballot for church officers on Sunday, Nov. 21. There were 118 ballots cast for the Sunday school election, which was open to all regular attendees. Stan Skiles was elected Sunday school superintendent, with Don Loughry as assistant. Pat McBee was elected secretary, and Shirley Bowman was elected librarian.

Voting for church officers was restricted to church members, and 76 ballots were cast. Margaret Fulk Doyle was elected lay leader, with Leo McBee as assistant; Tom Giotfely was elected lay delegate; Tammy Skiles was elected treasurer; Elaine Hoyer was selected as financial secretary; and Donna Sanders was elected as auditor. The following commission chairmen were also elected: Bill Pickrel, Christian Education; Don Sanders, Deacons; Tammy Skiles, Finance; Cosette Harman, Missions; Tom Doyle, Trustees; and Joan Fike, Worship and Music.

A second ballot for church members will be held December 5 to elect additional deacons, trustees, and members-at-large to the Administrative Board and Personal Relations Commission.

SENIOR CITIZENS' LUNCHEON

The monthly senior citizens' luncheon was held Nov. 18 with a special Thanksgiving program. The invocation and a scripture reading were given by the Rev. Charles Teets. Other scripture readings and comments were given by Pastor Michael Mudge and Rev. Robert Mayfield. Freda Martin served as piano accompanist for several hymns, and the blessing for the meal was prayed by the Rev. Ralph Reedy.

Sharon Savage, with the Garrett County Health Department Outreach Program, was present to do blood pressure screenings.

Ida Carr was honored with a red carnation and a card shower for her 84th birthday.

CENTENNIAL VIDEO
Tom Giotfely, one of the producers of the Crellin Centennial Videotape, recently received a letter from Maryland Governor William

Donald Schaefer, in which the governor writes as follows:

"What a wonderful bit of Americana! I cannot tell you how much I enjoyed watching it. Everyone seemed to be having such a good time, both in the oral history segment as well as at the celebration itself."

"A couple things came through loud and clear--the strong sense of community pride and old-fashioned family values. With all the violence and other problems that we have to deal with continuously, it has become apparent that we all need to work together to reinstall those old-fashioned values that seem to be missing in today's society."

"I really enjoy my visits to Western Maryland; it is such a beautiful part of the state. It is always such a soothing experience."

"Once again, thank you for sharing the video on the Crellin Centennial. You and Michael Mudge can be very proud of the wonderful production of a really terrific event spot-lighting some absolutely great Marylanders!"

Fewer than 30 of the video tapes are left for sale. They are 90-minutes long and were professionally produced by Commercial Video Services of Cumberland. The first half narrates the history of Crellin, illustrated with 100 historic photographs and interspersed with videotaped interviews with 25 persons. A special feature of the first half of the tape is a sound clip from a recording of Preston Railroad Engine #18 made in 1958. The second half of the tape covers the various events of the centennial celebration.

Anyone wishing to get one of the few remaining tapes should send a check made payable to "Crellin Centennial Video" to Tom Giotfely at Star Route 2, Box 3-A, Crellin, MD 21550. The cost is $21 if the purchaser picks it up, and $24 per tape if it must be mailed.

FULL GOSPEL BUSINESSMEN'S FELLOWSHIP

The Full Gospel Businessmen's Fellowship held its regular monthly prayer breakfast at the Crellin Community Building on Saturday, Nov. 13, with 31 persons present. Their dinner meeting on Nov. 20 was attended by 39 persons and featured a solo by Ellet Teets and a gospel concert by The Gospel Ambassadors.

The prayer breakfasts on second Saturdays at 8 a.m. and the dinner meetings on third Saturdays at 7 p.m. are held at the Crellin Community Building and are open to the public, with reservations to be made by the previous Thursday.

COMMUNITY BUILDING

A final decision was made

READ TO ME VIDEOS PRESENTED - A video titled Read to Me was presented to the local hospital and health department by Alpha Alpha Chapter of Delta Kappa Society International, a local group of women teachers. The video stresses the importance of reading to children, and is targeted at parents of youngsters. Debbie Durbin, representing Garrett Memorial Hospital, accepted the tape on behalf of the facility and said the tape will be used as a resource for parents and will be stored in the hospital library. Becky Parks of the Garrett County Health Department accepted the tape and stated that it would be used in parenting classes and infant care classes. Pictured above, left to right, are Anna Marie Miller, Alpha Alpha president; Mrs. Durbin, Mrs. Parks, and Barbara Flinn, a retired Chapter I resource teacher.

Nov. 24 to move the Crellin Head Start Program out of the Community Building and into a modular unit to be placed near the new elementary school during the summer. Plans are being formulated to turn the second floor of the Community Building into one or two apartments. Efforts are continuing to apply for a Community Development Block Grant to make improvements to the main street and the Community Building.

LOOKING BACKWARDS

Reprinted here is a curious paragraph which appeared in the "Crellin Column" 69 years ago, from the November 13, 1924, issue of The Republican. Perhaps some older readers will be able to shed some light on the mystery, and maybe younger readers will enjoy reading how the news used to be written.

"A mysterious noise resembling a great deal the cry of a wild cat has been disturbing the peaceful slumbers of a number of our prominent citizens during the past week. A great many guesses have been made as to its source, but few agree. A hunt was made for this strange animal on Friday night, but the animal was prepared, probably being warned before-hand, and stayed under cover. The majority of the guesses are that it is probably the deadly 'wampus cat.' For this reason we feel it our duty to warn any of Oakland's citizens against staying in Crellin after nine o'clock."

FOOD LOVERS DIET

To introduce a new approach to dieting, free samples were given to 50 people. With The Omicron Diet, one man lost 14 pounds in 5 days and one woman lost 18 pounds in 10 days. The average weight loss was over a pound a day for women and over 2 pounds a day for men. The Omicron Diet is a revolutionary new concept for unbelievably fast weight loss developed by Dr. William Morris of National Dietary Research, Washington, D.C. This significant breakthrough in nutritional weight control utilizes biological information overlooked by other diet programs. With a natural enzyme/nutrient supplement and real food, you shed unwanted pounds extremely rapidly and safely. *Individual weight loss will vary. Now available at:

Keep local families warm this winter.

GARRETT COUNTY COMMUNITY ACTION COMMITTEE IN PARTNERSHIP WITH POTOMAC EDISON

At a time when many deserving families may have difficulty paying winter heating bills because of temporary hardship, The Potomac Edison Company has established the Community Energy Fund.

Potomac Edison and The Garrett County Community Action Committee have formed a partnership to help those in need with winter energy expenses. When you contribute to the Community Energy Fund, Allegheny Power System stockholders will match, up to the program limits, 50 cents for each dollar donated to help pay household electric bills.

Potomac Edison urges all of its customers to consider this opportunity to assist those who need a helping hand this winter.

Through the Energy Fund partnership, your donation goes even further.

To help your neighbors in need this heating season, send your donation to the Community Energy Fund, The Garrett County Community Action Committee, Inc., P.O. Box 449, Oakland, MD 21550. Help local families keep warm this winter with your gift.

SEASON'S GREETINGS

Celebrate with Easy Entertaining

The holiday season is for giving. And what better gift to give and enjoy than a dinner party for family and friends. With just a minimum of planning and this deceptively simple menu plan, you can prepare a festive holiday meal that will be remembered for years!

Tailor-made for easy entertaining, the menu features a balance of quick, easy-to-fix recipes and dishes that can be prepared before your guests arrive. For example, the Maraschino Cherry Cheesecake can be made a day ahead and the Nutty Citrus Rice and steamed vegetables prepared while the succulent beef roast cooks effortlessly in the oven.

A boneless beef roast is truly one of the easiest entrees to cook and serve; simply follow the roasting guidelines provided. For a more memorable meal, add a special touch to the roast—rub the surface with a spicy Citrus Pepper Blend.

side dish complements the peppered blend on the roast and adds its own intriguing flavors and textures to the meal by using a combination of versatile, easy-to-prepare cooked white and wild rice. Both the white and wild rice can be prepared on the stove top or in the microwave while the roast is cooking.

For a spectacular finale, serve a sensational dessert like Maraschino Cherry Cheesecake. Making this cake the day before is a must. Not only does the cheesecake need time to set, but the subtle almond flavor characteristic of maraschino cherries has a chance to permeate the rich, creamy filling and heighten the taste of the almond-accented crust.

The cheesecake can be artfully adorned with an edible garnish of whole maraschino cherries just before serving.

To give the best gift of all this holiday season, invite your family and friends to enjoy this delicious, yet simple, festive dinner.

Citrus Pepper Blend for Beef Roast

Combine 2 teaspoons grated orange peel, 2 cloves crushed garlic, 1 teaspoon dried thyme leaves, 1 teaspoon salt and 3/4 teaspoon cracked black pepper; rub evenly over surface of beef roast. Makes enough seasoning mix for 4- to 6-pound roast. Recipe may be doubled.

Nutty Citrus Rice

- | | |
|----------------------------------|---|
| 1 cup sliced green onions | 1/2 cup frozen orange juice concentrate, thawed and undiluted |
| 1/2 cup chopped walnuts | 1 teaspoon grated orange peel |
| 1/2 cup golden raisins | 1/2 teaspoon salt |
| 1 tablespoon butter or margarine | 1/2 teaspoon ground black pepper |
| 3 cups cooked rice | 2 small oranges cut into segments |
| 1 cup cooked wild rice | |

Cook onions, walnuts and raisins in butter in large skillet over medium heat until onions are tender. Add rice, wild rice, orange juice, orange peel, salt and pepper; heat thoroughly. Gently stir in orange segments just before serving. Makes 8 servings.

Maraschino Cherry Cheesecake

- | | |
|---|---|
| 1-1/2 cups crushed vanilla wafers | 4 eggs, at room temperature |
| 1 cup plus 2 tablespoons sugar, divided | 1-1/2 teaspoons vanilla extract |
| 2 tablespoons finely chopped almonds | 1-1/2 teaspoons grated lemon peel |
| 3 tablespoons butter or margarine, melted | 1-1/2 cups chopped, drained maraschino cherries |
| 3 8-ounce packages cream cheese, softened | 16 maraschino cherries with stems |
| | 16 small mint sprigs |

Combine vanilla wafers, 2 tablespoons sugar, almonds and butter; mix well. Pat into bottom of 9-inch springform pan; set aside. Beat cream cheese and remaining 1 cup sugar until light and fluffy. Add eggs, one at a time, beating well after each addition. Add vanilla and lemon peel. Pour a thin layer of cream cheese mixture into crumb pastry. Evenly layer the chopped maraschino cherries. Spoon remaining cream cheese mixture over cherries. Bake at 350 F for 50 minutes to one hour or until set. Cool two hours on rack. Refrigerate at least 8 hours. Remove ring of springform pan. Serve on cake dish; garnish with maraschino cherries with stems and mint sprigs. Makes one 9-inch cheesecake.

Creamy Rice Pudding

- | | |
|-----------------------------------|---|
| 3 cups cooked rice | 1/2 cup sugar |
| 1/3 cup golden raisins | 3 eggs, beaten |
| 1/4 teaspoon salt | 1 teaspoon vanilla extract |
| 3-1/3 cups milk, divided | 3/4 cup halved, drained maraschino cherries |
| 2 tablespoons butter or margarine | |

Combine rice, raisins, salt and 3 cups milk in 3-quart saucepan. Cook over medium heat 25 to 30 minutes, stirring occasionally. Add butter to hot mixture; mix well. Combine sugar, eggs and remaining 1/3 cup milk; add to pudding, stirring constantly. Cook 2 to 3 minutes or until mixture thickens and coats a metal spoon. Remove from heat; add vanilla. Place maraschino cherries on paper towels to remove excess syrup; stir into pudding. Spoon rice pudding into 8 individual dessert dishes. Serve warm or cold. Makes 8 servings.

Tips for Stress-Free Holiday Entertaining

One Week Before Your Dinner:

Plan your menu and prepare a shopping list.

- Make a step-by-step list of everything that needs to be done for your dinner. The list will help you keep track of tasks and delegate them to family and friends who want to help.
- Get preliminary, time-consuming housecleaning out of the way.

Two Days Before:

- Shop for everything you need, except for highly perishable items such as assorted dips from the produce department.
- Purchase beef roast. You can call ahead to order a roast from the supermarket meat department or select from a variety of sizes once you get to the store. For added convenience, select a larger roast than you need for the dinner so there will be plenty of delicious leftovers the following day.

- Select serving pieces to complement your table and the menu.
- If you think that you have too many last minute details planned as your guests are arriving, the white and wild rice can be cooked up to a week ahead and refrigerated or cooked and kept in the freezer in an airtight container for up to six months.
- Reclean/pick up house.

Day Before:

- Recheck recipes to make sure you have everything you need.
- Pick up any last minute items like dips and pre-cut vegetables for crudites from the produce section.
- Prepare Maraschino Cherry Cheesecake.

Day of Dinner:

Complete step-by-step checklist; relax and enjoy!

1. Place roast (straight from refrigerator) fat side up, on rack in open shallow roasting pan.					4. Do not add water. Do not cover.
2. Rub Citrus Pepper Blend evenly over surface of roast.					5. Roast to 5- to 10° below desired doneness*.
3. Insert meat thermometer into thickest part of roast, not touching bone or fat.					6. Allow roast to stand 15 to 20 minutes before serving. Temperature will continue to rise to desired doneness. Roast will also be easier to carve.

December "Good Guys" Aimed At Drunk Drivers

Before an audience of juniors and seniors at Pikesville High School, the Maryland State Police announced today the kick-off of the final stage of the public education campaign "Project Good Guys." State Police are actively recruiting "Good Guys" this holiday season to stop drunk and drugged driving on Maryland's roads.

Lieutenant Colonel Robert L. Thomas, Field Operations Bureau Chief, told the students that the holiday season is a time for caring and sharing special times with family and friends. "We all need to play a part in making certain that those special times are not marred by the loss of a loved one because of drinking and driving," he said.

December is "National Drunk & Drugged Driving Prevention Month" (3-D Month). In an effort to curb drunk driving, especially underage drinking, Lt. Colonel Thomas explained to the students Maryland's .02 law. The law which prohibits drivers under the age of 21 with a Blood Alcohol Concentration (BAC) of .02 or higher from operating or attempting to operate a motor vehicle. A conviction under this law would result in a license suspension.

Each year more than 20,000 people are killed nationwide in accidents in which alcohol is a factor. There is an average of one alcohol-related traffic fatality every 22 minutes and one alcohol-related injury every minute.

In an unannounced presentation, the students heard from Faye Siegel. Mrs. Siegel lost her daughter, Courtney, in an accident caused by a drunk driver — the driver was Mrs. Siegel's husband. With great emotion, she shared with the students how quickly her entire life changed because of the actions of a drunk driver.

OHS REPLICA AVAILABLE - The old Oakland High School, a building which now houses the Garrett County Board of Education offices, has been preserved in miniature as the newest addition to the wooden replica collection available for purchase from the Greater Oakland Business Association. The structure also once served as the Garrett County Courthouse (1867-1907). Pictured above holding the OHS replica are Connie Margison, promotion chair for GOBA, and Dr. Jerome Ryscavage, Garrett County superintendent of schools. GOBA also has replicas of the Oakland B&O Railroad Station, Casselman Bridge, St. Peter's Catholic Church, St. Mark's Lutheran Church, Our Father's House (log church), the Oakland Post Office, the Garrett County Courthouse, and Friend's Store. They may be purchased at The Small Pedlar and Marvin's Men's Wear in Oakland, with all proceeds used by GOBA for community improvement promotional projects.

As part of "December Storm," state troopers will be initiating sobriety checkpoints and saturation patrols to remove drunk and drugged drivers from the road. The public's help is also needed to make this program a success. Persons should dial the nearest state police barracks or local police.

"State police will increase patrols throughout the state in an effort to reduce the number of drunks getting behind the wheel. Troopers need everyone's support to keep friends and loved ones from getting behind the wheel after drinking," said Thomas. "Call police; let us know if you see a drunk driver. It could save someone's life."

Even one drink can cloud a person's thinking, dim their vision, and slow their reflexes. Small amounts of alcohol can impair one's judgment and put them and others on the road at risk of death or disabling injury. "Let's take a stand. Friends don't let friends drive drunk," concluded Thomas.

Sexual Harassment, Assault Seminar Deemed Successful

The November "event" for the 1993 Celebration of Garrett County Women was a seminar on sexual harassment and sexual assault. The event was sponsored by the Civic Club of Oakland, and despite sparse attendance was considered a great success.

Guest speakers included Susan Crawford of the United States Military Court of Appeals, Glendora Hughes of the General Counsel of the Maryland Commission on Human Relations, Detective Paul Pratt of the Garrett County Sheriff's Office, and Debbie Holler of the Domestic Violence and Sexual Assault Resource Center.

Ms. Crawford, the first woman to be appointed to the Military Court of Appeals, presented a motivational speech. She said that women should be proud of their contributions to society and that they must continue a steady march forward toward equality. She also urged those in attendance to be willing to take risks, to be patient, persevere, and work hard, and to break down the "cult of domesticity."

Glendora Hughes gave a presentation explaining the definition of sexual harassment. To illustrate, she cited examples from actual cases and gave tips as to what can be done to minimize sexual harassment in the workplace. She also informed the audience that the Supreme Court recently clarified the issue of sexual harassment by changing the wording of the law. Originally the law partially defined harassment as what is perceived to be harassment by any reasonable man. The word "man" was replaced with "person." Ms. Hughes said this allows a definite opportunity for a woman to judge on the issue as well as a man.

She also stressed the importance of establishing a complaint procedure in the workplace which is communicated to all workers. She provided statistics and other information about sexual assault, explaining the traumatic effect it may have on the victim who may then require professional help to overcome the event.

Det. Kelly talked about the emotional turmoil a woman experiences following a sexual assault, and presented law enforcement facts, figures, and safety tips. Ms. Holler talked about the loss of self-esteem and self-confidence most women go through after being assaulted.

Lt. Pratt gave the audience helpful tips on avoiding dangerous situations, and then presented a live demonstration with the assistance of Donna Sites. According to a spokesperson, Pratt was able to teach Ms. Sites how to avert an attack by "throwing" her attacker, which she apparently did.

"The demonstration was an excellent wrap-up to the day's presentation," a spokesperson said.

State's Number Of Govt. Jobs Below Average

The Maryland Office of Planning announced recently that in 1992 Maryland ranked 45th in the nation in the number of state and local government employees per 10,000 residents. Maryland's ranking in 1992 is sharply lower than its peak in 1981 when it ranked 15th in the nation.

According to U.S. Department of Commerce Bureau of Economic Analysis data released in November, Maryland had 564 state and local government employees for every 10,000 residents in 1992, well below the U.S. average of 614. Maryland's highest number of state and local government employees per 10,000 population was 627 in 1979.

In addition, Maryland's ranking in the U.S. of total earnings of state and local government employees as a percent of total personal income experienced a parallel decline. The total earnings of Maryland's state and local government amounted to 7.3 percent in 1992, ranking it 46th out of the 50 states and the District of Columbia. Earnings of state and local government workers peaked at 8.5 percent of total personal income in 1976, the 30th highest share in the U.S.

"The shrinkage of the state and local government sector relative to the rest of Maryland's economy reflects the continuing adjustment undergone by both state and local governments in response to the fiscal constraints of the economic downturn," said Ronald M. Kreitner, director of the Maryland Office of Planning.

Since 1986, both Maryland's state and local government employees per 10,000 population and state and local government earnings as a percent of total personal income have been below the figures for the United States. With respect to other states in the Middle Atlantic area, only Pennsylvania has fewer state and local government employees per 10,000 population than Maryland.

Maryland's ranking relative to the nation with respect to average earnings per state and local government jobs went from 14th in 1969 to eighth in 1992. This is consistent with Maryland's per capita personal income, which ranked 12th in 1969 and sixth in 1992. Average earnings for state and local government workers improved relative to the United States during the 1980's as did Maryland's per capita personal income. With the economic downturn of the 1990's, both state and local government earnings per job and per capita personal income have declined relative to the United States.

"During both the economic ups and downs of the last eight years, Maryland's state and local government has continued to meet the needs of its citizens through responsible fiscal management," Kreitner said. "By serving the needs of our citizens within our available resources, we have preserved Maryland's fiscal soundness and have helped to assure our economic recovery in the future," Kreitner added.

In the 1980's, the federal government cuts its budget for human resources and transferred much of the responsibility for the delivery of these social services to state and local governments. The economic boom in the second half of the 1980's meant sufficient tax revenue to fund these services. Even so, Maryland's state and local government sector employment had decreased relative to most other states. Further, when one accounts for Maryland's growth in population, there has been no increase in public employ-

Garrett County AMI Schedules Christmas Dinner

The Garrett County Alliance for the Mentally Ill is sponsoring a Christmas covered dish dinner on Friday, December 10, at the Lighthouse, U.S. Rt. 219 just north of Oakland.

Dinner will be served buffet style promptly at 7 p.m., followed by the introduction of special guests and the presentation of certificates of merit to a number of community members and guests.

Anyone interested in the plight of the mentally ill is welcome to attend. All are asked to provide a covered dish. Soft drinks and coffee will be provided.

As the primary advocacy group for those with mental illnesses in this county, AMI urges participation in this community effort "to begin the new year with the spirit of Christmas, which is peace . . . the gladness of Christmas, which is hope . . . and the heart of Christmas, which is love," according to Carol Cox, AMI president.

DANCE FOR HEART RAISES $2,454 - Students and members of Brenda's Body Shop recently held a Dance for Heart event at Southern High School. The event netted $2,454. Guest aerobic instructors from Sterling, Va., led the master workout which involved over 200 children and adults. Another fun feature was the country line dancing, led by Brenda Brosnihan. "It was great to see some of the spectators show interest and join us with the dancing," said Brosnihan. Other entertainment was provided by the Aerobic Diehards, the Aerobic Try-hards, Power Pac, Sterling Strutters, Mat Mates, Sr. Gymnasts, and the Southern Varsity Cheerleaders. Joanna Shore, coordinator for the American Heart Association, stated, "I have never been so entertained at a fund raising event." The funds raised will be used for research and program development. Heart disease is the number one killer in the United States. Events such as Dance for Heart help to support the efforts of the American Heart Association. Pictured with Shore, left, and Brosnihan, right, are the top money earners, Geri Likens, Laramie Slawson, Amanda Frantz, and Patty Hinebaugh, who raised the most money. Other top earners, not present for the photo, were Carissa Vescoli and Amy Thayer.

present. The pledges were led by Cody Brennenman.

The old business consisted of the Buckwheat Supper and the Woodmen of the World dinner. The Buckwheat Supper that was held October 22 was reported on by Carla Miller. The Woodmen of the World dinner was served by the Bittering 4-H on November 6. This was reported on by Brooke Brennenman.

The new business consisted of Christmas and what the club will do in the next few months. The date of the Christmas dinner will be decided in the next meeting. Discussed were gifts, games, and the menu for the Christmas dinner. Each family will bring a dessert. The plan

New Management Tools To Be Unveiled At M-A Conservation Tillage Meeting

"Profitable agriculture and a clean environment" will be the watchword phrase for this year's six-state Mid-Atlantic Conservation Tillage Conference. The 20th annual event is scheduled Dec. 16 at the Ramada Inn and Convention Center in Hagerstown.

Specific topics will deal with changes in store for agriculture, economic impacts of environmental regulations, water quality, nutrient management, crop residue, small grains and forages. Information on the upcoming national soybean referendum also will be available.

Sponsoring organizations include Cooperative Extension, the U.S. Department of Agriculture's Soil Conservation Service and local conservation districts in the participating states, with assistance from interested agribusiness representatives from Delaware, Maryland, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Virginia and West Virginia are expected to attend.

Tickets for a noon lunch are available at $5 each from Cooperative Extension county offices throughout the Mid-Atlantic area. They must be purchased in advance—not later than Dec. 6.

Activities on Dec. 16 will get under way at 8 a.m. with free coffee and doughnuts, plus opportunity to visit industry exhibits. The educational program will run from 9 a.m. to 3:45 p.m., with an hour and 45 minutes off for lunch and another chance to chat with exhibitors.

Speakers and topics for the afternoon program are as follows:

"Economic Impacts of Environmental Regulations on Agriculture," Dr. James S. Shortle, environmental economist, Department of Agricultural Economics & Rural Sociology, Penn State University.

"Fertility and Nutrient Management," Dr. Frank J. Coale, Extension agronomist, University of Maryland at College Park, and Dr. John J. Meisinger, soil scientist, Agricultural Research Service, USDA-Beltsville area.

"Forages in Conservation Tillage Programs," Dr. Lester R. Vough, Extension agronomist, M-C-P, and Donald W. Schwartz, Extension agricultural agent, Washington County.

"Water Quality Improvement Programs," Norman A. Burg, supervisor, Anne Arundel County Soil Conservation District (former chief, Soil Conservation Service, USDA).

The last three topics will be aired twice, in consecutive 45-minute breakout sessions, providing opportunity to hear two of the three sessions.

Coale and Meisinger will describe new developments in the Pre-sidedress Soil Nitrate Test (PSNT) for conservation tillage systems. They note that, if used properly, PSNT can save farmers the cost of nitrogen side-dressing for corn when adequate levels of residual fertilizer are present. Thus, it can be a useful nutrient management tool.

Vough and Schwartz will report on winter grazing of rye and other small grains as a way that Mid-Atlantic area farmers can cut feed costs, increase livestock income and qualify for federal cost-sharing payments for erosion-controlling cover crops.

Mid-Atlantic area farmers have not capitalized sufficiently on their regional advantage in beef cattle production, Vough declares.

He notes that the Mid-Atlantic area has milder winters than the Midwest. Thus, a big potential appears to exist for "back-grounding" stockers and feeders.

In addition, Vough says, Mid-Atlantic area cattle producers have better quality summer forage available than do their counterparts in the southeast. So a potential for more cattle finishing operations in the Mid-Atlantic area also seems possible.

Printed summaries on the day's presentations will be contained in a Proceedings booklet, available free at the conference.

October Index Prices Decline

The Index of Prices Received by Maryland farmers fell three points to 132 for October from September 1993. However, the Index was five points above October 1992 according to the Maryland Department of Agriculture. Price decreases for soybeans, cattle and calves more than offset improvement for hogs, grains, milk and eggs. U.S. crop prices grained slightly.

English Saddle Fitter To Give Free Fitting Clinic

A free saddle fitting clinic with Andy Foster will be held December 9 at 7:30 p.m. at Jeri Swartzentruber's indoor arena in Pleasant Valley.

Those attending will learn how to properly fit a saddle to their horse and how saddles may be interfering with their horse's performance. Participants may feel free to bring their own saddle to the clinic.

Foster is a noted English saddlemaker who began his career 23 years ago with Eldonian Saddlery. He achieved the highest position of shop manager before leaving to start his own saddlery workshop.

Working in conjunction with one of Nuno Oliveira's most noted pupils, the Lauriche classical dressage saddle was perfected. The Lauriche name carries a full line of saddles for all disciplines. In addition, Foster has worked with a noted back specialist to tailor the saddle for specific horse and rider needs.

Eight of Foster's saddles were used in the '92 Olympic games, two U.S. Olympic team members, Michael Plumb and Jill Walton, competed in his cross country saddles.

Views On USDA Overhaul By FB

As a key House Agriculture subcommittee began writing legislation (H.R. 3171) to reorganize USDA, Farm Bureau weighed in with specific recommendations that would make the overhaul more acceptable to farmers.

Richard Newpher, executive director of the American Farm Bureau Federation's Washington office, said the overriding goal of reorganization should be to better serve farmers and other beneficiaries of USDA programs.

Newpher said the proposed structure for state, county and area committees should be changed so they are composed exclusively of elected farmer representatives. He said five-member committees of farmers elected by their peers would provide better "responsiveness to local conditions."

Newpher also called for expanded jurisdiction for the proposed national appeals division. That department would review decisions affecting participants in USDA programs. Newpher said the division also should review decisions made by the proposed Natural Resources Conservation Service (NRCS) and the federal crop insurance programs.

Newpher said the NRCS should remain separate from the new Farm Service Agency. "The technical expertise and the cooperative and mutually beneficial relationships between farmers and soil conservation specialists should be maintained."

Farm Bureau opposes the proposal to merge or transfer USDA agencies to other governmental departments. Newpher said the plan to merge to the Grain Inspection Service and Packers and Stockyards Administration is ill-advised, saying they have two distinct functions. The concentration occurring in the meat packing industry should give pause to any structural changes within USDA that might compromise P&S's ability to closely monitor the agency at this critical time," he said.

Newpher also said the Extension Service, slated to be put in the new Agricultural Research and Education Service, must remain part of the land grant college system.

Nominees Named For County ASCS Committee Election

Kenneth R. Bachtel, chairperson, has announced the slate of nominees for the upcoming Garrett ASCS committee election.

The candidates are as follows: Carolyn J. Ganoe, who operates a dairy farm in the Finzel area; Dorsey R. Guard, with a dairy farm at Friendsville; and Dennis W. Margroff, with beef and fresh vegetables in the Cove area, Accident.

The candidates were nominated by local farmers. Bachtel commended producers for their participation in making these nominations.

The ASCS committee election will be conducted by mail from November 28 until December 6. Eligible ASCS voters will receive a confidential ballot in the mail with instructions on how to vote for the candidate of their choice and return the ballot to the county office. Voters may also get ballots at the Garrett County ASCS Office located in the Courthouse in Oakland.

ASCS encourages nominations of qualified women and minorities because historically they have not been well represented on ASCS committees. Participation in ASCS elections is open to all farmers regardless of race, religion, sex, color, age, handicap, marital status, or national origin.

Every year nine billion trees are seeded on farmland.

EPA Urged To Extend Clean Air Deadline

Farm Bureau urged the Environmental Protection Agency to extend the deadline for states to submit their plans for compliance with the Clean Air Act. The act is set to go into effect in 1995.

EPA, up to this point, has remained firm on its Nov. 15 deadline for states to opt-in on the reformulated gasoline (RFG) programs or choose to follow the Reid Vapor Pressure (RVP) standards that could include ethanol-blended fuels. Ethanol-blended fuels currently fall outside RFG provisions due to a one-pound waiver requirement.

Agriculture has argued that ethanol-blended fuels will achieve required emissions reductions if the evaluation process takes into account the reactivity of ozone-forming emissions. EPA currently measures only the total mass of emissions rather than their ozone-creating potential. The agriculture community is awaiting EPA's Dec. 15 announcement that will determine the department's role for ethanol in the final plan.

American Farm Bureau Federation President Dean Kleckner, in a letter to EPA Administrator Carol Browner, said it is unfair to require states to choose a course of action without the guidance of her agency.

We are concerned that the RFG program under current development will provide little, if any, real relief for ethanol-blended fuels," Kleckner said. "Asking states to make the choice between opting in to an RFG program that is yet undefined or choosing a lowered RVP program that does not preclude the use of ethanol is unfair."

Kleckner told Browner the agriculture community is

Browner was reminded of Congress' intent that ethanol-blended fuels take on a prominent role in the RFG plan.

"We believe that Congress fully intended for ethanol to be treated fairly when it enacted the Clean Air Act Amendments of 1990," Kleckner said. "We strongly urge you to remove any regulatory obstacles that stand in the way of informed decision-making with respect to the role of ethanol in clean air programs."

President Clinton pointed out the need to have ethanol play a vital role in the nation's future energy plan during his presidential campaign. He noted the benefits of an American-produced renewable energy source.

"I'll bring EPA and the Agriculture Department and all the people together," Clinton said. "We will do the research we need to hammer out the difficulties here. We'll resolve it and we'll use ethanol as a part of our nation's energy security future."

Without ethanol's inclusion in EPA's RFG programs, the only remaining option would be to rewrite certain provisions of the Clean Air Act that specifically include an ethanol-based oxygenate stipulation.

Corn Production Down 40 Percent

Corn for grain in Maryland is expected to average 85 bushels per acre compared to the record high 124 bushels in 1992. If November 1 expectations are realized, farmers will harvest 410,000 acres of corn and production will total 34.9 million bushels, 40 percent less than the 58.3 million bushels harvested in the state during 1992.

Below normal rainfall and very hot temperatures during critical development periods adversely affected the outlook for corn, soybeans, and other crops. The reduction in corn yields due to harsh weather is expected to be magnified by a smaller acreage harvested this year contributing to a crop less than two thirds the size of last year's crop.

Soybean production, forecast at 17.1 million bushels, will be off five percent from 1992 if expectations are realized. Soybeans are expected to average 30 bushels per acre and 570,000 acres are forecast for harvest statewide.

U.S. corn for grain production is forecast for 1993 to be 6.50 billion bushels, 31 percent below last year's record high production. The U.S. average yield per acre is forecast at 103.1 bushels per acre, down 28.3 bushels from a year ago. Soybean production forecast of the 1993 crop is 1.83 billion bushels, down 18 percent from the previous year. Yield is expected to be 32.7 bushels per acre, down 4.9 percent from 1992.

Farm Bureau Says NAFTA Opens "New Trade Chapter"

The House action approving the North American Free Trade Agreement begins a "new chapter in trade relations, built on mutual respect and cooperation," according to American Farm Bureau Federation President Dean Kleckner.

"This new accord will bring ever-increasing benefits to agriculture and will strengthen the U.S. economy," he said.

The House approved the trade agreement last week by a vote of 234-200. "The American Farm Bureau Federation offers its appreciation to the members of Congress who took a step forward in supporting this very important trade agreement," Kleckner said. "Their courageous vote may some day be noted as the most important action affecting agriculture in this decade."

Kleckner noted that many sectors in agriculture will benefit. Overall, farm exports to Mexico will increase by over $2 billion a year above what would have normally occurred, he said. The big winners will include wheat, corn, soybeans, beef, pork, dairy, dry edible beans and countless retail food products, the farm leader said.

"We are confident agricultural trade with Mexico will expand at a greater rate than ever before," Kleckner said. "We are pleased that the message that expanded trade creates jobs finally got through."

"The approval of NAFTA will make it much easier to reach a satisfactory resolution of our trade differences with the European Community as we near the Dec. 15 deadline for concluding the Uruguay Round of the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade."

Health Partners Recognized By GCMH Foundation

The Garrett County Memorial Hospital Foundation recently held a health fair to recognize the members of Partners In Health, a program developed through the foundation's Annual Support Committee.

Partners In Health members, comprised of both community residents and hospital employees, have committed to contributing to the hospital foundation a minimum of $100 per family per year. The membership is renewable on an annual basis.

Foundation Director Kathy Greaser, stated, "The purpose of the health fair was to recognize and celebrate the support of our Partners In Health by providing them with a variety of healthy activities and useful information. These members also received updates and information about the hospital purchases that have been made possible through their contributions, directly benefitting the residents of our community."

Equipment purchases made by Garrett Memorial through the foundation's support total $954,000 to date, according to a spokesperson.

The Annual Support Committee had dedicated its 1993 community fund raising efforts toward the purchase of a new colonoscope with video equipment. The colonoscope is a new high-tech flexible tube attached to a microscope and camera which is inserted into the patient to visualize the lower bowel. This procedure allows the physicians to determine if any disease process is present without doing surgery.

The purpose of the An-

PARTNERS IN HEALTH MEMBERS RECOGNIZED - The Garrett County Memorial Hospital (GCMH) Foundation recently held a health fair to recognize the support of its Partners In Health members. Featured at the health fair were blood pressure screenings; equipment delays; vision testing; informational booths on stress management, low fat, low cholesterol, and high fiber diets; back exercises; and lifting techniques. Pictured above, Partner In Health Diane Robeson, right, examines endoscopy equipment displayed at the health fair and shown by Cathy Miles, RN, center, and Betty Frazee, left, both of Garrett Memorial's surgical department. Pictured below, seated, Kelley Nestor, Wellness Together instructor, discusses nutritional tips with George and Ellen Zimmerman, members of Partners In Health.

nual Giving Committee is to create an opportunity for the donor to become a part of the Garrett County Memorial Hospital family," explained Elaine McDonald, committee chairperson. "Becoming a Partner In Health enables an individual to become involved not only in their own personal well-being, but also in the well-being of their community hospital."

Persons needing more information about Partners In Health may call 334-2155, ext. 377.

The Garrett County Crime Solvers organization is currently seeking information on the theft of two tires and wheels.

Two Michelin tires and wheels were removed from a 1992 Ford van on Nov. 2. The van was parked on the lot of Diehl's Ford, located on U.S. Route 40, east of Grantsville. The items have been valued at $500.

Any person with information about this or any other unsolved crime is urged to contact Crime Solvers at 334-1975. Callers do not have to give their names nor appear in court. Rewards of up to $1,000 are available to persons who provide tips that lead to arrests.

First Financial Declares Dividend

The Board of Directors of First Financial Corporation of Western Maryland, on November 17, declared a quarterly cash dividend of $1.00 per share. The dividend will be payable December 31, 1993, to stockholders of record at the close of business December 15, 1993.

First Financial Corporation of Western Maryland (NASDAQ:FFWM) is the holding company of First Federal Savings Bank of Western Maryland. First Federal Savings Bank operates 11 offices in Allegany, Garrett, and Washington counties.

State Plan To Control Substance Abuse, Drug-Related Crime, Violence Released

With over half of Maryland's high school seniors using alcohol and approximately one third consuming five or more drinks on one occasion - "binge drinking" - the Governor's Drug and Alcohol Abuse Commission has targeted underage drinking as one of the most serious problems facing youth in Maryland today.

The 1993 Maryland Drug and Alcohol Abuse Control Plan was released this week and outlines strategies and recommendations for reducing the state's substance abuse and drug-related crime problems. The recommendations will be weighed by the governor as he prepares his legislative package for the 1994 session.

Commission Chairman Judge Joseph A. Ciotola said, "Alcohol is the number one drug of choice for both our young people and adults. It causes more harm and devastation than people can imagine, but until recently hasn't received the same kind of attention as other drugs. The commission is using the strategy of broad-based coalition building that I think is going to have a real impact on this problem."

Emphasizing a preventive approach to substance abuse that is consistent with Governor Schaefer's philosophy of prevention as a long-term solution, the plan acknowledges that real gains in the substance abuse problem will only occur with strategies that have a long-term impact. Judge Ciotola said, "In the long run, it is far less costly in human, social, and fiscal terms to prevent problems before they become full blown than it is to try and repair the damage that substance abuse leaves in its wake. We need to prevent our young people from ever getting harmfully involved in the first place."

The report also details the extent of drug-related crime and violence in Maryland, noting that Maryland ranks 6th behind such states as Florida, New York and California. The expansion of community policing is recommended as one way to help improve the quality of life in Maryland's neighborhoods, along with placing police resources where there is the highest incidence of drug activity and violent crime.

Describing the increase in juvenile crime and violence, the plan suggests diverting high-risk youth into programs that offer support and help at early ages. It also recommends the implementation of programs in school systems to change attitudes and behaviors that contribute to violence.

The 1993 plan is the result of the Commission's Prevention, Education, Health, Crime Control, and Employment Committees and is submitted to Governor Schaefer annually. It also gives a comprehensive look at the nature and extent of substance abuse in Maryland and includes an overview of the growth of drug-related crime in Maryland.

A copy may be obtained by calling the Commission at 410-321-3521.

"Customers Count" Training Session Set For Dec. 12 at GCC Campus

Plans have been finalized for "Customers Count" training, to be held December 12 at Garrett Community College. The free, three-hour session is jointly sponsored by the Deep Creek Lake Business Association, the Small Business Development Center of GCC, and the Restaurant Association of Maryland.

This is the first of a series of activities for tourist related businesses developed by the Quality Team of the Deep Creek Lake Business Association. The mission of the Quality Team is to "Promote tourism in Garrett County by supporting the growth of quality customer service among local businesses and organizations." Members of the Quality Team have planned this training for local retail stores, motels and resorts, gift stores, and restaurants, as well as other tourist-related businesses in the county. According to an Association spokesman, it is designed to help equip owners, front-line service employees, and managers with the awareness, skills, and knowledge they need to deliver customer centered services.

This session, which is titled "Outrageous Service: New and Easy Ways to Win Customers," will be led by Kitty Whittington, director of education for the Restaurant Association of Maryland. In addition to have a strong background in restaurant management, Whittington has owned and managed businesses in the retail and hospitality industries. "This training is not just for restaurants," Whittington said. "It will be equally valuable for any tourist-related business."

The morning will consist of "hands on" activities designed to help participants define and deliver quality service. Whittington will focus on the profit-ability factors associated with effective customer service. She will also discuss ways to motivate employees to deliver quality service. She is hoping that many front-line employees will attend the training with their managers.

The Small Business Development Center staff is really excited about this session," stated Sandy Major, coordinator and counselor for the Center, "because effective customer service can give local businesses and our greater business community an important competitive edge. At a time when we increasingly depend on tourist dollars to support the economic growth of Garrett County, it is critical that all local businesses recognize the important role they play in this effort. When tourists come to the Wisp to ski or to the lake for water sports, it's vital that they have positive experiences with all local businesses. The right kind of experiences will make their time here memorable and they'll look forward to returning to our area. Quality customer service that brings customers back can only be delivered when both front line service employees and managers possess skills in customer service. This session will be an excellent opportunity for area businesses to build customer service awareness and start to sharpen the skills of their employees."

The training session will be held from 8:45 a.m. to noon on Thursday, Dec. 12, in the Continuing Education building at the McHenry Campus of GCC. The training is free for all participants and refreshments will be provided by the Deep Creek Lake Business Association at GCC. Those wishing to attend should call Sandy Major at 387-3101 as soon as possible to reserve space.

Gabriele Notes Christmas Tree Safety Guidelines

Maryland State Fire Marshal Rocco J. Gabriele has announced the annual guidelines pertaining to Christmas tree fire safety. These guidelines apply specifically to places of public assembly, education; health care; detention and correctional facilities; hotels, motels and dormitories; and, board and care occupancies.

Gabriele has ordered that natural cut trees shall not be placed in the above types of occupancies. However, living trees in a "balled" condition with roots protected by an earth ball may be permitted provided they are maintained in a fresh condition.

He recommends that all Christmas trees that are to be placed in the above types of occupancies be artificial trees which are labeled or otherwise identified by the manufacturer as being "flame retardant" or "flame resistive."

It has been found by previous experience that commercially available fire retardant treatments are not appropriate nor work effectively for Christmas trees and other Christmas decorations, such as wreaths and garlands.

Some additional recommendations and guidelines

for Christmas tree fire safety are as follows:

*No Christmas trees shall be allowed to obstruct exits or in any way be located in corridors, exit ways or other means of egress.

*Only U.L. listed electrical lights and associated wiring shall be used on Christmas trees and other similar decorations.

*Electrical extension cords shall be restricted in accordance with safe electrical practices and shall not be located in corridors, aisles or other areas where they could be damaged or cause a tripping hazard.

*Electrical lights are prohibited on metal artificial trees because of potential fire and/or electric shock hazard. Instead, the State Fire Marshal recommends spotlights be used for illumination of these type trees.

*Open flames from candles, lanterns and other appliances shall not be located on or near Christmas trees of any type or similar combustible materials.

The above guidelines and requirements will be enforced by the State Fire Marshal as well as local fire prevention bureaus throughout the state during the holiday season, Gabriele said. In those jurisdictions where more stringent requirements apply, the more stringent requirements will be enforced by the local authority having jurisdiction.

In certain instances where circumstances may conflict with the requirements of the state and local fire authority, an evaluation shall be made of the overall situation and appropriate corrective action may be taken as necessary.

The State Fire Marshal is issuing these guidelines so that owners and occupants of these type facilities may take appropriate action to decorate their facilities in accordance with the State Fire Prevention Code for the upcoming holiday season.

New Horizons Slates Career Planning Classes

The New Horizons Program, providing services for single parents and displaced homemakers, and sponsors of The Caring Connection Program, which serves adolescent single parents and pregnant teens, in cooperation with the Continuing Education Division of Garrett Community College, has released its spring schedule for a series of five-week Career Planning classes. The class schedules will be somewhat altered taking into consideration intercession and inclement weather. The schedule is as follows:

A four-week class January 3 through January 28, noon to 3:15 p.m., meeting on Monday, Wednesday, and Friday for three weeks. The final class meets on the fourth Friday only, January 28, at the previously stated time. A five-week class February 7 through March 9, noon to 3:15 p.m., meeting on Monday and Wednesday, with the exception of the third week when class will be held on Tuesday and Wednesday.

A five-week class March 21 through April 20, 9 a.m. to 12:15 p.m., meeting on Monday and Wednesday.

A five-week class April 25 through May 25, 6 p.m. to 9:15 p.m., meeting on Monday and Wednesday. A five-week class May 2 through June 1, 9 a.m. to 12:15 p.m., meeting on Monday and Wednesday, with the exception of the last week when class will be held on Tuesday and Wednesday.

According to a New Horizons spokesman, this career assessment course is designed for students to identify their training needs and to prepare for employment. Topics to be considered include skills assessment, complete with interest testing, career information, resume writing, job applications, job search strategies, and interviewing techniques.

Participants of the New Horizons Program are encouraged to take this class before pursuing other vocational training. Tuition assistance is available to those who qualify for New Horizons. Transportation/child care assistance is also available to income-eligible single parents and displaced homemakers who are part of the New Horizons Program as well as to adolescent single parents and pregnant teens through The Caring Connection.

Interested persons may register for any of the classes through the New Horizons office. Information on eligibility for the program and its services, as well as tuition availability, may be obtained by calling New Horizons at 387-3071 during office hours Monday through Thursday from 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. New Horizons is located at the McHenry Campus of Garrett Community College in the Center for Community and Continuing Education in Room 302.

The New Horizons Program is jointly funded by the Maryland State Department of Education and Garrett Community College. Grant funds in the amount of $45,000, are made available to the program through the Division of Career Technology and Adult Learning, which is 90% of the total program budget, with Garrett Community College contributing an additional $5,200, which is 10% of the total budget. The Caring Connection is 100% funded by Maryland State Department of Education in the amount of $20,000.

Christian Women To Meet Dec. 8

The Christian Women's Club of Oakland will host a luncheon with the theme "Homes That Glow" on Wednesday, December 8, 11:30 a.m. until 1:30 p.m. at the Will O' the Wisp. The club invites all area women to attend this special Christmas luncheon.

The special feature will be "Candlelight & Snowflakes" with Faye Livengood, Party-Lite Candles. The guest speaker will be Felix Gonzalez, of Bittinger.

For registration persons should call Beverly Barb at 387-9112 no later than Dec. 6. A free nursery is provided. The cost of the luncheon is $6.50 per person. All reservations must be honored.

Emergency Funds For Unemployed Are Reactivated

Maryland Department of Economic and Employment Development (DEED) Secretary Mark L. Wasserman has announced that up to 10,000 Marylanders who exhausted their regular state unemployment insurance benefits on or after October 2, 1993, may be eligible for Emergency Unemployment Compensation (EUC) benefits. The EUC program ended on October 2 and was reactivated because of the passage of a federal law extending the program until February 5, 1994.

The extension of the program will provide up to seven weeks of federal benefits to eligible individuals who have exhausted their regular 26 weeks of state unemployment insurance benefits. This is a reduction from the 10 weeks of benefits which were available prior to October 2. Individuals who were receiving EUC benefits prior to October 2 will not be affected by the reduction in the available weeks of benefits.

"Maryland is one of the states that will be able to issue EUC checks to claimants right away," said Secretary Wasserman. "Our automated system will enable us to assist individuals in receiving their benefit payments without delay."

The new legislation does not provide additional federal benefits for people who have already exhausted their EUC benefits.

DEED will notify claimants by mail of their eligibility to file for benefits under the EUC program. Those individuals who are currently receiving benefits under the EUC program will continue to receive them automatically. Those eligible individuals who first filed for EUC after October 2, 1993, pending congressional action to continue the EUC program, will receive their checks within the next week. No action on their part is necessary.

The EUC program is scheduled to end on February 5, 1994. After that date, no new claims will be taken. Individuals who become eligible for EUC benefits on or before January 30, 1994 will be eligible to receive benefits until all benefits are exhausted or until the week ending April 30, 1994, whichever is earlier.

Glimpse Of The Past ...

THE B&O DEPOT in Deer Park served a number of famous people who disembarked trains in the late 1800s and spent time at the Deer Park Hotel, the largest hotel that ever existed in Garrett County. The cupola of the renowned structure can be seen in the upper right of the photo. The depot and hotel have long since disappeared. This photo, on loan by retired Judge

KEEP THE COLD OUT

Now it is getting serious -- the cold wind is blowing and snow cannot be far behind. In spite of our best intentions, it is a rare year that we really are ready for winter. Most of the time we need to see flurries in the air or hear the wind blowing before we get serious about tightening up our home.

If you have been alert all year then you know where cold air infiltrates. If you have just moved or not paid attention to air leaks then this is where to start.

Can you see heat rippling up from your home on a cold day? Then the attic needs insulating. Does your house always seem cold when the wind blows hard? Then doors and windows need sealing and the walls insulated. Despite a good heater, do some parts of the house seem very cold anyway?

There is a draft coming in from the outside. Only a thorough check will tell where cold infiltrates. Do your floors feel cold in the winter? The floor may need insulating or there is a draft in the basement, especially where the sill plates are. Also, your activities and foot covering may have something to do with it. If you have a stairway, does cold air move down the steps? The attic needs insulating. Do your windows fog up with water or frost in the winter? Then they definitely need tightening. Check all of the above if your heating bills are just too high.

Almost every home can be made tighter, even new construction. On especially well-sealed homes ventilation needs to be checked to prevent moisture build-up and mold growth on walls and specifically corners.

How do you seal all those myriad air-leaks? It depends very much on whether the cold leaks in from stationary materials (sill plates) or from movable materials (windows and doors). It also depends on the amount of money you are able to spend. Each year new materials and designs are developed and it is well worth visiting a store to investigate what is available. Even if you cannot buy everything you think is needed, you may get ideas how to improve.

House trailers may have special problems around the foundation. Other than using flashing, tar paper and plastic sheets and other materials to prevent air leaking into the living quarters, it may be remembered that a pile of snow banked over these materials also has insulating properties. Shoveling everything clear will make it colder than leaving the snowdrift against the outside walls. Other than tightening your living quarters, you can dress warmly and eat a healthy diet which will help you tolerate the cold better. Store enough non-perishable foods and water to help you through the few days of being house-bound. Please contact the Red Cross or the Extension Service for information on how to prepare for emergencies. Look in on families with small children and older people, especially if living alone, to make sure they are alright. Hypothermia is a real danger.

For more information on how to stop cold air infiltration and losing warm air from inside the home, please contact Irmgard R. Koscielniak.

THE REPUBLICAN

Fairview Road

Contract SR-06-94

The Maryland State Forest and Park Service is offering for sale the following timber on 56 acres of Compartment #29-A of Savage River State Forest. This sale is estimated to cut 271,781 BD FT of live sawtimber and 41,697 BD FT of dead sawtimber according to the International "Sawkerf" Rule, and 220 cords of hardwood pulpwood, more or less. All timber trees 11" D.B.H. and larger with at least one 16' log to a 8' top D.B.H. with less than 50 percent defect were tallied as sawtimber.

Timber is located on a forest access road off of the west side of Fairview Road, two miles from the intersection with New Germany Road. Timber is offered for sale subject to the following conditions:

1. Timber will be shown at 9:00 a.m. on Monday, December 13, 1993. Anyone interested in seeing this timber may meet at the intersection with New Germany and Fairview Roads.

2. Contract/Bid Forms will be available at the showing or from the Savage River State Forest Headquarters, Rt. 2, Box 63-A, Grantsville, MD 21536 or phone 301-895-5759.

3. A Security Bond in the amount of 10 percent of the bid submitted must be posted upon submission of the bid to the Maryland State Forest and Park Service.

4. The operator must be a registered Forest Product Operator in Maryland for 1994 and hold a Certificate of Erosion and Sediment Control (Green/Gold Card) training to be awarded successful bidding.

5. A Performance Bond in the amount of 10 percent of the bid submitted must be posted upon acceptance of the contract by the State of Maryland. The Security Bond may be applied to cover the Performance Bond.

6. All timber volumes noted in this offering are estimates. Parties bidding on this timber should determine such volumes to their own satisfaction. NO adjustments on the basis of volumes will be made with buyers.

7. Bidder may pay 50 percent of bid price on acceptance of the contract, with the remaining 50 percent payable within 90 calendar days from bid acceptance. If buyer selects this option, the delayed payment must be covered by a payment surety bond in form acceptable to the State.

8. Bids will be received up until 1:00 p.m. on Monday, January 3, 1994.

Brant, Rt. 1, Box 3570, Oakland, MD 21550 and George E. Brant, 413 Olive St., Orville, OH 44667, were on November 18, 1993 appointed personal representatives of the estate of Beulah B. Brant, who died on Nov. 12, 1993, with a will.

Further information can be obtained by reviewing the estate file in the office of the Register of Wills or by contacting the personal representatives or the attorney.

All persons having any objection to the appointment (or to the probate of the decedent's will) shall file their objections with the Register of Wills on or before the 18th day of May, 1994.

Any person having a claim against the decedent must present the claim to the undersigned personal representatives or file it with the Register of Wills with a copy to the undersigned on or before the earlier of the following dates:

(1) Six months from the date of the decedent's death, except if the decedent died before October 1, 1992, nine months from the date of the decedent's death; or

(2) Two months after the personal representatives mail or otherwise deliver to the creditor a copy of this published notice or other written notice, notifying the creditor that the claim will be barred unless the creditor presents the claims within six months from the mailing or other delivery of the notice. A claim not presented or filed on or before that date, or any extension provided by law, is unenforceable thereafter. Claim forms may be obtained from the Register of Wills.
